UN Raiding Unit Regains Positions In 5-Hour Battle

Tanks and Infantry Fight Way Out of Chinese Ambush and Kill 60—Bombers Destroy Vehicles

Seoul, Feb. 24 (AP)—Allied tank and infantry raiders, trapped and virtually surrounded by a Chinese Red ambush, blasted their way back to UN lines on the Korean western front early today after a bitter, five-hour fight.

The confused, heavy fighting thundered until shortly before dawn. The U. S. Eighth Army reported the allied raiding team killed an estimated 60 Communists and wounded at least 40—more than half of the Red force.

The Eighth Army said the fight, which began southeast of Panmunjom, was the most savage of several skirmishes that crackled along the freezing, 155-mile battleline.

Blows Are Made

Night-flying allied bombers hammered new aerial blows against Communist targets before dawn.

B-26 pilots said they destroyed 44 Red vehicles and two locomotives. The bombers also pounded Communist frontline positions.

Eleven B-29 Superforts from Okinawa pummeled a 100-acre Red target five miles south of Wonsan on the northeastern coast, and the Kowan rail yard 25 miles northwest of Wonsan.

Wonsan also took a pounding from the 16-inch guns of the battleship Missouri. The 45,000 ton battlewagon returned to action at dawn after a brief layoff to refuel and take on supplies.

In the bloody western front battle, up to 175 Chinese in quilted uniforms surrounded the allied raiding party shortly after it had occupied an outpost. The allied raiders included about 40 foot soldiers and an undisclosed number of tanks.

Tanks Are Disabled

Withering Communist mortar and machine gun fire pinned down the infantry and disabled two tanks.

A few hours before dawn the raiders broke through the circle of Chinese and smashed their way back to their own lines, bringing one disabled tank with them. The other was recovered later.

Also on the western front, 40 to 60 Communists attacked an allied outpost north of the hook. They forced UN units to withdraw after 45 minutes of close-range fighting.

UN troops also withdrew temporarily from an advance position southeast of Pyongyang on the central front, after a 20 to 30-man Communist grenade attack. An allied counterattack threw the Reds back shortly after.

Eighth army soldiers also beat off 30-50 man Red jabs at two small positions near the Pukhan river on the central front.

The Eighth Army announced 1,747 Communists were killed, wounded or captured in the week of Feb. 15-21.

White House Says Johnson Is Named Acting Chief, IIA

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Dr. Robert L. Johnson, 58-year-old president of Temple University, today was named acting chief of the government's overseas information service.

The White House announcement said President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles had asked Johnson to study the entire information program—which includes the controversial "Voice of America"—and eventually to head it on a permanent basis.

Three hours earlier, Johnson said in an interview that he would make a broad study of the entire overseas information service and that he would give Eisenhower a definite "yes" or "no" answer

Goldstein Is Sent To Clinton Prison

Hudsonian Also Must Pay $2,500 Fine, Tried to Bribe McLaren

Hudson, Feb. 24 (AP)—Taxicab operator Benjamin Goldstein was sentenced today to serve five to 10 years at Clinton Prison at Dannemora for bribing a district-attorney-elect in an effort to obtain tip-offs on gambling raids.

Justice Henry L. Ughetta of state Supreme Court also levied a $2,500 fine against the 55-year-old Goldstein, who was convicted Feb. 11 after trial on an indictment returned by the extraordinary grand jury probing vice in Columbia county.

The maximum sentence he could have received was 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

The jury accused Goldstein of giving John N. McLaren, now district attorney, $100 in December, 1949, and promising more if McLaren would give Goldstein advance notice of gambling raids here.

McLaren testified that he returned the $100 several days later through a third party. No charges have been brought against the district attorney.

No Sympathy Merited

The judge told Goldstein, who has been in partnership in a taxi business here:

"The crime of which you were convicted works on our government like a cancer works on the human body. Nothing in your words, your deeds or your action merit the sympathy of this court."

Attorney R. Monell Herzberg of Hudson announced he would move for a certificate of reasonable doubt to permit an appeal. By agreement of the prosecution, Goldstein will remain in Columbia county jail pending that move.

Says Boy Ran Into Car

Helen Anderson of 203 O'Neil street reported to police at 5:50 p. m. yesterday that she was operating her 1951 sedan on Wiltwyck avenue between Downs and O'Neil streets when James Godwin, 7, of 18 Wiltwyck avenue, who had been standing or sitting on the curb with a box over his head, suddenly darted into the street and into the side of her car. She said that the boy suffered a bloody nose and was taken into the house by his mother.

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower will leave Thursday afternoon for a long week-end of golf at Augusta, Ga.

Clark Blast Made About Red Charge

Far East Leader Says Revived Talk Shows Inability to Cope With Epidemics

Tokyo, Feb. 24 (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark today blasted Communist propagandists for those "fantastic and utterly false charges" about UN germ warfare and angrily accused the Reds of extorting "confessions" from captured Americans.

The UN Far East commander said in a statement the Reds apparently have revived germ warfare charges to hide their failure to cope with expected new epidemics in war-ravaged North Korea.

The blistering denunciation was inspired by renewed germ charges by Red China's official Peiping radio. Sunday the radio sparked its news propaganda drive with an alleged 6,000 word confession by a captured marine pilot. The flier, Col. Frank H. Schwable of Arlington, Va., was quoted as saying the U. S. joint chiefs of staff had ordered a "contamination belt" strewn across Red Korea.

Are Usually Ignored

Allied officials usually ignore such broadcasts. But, declared Clark:

"Lest silence regarding it be misinterpreted in any way, I feel under compulsion to denounce the word-warring Peiping radio's latest attempt to revive the totally baseless and totally discredited allegations that the United Nations command has engaged in so-called germ warfare.

"Instead of the meaningless jargon of pseudo-scientists, it now introduces incredible statements linked with the names of captured American personnel."

By pseudo-scientists, Clark apparently was referring to a group of laymen from Soviet satellite states who visited North Korea last year. The propaganda broadcasts the group reported its findings confirmed the Communist charges. Their methods of "research" and their findings were ridiculed by non-Communist scientists.

Regarding the alleged American "confessions," Clark declared, "whether the statements ever passed the lips of these unfortunate men is doubtful.

Methods 'Too Familiar'

"If they did, however, too familiar are the mind-annihilating methods of the Communists in extorting whatever words they want for there to be any mystery as to how they were fabricated.

"The men themselves are not to blame and they have my deepest sympathy for having been used in this abominable way."

The general undoubtedly meant the mental torture called "brainwashing" used in Communist countries. The victim is subjected to unmerciful questioning, denied sleep, bombarded with threats and given drugs until he reaches a state of mental breakdown.

Clark then told why he feels the Reds are reviving their germ warfare cries:

"The only possible explanation for this broadcast is that the Communists, in anticipation of new outbursts among their miserable people with the spring thaws, must be seeking desperately to conceal their own criminal responsibility for chaotic public health services by making these fantastic and utterly false charges against the United Nations command."

Clark's biting rebuke of the Red charges is not his first, but one of his stiffest. The UN command and the U. S. State Department have long denied any use of germ warfare.

Rice Crop Is Lost

Hong Kong, Feb. 24 (AP)—Letters from missionary sources in Honan Province in northeast China report the late rice crop there was washed out by prolonged rains, resulting in famine in some sections.

Margin Cut Brings Stock Market Flood

Stocks gained as much as $1 to $3 a share at the outside with losses seldom seen. The high speed ticker tape dropped three minutes behind in reporting actual transactions on the floor of the exchange. The acute congestion in executing orders lasted all during the first half hour of trading.

The Federal Reserve Friday announced a reduction of 50 per cent from 75 per cent in the amount of down payment required to purchase securities or sell them short.

Bridges Asks Full Probe of 'Voice' 4-Millions Bid

Senator Questions Wisdom of Project, Suggests Committee Look Into Matter

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R.-N.H.) called today for full investigation of a "Voice of America" request for nearly four million dollars to equip a ship for beaming broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain.

He questioned the technical wisdom of the project and said that as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee he is opposed to granting the money until the "Voice" could demonstrate that it would work.

Bridges suggested that the Senate Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), look into the matter in connection with its probe for waste and subversion in "Voice" operations.

McCarthy said that would be done.

The subcommittee, meanwhile, called another hearing (10:30 AES), closed to the public and to newsmen, in an apparent attempt to determine whether any employes of the "Voice" have Communist ties.

Had Little to Say

McCarthy had little to say about this. He told reporters "conflicting" testimony had been received and would have to be checked further before public hearings could be called.

Meanwhile, Dr. Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple University, said he was offered the job of head of the department's International Information Administration (IIA), which runs the Voice.

Johnson said he agreed to undertake a month-long study of the IIA and then make his decision whether to accept the post. He said in an interview that at the moment he expects to take the job.

As head of IIA, he would replace Dr. Wilson Compton, former president of Washington State College, whose resignation was announced last week.

Protest Is Rejected

Blowout Blamed for Crash

Raymond C. Smith of Phoenicia, justice of the peace of the town of Shandaken, was injured about 3:40 p. m. Monday when a blowout caused his automobile to strike a pole along the Onteora Trail between Shokan and Boiceville, State Police Cpl. Ray Dunn reported. Smith was treated at Kingston Hospital for lacerations and contusions of the head and possible internal injuries, Dunn reported, and was released Monday night. Cpl. Dunn said the pole, carrying a coaxial cable and high tension wires, was severed but the wires did not break. The accident occurred on a curve in front of the home of Justice of the Peace Frank C. Carle of the town of Olive when the right front tire of Justice Smith's automobile blew. (Freeman photo)

Rent Plan Provides Increase For Those Stable Since 1943

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Residential rents that have not risen 15 per cent since 1943 would be permitted to climb that much, under a tentative plan reported to have the approval of Gov. Dewey and GOP leaders.

The sizzling rent issue, the Legislature's prime headache, was discussed extensively Sunday night by the governor and his top advisors.

The closed-door meeting in the executive mansion produced a rash of conflicting reports from usually authoritative sources as to how much the Republican-controlled Senate and Assembly would liberalize present rental restrictions.

One top Republican said no final agreements had been reached.

But several other influential sources said the conferees had agreed, or neared agreement, that all one and two-family houses outside New York city and vacant apartments throughout the state should be de-controlled. They also were reported to have decided that "luxury" apartments in the metropolis should be freed of present restrictions, but there was no final decision, apparently, on what constituted a luxury unit.

The 15 per cent plan was designed to equalize rent levels throughout the state. Many landlords have collected boosts ranging up to 15 per cent through voluntary tenant agreements allowed under the present rent law, which has been in effect since May, 1950. Unless renewed by the Legislature, the law will expire next June 30.

Red Film Is Exposed by Lawmaker

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Rep. Jackson (R.-Calif.) declared today that a motion picture is being filmed "under Communist auspices" at Silver City, N. M., and said it will be "a new weapon for Russia."

Jackson, a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, said in a speech prepared for House delivery that he will do everything in his power to prevent the film, whose title he does not know, from being shown in public theatres.

He said the picture is being made by the Independent Production Corp., and is being financed by the United Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, which was expelled from the CIO several years ago on the ground it was Communist dominated.

Reports of Sequences

"I have received reports of the sequences filmed to date * * * and it depicts exactly what might be expected from a group of Communists engaged in the making of a motion picture," Jackson said.

"This picture is deliberately designed to inflame racial hatreds and to depict the United States of America as the enemy of all colored peoples. If this picture is shown in Latin America, Asia and India, it will do incalculable harm not only to the United States but to the cause of free people everywhere.

"In effect," Jackson continued, "this picture is a new weapon for Russia. For instance, in one sequence, two deputy sheriffs arrest a meek American miner of Mexican descent and proceed to pistol-whip the miner's very young son.

"Another sequence makes it appear that safety regulations in the mines are only for the white people (or 'Anglos' as they are called in that region) and are not for Mexicans or Americans of Mexican descent. The production company of this picture also imported two auto carloads of colored people for the purpose of shooting a scene depicting mob violence."

Backers' Viewpoint

Backers of the production have called it "an historic film" and said "no trade union has ever before attempted to make a feature-length story film."

Clinton Jencks, representative of the mine union, and Paul Jarrico, the film's producers, said in a news interview in New Mexico Feb. 14, that the picture deals with:

"1. The drive of organized labor for recognition; 2. The drive of Mexican-Americans for equality; 3. The drive of women for full participation in union and community life."

Jarrico said distribution in the U. S. will be concentrated on independent exhibits, "art houses" and theatres rented by the distributors to show the film.

In foreign countries, he said, the backers expect "a large Latin-American and European distribution" with the aid of dubbing or subtitles.

Jackson said the AFL-Hollywood Film Council has condemned

Peace or War Is Big Issue With Fresh U. S. Appointees

Pearson Says Korea Dominates Thinking of Diplomats; They Face Vishinsky

Peace or continued war in Korea was the major issue still facing the 60-nation organization—as it was when the Assembly ended the first half of its session last December.

Assembly President Lester B. Pearson of Canada confirmed over the weekend that Korea dominated the thinking of all diplomats gathered at the UN's New York headquarters.

Pearson was scheduled to open the second half of the session in a full Assembly meeting expected to include only the formalities of getting started.

Facing President Eisenhower's new UN team was Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, who has attended every regular session of the Assembly since 1947.

Vishinsky arrived here yesterday aboard the liner Queen Mary. As usual, he gave no hint of what he plans to do about Korea and other hot issues facing the Assembly. Observers were positive that he would touch off some fireworks before the Assembly gets too far along in a session it hopes to wind up in about six weeks.

Vishinsky brought with him a battery of four other Iron Curtain foreign ministers—Vaclav David of Czechoslovakia, Stanislaw Skrzesezewski of Poland, Kuzma Kisselev of White Russia and A. M. Baranovsky of the Ukraine. All but David have appeared at the UN before.

Just as cryptic about strategy plans was the U. S. delegation headed by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

A newcomer to the UN halls was Lodge's new deputy, James J. Wadsworth, who was swofn in yesterday at the U. S. Mission. He later told newsmen he was getting briefed fully on American policy but could not comment on it.

The only UN veteran on Lodge's team is Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, who resigned as did all other members of the old delegation but agreed to stay on during this session of the Assembly.

Senator Would 'Feel' Public Sentiment on Issue as Aid to Highways

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—A 2-cent increase in the state's 4-cent gasoline tax has been proposed to Senate Republicans by GOP Leader Arthur H. Wicks to sound out public sentiment.

Wicks outlined the idea at a meeting of the Senate majority last night, but he emphasized that the proposal was his own

McKay Asks Bill Favoring States

Gives Eisenhower Views Regarding Tidelands; Cites No Mileage

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay recommended today that Congress enact legislation promptly giving the states clear title to the submerged coastal lands. Some of the lands are rich in oil and their ownership long has been in controversy.

Setting forth the Eisenhower administration's views, McKay told the Senate Interior committee he was not indorsing any specific bill.

But he said there should be prompt enactment of legislation dealing not only with the lands beneath the marginal seas but also in the continental shelf out beyond the states' seaward boundaries.

McKay did not state any specific mileage but it is generally argued that these offshore state boundaries are three miles out to sea in all states except Texas and the Gulf of Florida. Those states claim 10½ miles because of conditions under which they joined the Union.

Essence of Remarks

McKay's recommendations came down to this: That the states should have the oil wealth from under the seas out to their "historic boundaries" and that the federal government should have any recovered from beyond those boundaries.

Referring to the oil and gas deposits in the offshore lands, McKay said:

"I believe that the national de-

Ulster Heights Man Dies at Hospital Of Gunshot Wound

John Lauber, 47, of Ulster Heights died at Kingston Hospital at 7:45 a. m. today. He had been a patient at the hospital since February 18, when he was critically injured by a gunshot wound in the head.

Lauber's death will call for a coroner's investigation along with that the state police have been conducting in an attempt to determine whether the shooting was accidental. Troopers had previously announced that the wound was self inflicted.

Lauber was discovered Wednesday night lying critically hurt beside the milk shed on his farm at Ulster Heights, state police reported. He was clutching a .22 calibre single shot rifle, troopers said, which he had kept in the milk shed for the purpose of shooting rats.

Body of Man Is Discovered Near Greenfield Park Dam

The body of an unidentified man was found Monday afternoon in the water at the foot of a 35-foot dam in the Greenfield Park area near Ellenville.

State police of the Ellenville station said the body was spotted by two Brooklyn men about 2:30 p. m.

The body was lying face down about in the center of the dam wash, troopers said. His back was coated with ice, according to the report.

Dr. Charles Rosenstock, coroner, ordered an autopsy performed by Dr. Herbert Derman, director of the Kingston laboratory.

Authorities estimated the man was in the water approximately three weeks. He was described as about five feet, eight inches tall, 180 pounds and between 65 and 70 years of age.

The body was clad in winter underwear, dungarees, shoes and overshoes, troopers said. A navy blue suit coat and brown sweater were found in the water nearby. No papers or other identification were found.

Dr. Rosenstock said death apparently was due to drowning. No evidence of violence was found, troopers said.

The body was taken to the Pulling Funeral Home while attempts to make an identification were made, but were without success. Certain remnants were sent to the state police laboratory in a further try to make an identification.

The dam beneath which the body was found forms a man-made lake at the Windsor Lake Hotel at Greenfield Park and crosses the Beerkill creek.

(State police this morning ruled out the possibility that the man may have been Frederick Reis, 82, reported missing since January 28 from his home at 331 East Chester street. Reis, who is five feet, nine inches tall, weighs 105 pounds.)

Conference Is Needed, He Believes

Senator Says Portions of Agreements Vital to U. S.—Ferguson Is for Probe

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R.-Wis.) today urged consultation with U. S. allies before Congress acts on a resolution to denounce Russia for abusing wartime pacts to enslave other peoples.

Amid fresh demands for an all-out investigation of once-secret World War 2 agreements, Wiley called the Senate Foreign Relations Committee together to discuss the draft of a resolution submitted by President Eisenhower.

This resolution would have Congress join with the President in denouncing interpretations of international agreements "which have been perverted to bring about the subjugation of free peoples."

The full committee, which Wiley heads, may assign the resolution to a subcommittee headed by Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio).

Urges Stronger Language

Wiley himself has urged "strengthening" of the language but he told interviewers he does not think this should be done until Britain, France and other allies are consulted about the effect of any resolution suggesting repudiation by the U. S. of the understandings reached at Yalta and other conferences.

"There are some parts of these agreements that are very important to us," Wiley said without elaboration.

Sen. Ferguson (R.-Mich.) said he thinks the foreign relations group should make "a full dress investigation" of the origin of the agreements, calling any officials left in the State Department who participated in their making.

"It is not enough simply to reject Russia's interpretation of the agreements," he declared.

Similar to Others

Ferguson's view was similar to that of many Republicans who for years have called for repudiation of the Tehran and Yalta Agreements. They contend the agreements permitted Russia to communize a great part of Europe and gain a strong foothold in Asia. Most Democrats contend the fault lies not with the original agreements, but with Russia's failure to live up to them.

Eisenhower first spoke of rejecting secret agreements. Later he spoke of parts of agreements. But the resolution which he submitted to Congress would repudiate nothing except what it calls Russia's perversion of the agreements.

Democratic Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, in a statement last night, called for unanimous Senate approval of the draft resolution—an action he said would "serve to notify mankind that Americans are united against Soviet tyranny."

'No Trace,' He Says

"There is in the President's resolution no trace of the partisanship that could lead to discord and disunity," Johnson said. "Congress should be able to respond in the same high spirit."

Rep. Vorys (R.-Ohio) told the House yesterday in introducing a draft resolution following the lines recommended by the President that the secret agreements "cannot now be repealed by Congress."

"What is needed now is to look to the future," Vorys said. "Neither Congress nor the President is going to repudiate any governmental commitments now in force. Certainly we have no commitments based on repudiation of agreements by the Soviets.

"The President's declaration avoids details but sticks to fundamental principles on which all our people can agree. It strikes squarely at the evils that followed Yalta. Our own people, our friends and our enemies will understand this declaration."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The position of the treasury Feb. 19: Net budget receipts $389,564,665.88; budget expenditures, $280,149,753.94; cash balance, $6,345,500,529.31; customs receipts for month, $30,278,025.15; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $36,172,874,300.24; budget expenditures fiscal year, $46,081,261,696.94; budget deficit, $9,908,387,396.70; total debt, $267,441,137,043.05; increase over previous day, $7,273,972.14; gold assets, $22,721,798,920.60.

Says Boy Ran Into Car

Helen Anderson of 203 O'Neil street reported to police at 5:50 p. m. yesterday that she was operating her 1951 sedan on Wiltwyck avenue between Downs and O'Neil streets when James Godwin, 7, of 18 Wiltwyck avenue, who had been standing or sitting on the curb with a box over his head, suddenly darted into the street and into the side of her car. She said that the boy suffered a bloody nose and was taken into the house by his mother.

President to Play Golf

Rice Crop Is Lost

Hong Kong, Feb. 24 (AP)—Letters from missionary sources in Honan Province in northeast China report the late rice crop there was washed out by prolonged rains, resulting in famine in some sections.

Margin Cut Brings Stock Market Flood

Stocks gained as much as $1 to $3 a share at the outside with losses seldom seen. The high speed ticker tape dropped three minutes behind in reporting actual transactions on the floor of the exchange. The acute congestion in executing orders lasted all during the first half hour of trading.

The Federal Reserve Friday announced a reduction of 50 per cent from 75 per cent in the amount of down payment required to purchase securities or sell them short.

Bridges Asks Full Probe of 'Voice' 4-Millions Bid

Senator Questions Wisdom of Project, Suggests Committee Look Into Matter

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R.-N.H.) called today for full investigation of a "Voice of America" request for nearly four million dollars to equip a ship for beaming broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain.

He questioned the technical wisdom of the project and said that as chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee he is opposed to granting the money until the "Voice" could demonstrate that it would work.

Bridges suggested that the Senate Investigations Subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), look into the matter in connection with its probe for waste and subversion in "Voice" operations.

McCarthy said that would be done.

The subcommittee, meanwhile, called another hearing (10:30 AES), closed to the public and to newsmen, in an apparent attempt to determine whether any employes of the "Voice" have Communist ties.

Had Little to Say

McCarthy had little to say about this. He told reporters "conflicting" testimony had been received and would have to be checked further before public hearings could be called.

Meanwhile, Dr. Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple University, said he was offered the job of head of the department's International Information Administration (IIA), which runs the Voice.

Johnson said he agreed to undertake a month-long study of the IIA and then make his decision whether to accept the post. He said in an interview that at the moment he expects to take the job.

As head of IIA, he would replace Dr. Wilson Compton, former president of Washington State College, whose resignation was announced last week.

Protest Is Rejected

Red Film Is Exposed by Lawmaker

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Rep. Jackson (R.-Calif.) declared today that a motion picture is being filmed "under Communist auspices" at Silver City, N. M., and said it will be "a new weapon for Russia."

Jackson, a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, said in a speech prepared for House delivery that he will do everything in his power to prevent the film, whose title he does not know, from being shown in public theatres.

He said the picture is being made by the Independent Production Corp., and is being financed by the United Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, which was expelled from the CIO several years ago on the ground it was Communist dominated.

Reports of Sequences

"I have received reports of the sequences filmed to date * * * and it depicts exactly what might be expected from a group of Communists engaged in the making of a motion picture," Jackson said.

"This picture is deliberately designed to inflame racial hatreds and to depict the United States of America as the enemy of all colored peoples. If this picture is shown in Latin America, Asia and India, it will do incalculable harm not only to the United States but to the cause of free people everywhere.

"In effect," Jackson continued, "this picture is a new weapon for Russia. For instance, in one sequence, two deputy sheriffs arrest a meek American miner of Mexican descent and proceed to pistol-whip the miner's very young son.

"Another sequence makes it appear that safety regulations in the mines are only for the white people (or 'Anglos' as they are called in that region) and are not for Mexicans or Americans of Mexican descent. The production company of this picture also imported two auto carloads of colored people for the purpose of shooting a scene depicting mob violence."

Backers' Viewpoint

Backers of the production have called it "an historic film" and said "no trade union has ever before attempted to make a feature-length story film."

Clinton Jencks, representative of the mine union, and Paul Jarrico, the film's producers, said in a news interview in New Mexico Feb. 14, that the picture deals with:

"1. The drive of organized labor for recognition; 2. The drive of Mexican-Americans for equality; 3. The drive of women for full participation in union and community life."

Jarrico said distribution in the U. S. will be concentrated on independent exhibits, "art houses" and theatres rented by the distributors to show the film.

In foreign countries, he said, the backers expect "a large Latin-American and European distribution" with the aid of dubbing or subtitles.

Jackson said the AFL-Hollywood Film Council has condemned

Peace or continued war in Korea was the major issue still facing the 60-nation organization —as it was when the Assembly ended the first half of its session last December.

Assembly President Lester B. Pearson of Canada confirmed over the weekend that Korea dominated the thinking of all diplomats gathered at the UN's New York headquarters.

Pearson was scheduled to open the second half of the session in a full Assembly meeting expected to include only the formalities of getting started.

Facing President Eisenhower's new UN team was Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, who has attended every regular session of the Assembly since 1947.

Vishinsky arrived here yesterday aboard the liner Queen Mary. As usual, he gave no hint of what he plans to do about Korea and other hot issues facing the Assembly. Observers were positive that he would touch off some fireworks before the Assembly gets too far along in a session it hopes to wind up in about six weeks.

Vishinsky brought with him a battery of four other Iron Curtain foreign ministers—Vaclav David of Czechoslovakia, Stanislaw Skrzesezewski of Poland, Kuzma Kisselev of White Russia and A. M. Baranovsky of the Ukraine. All but David have appeared at the UN before.

Just as cryptic about strategy plans was the U. S. delegation headed by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

A newcomer to the UN halls was Lodge's new deputy, James J. Wadsworth, who was swofn in yesterday at the U. S. Mission. He later told newsmen he was getting briefed fully on American policy but could not comment on it.

The only UN veteran on Lodge's team is Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, who resigned as did all other members of the old delegation but agreed to stay on during this session of the Assembly.

Two-Cent Gas Boost Proposed by Wicks

Senator Would 'Feel' Public Sentiment on Issue as Aid to Highways

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—A 2-cent increase in the state's 4-cent gasoline tax has been proposed to Senate Republicans by GOP Leader Arthur H. Wicks to sound out public sentiment.

Wicks outlined the idea at a meeting of the Senate majority last night, but he emphasized that the proposal was his own

Gives Eisenhower Views Regarding Tidelands; Cites No Mileage

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay recommended today that Congress enact legislation promptly giving the states clear title to the submerged coastal lands. Some of the lands are rich in oil and their ownership long has been in controversy.

Setting forth the Eisenhower administration's views, McKay told the Senate Interior committee he was not indorsing any specific bill.

But he said there should be prompt enactment of legislation dealing not only with the lands beneath the marginal seas but also in the continental shelf out beyond the states' seaward boundaries.

McKay did not state any specific mileage but it is generally argued that these offshore state boundaries are three miles out to sea in all states except Texas and the Gulf of Florida. Those states claim 10½ miles because of conditions under which they joined the Union.

Essence of Remarks

McKay's recommendations came down to this: That the states should have the oil wealth from under the seas out to their "historic boundaries" and that the federal government should have any recovered from beyond those boundaries.

Referring to the oil and gas deposits in the offshore lands, McKay said:

Ulster Heights Man Dies at Hospital Of Gunshot Wound

John Lauber, 47, of Ulster Heights died at Kingston Hospital at 7:45 a. m. today. He had been a patient at the hospital since February 18, when he was critically injured by a gunshot wound in the head.

Lauber's death will call for a coroner's investigation along with that the state police have been conducting in an attempt to determine whether the shooting was accidental. Troopers had previously announced that the wound was self inflicted.

Lauber was discovered Wednesday night lying critically hurt beside the milk shed on his farm at Ulster Heights, state police reported. He was clutching a .22 calibre single shot rifle, troopers said, which he had kept in the milk shed for the purpose of shooting rats.

Conference Is Needed, He Believes

Senator Says Portions of Agreements Vital to U. S.—Ferguson Is for Probe

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R.-Wis.) today urged consultation with U. S. allies before Congress acts on a resolution to denounce Russia for abusing wartime pacts to enslave other peoples.

Amid fresh demands for an all-out investigation of once-secret World War 2 agreements, Wiley called the Senate Foreign Relations Committee together to discuss the draft of a resolution submitted by President Eisenhower.

This resolution would have Congress join with the President in denouncing interpretations of international agreements "which have been perverted to bring about the subjugation of free peoples."

The full committee, which Wiley heads, may assign the resolution to a subcommittee headed by Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio).

Urges Stronger Language

Wiley himself has urged "strengthening" of the language but he told interviewers he does not think this should be done until Britain, France and other allies are consulted about the effect of any resolution suggesting repudiation by the U. S. of the understandings reached at Yalta and other conferences.

"There are some parts of these agreements that are very important to us," Wiley said without elaboration.

Sen. Ferguson (R.-Mich.) said he thinks the foreign relations group should make "a full dress investigation" of the origin of the agreements, calling any officials left in the State Department who participated in their making.

Similar to Others

Ferguson's view was similar to that of many Republicans who for years have called for repudiation of the Tehran and Yalta Agreements. They contend the agreements permitted Russia to communize a great part of Europe and gain a strong foothold in Asia. Most Democrats contend the fault lies not with the original agreements, but with Russia's failure to live up to them.

Eisenhower first spoke of rejecting secret agreements. Later he spoke of parts of agreements. But the resolution which he submitted to Congress would repudiate nothing except what it calls Russia's perversion of the agreements.

Democratic Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, in a statement last night, called for unanimous Senate approval of the draft resolution—an action he said would "serve to notify mankind that Americans are united against Soviet tyranny."

'No Trace,' He Says

"There is in the President's resolution no trace of the partisanship that could lead to discord and disunity," Johnson said. "Congress should be able to respond in the same high spirit."

Rep. Vorys (R.-Ohio) told the House yesterday in introducing a draft resolution following the lines recommended by the President that the secret agreements "cannot now be repealed by Congress."

"What is needed now is to look to the future," Vorys said. "Neither Congress nor the President is going to repudiate any governmental commitments now in force. Certainly we have no commitments based on repudiation of agreements by the Soviets.

"The President's declaration avoids details but sticks to fundamental principles on which all our people can agree. It strikes squarely at the evils that followed Yalta. Our own people, our friends and our enemies will understand this declaration."

Blowout Blamed for Crash

Raymond C. Smith of Phoenicia, justice of the peace of the town of Shandaken, was injured about 3:40 p. m. Monday when a blowout caused his automobile to strike a pole along the Onteora Trail between Shokan and Boiceville, State Police Cpl. Ray Dunn reported. Smith was treated at Kingston Hospital for lacerations and contusions of the head and possible internal injuries, Dunn reported, and was released Monday night. Cpl. Dunn said the pole, carrying a coaxial cable and high tension wires, was severed but the wires did not break. The accident occurred on a curve in front of the home of Justice of the Peace Frank C. Carle of the town of Olive when the right front tire of Justice Smith's automobile blew. (Freeman photo)

Rent Plan Provides Increase For Those Stable Since 1943

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Residential rents that have not risen 15 per cent since 1943 would be permitted to climb that much, under a tentative plan reported to have the approval of Gov. Dewey and GOP leaders.

The sizzling rent issue, the Legislature's prime headache, was discussed extensively Sunday night by the governor and his top advisors.

The closed-door meeting in the executive mansion produced a rash of conflicting reports from usually authoritative sources as to how much the Republican-controlled Senate and Assembly would liberalize present rental restrictions.

One top Republican said no final agreements had been reached.

But several other influential sources said the conferees had agreed, or neared agreement, that all one and two-family houses outside New York city and vacant apartments throughout the state should be de-controlled. They also were reported to have decided that "luxury" apartments in the metropolis should be freed of present restrictions, but there was no final decision, apparently, on what constituted a luxury unit.

The 15 per cent plan was designed to equalize rent levels throughout the state. Many landlords have collected boosts ranging up to 15 per cent through voluntary tenant agreements allowed under the present rent law, which has been in effect since May, 1950. Unless renewed by the Legislature, the law will expire next June 30.

Body of Man Is Discovered Near Greenfield Park Dam

The body of an unidentified man was found Monday afternoon in the water at the foot of a 35-foot dam in the Greenfield Park area near Ellenville.

State police of the Ellenville station said the body was spotted by two Brooklyn men about 2:30 p. m.

The body was lying face down about in the center of the dam wash, troopers said. His back was coated with ice, according to the report.

Dr. Charles Rosenstock, coroner, ordered an autopsy performed by Dr. Herbert Derman, director of the Kingston laboratory.

Authorities estimated the man was in the water approximately three weeks. He was described as about five feet, eight inches tall, 180 pounds and between 65 and 70 years of age.

The body was clad in winter underwear, dungarees, shoes and overshoes, troopers said. A navy blue suit coat and brown sweater were found in the water nearby. No papers or other identification were found.

Dr. Rosenstock said death apparently was due to drowning. No evidence of violence was found, troopers said.

The body was taken to the Pulling Funeral Home while attempts to make an identification were made, but were without success. Certain remnants were sent to the state police laboratory in a further try to make an identification.

The dam beneath which the body was found forms a man-made lake at the Windsor Lake Hotel at Greenfield Park and crosses the Beerkill creek.

(State police this morning ruled out the possibility that the man may have been Frederick Reis, 82, reported missing since January 28 from his home at 331 East Chester street. Reis, who is five feet, nine inches tall, weighs 105 pounds.)

Von Rundstedt, 77, Dies in Hannover

Hannover, Germany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt, a stern Prussian officer who directed the big German offensive against U. S. lines in the Battle of the Bulge, died at his home here today. He was 77.

The German offensive in the winter of 1944 was a dying gasp of Hitler's armed forces and the third great battle of the war in which von Rundstedt had the guiding hand. The others were the envelopment of Poland's main army in 1939 and Dunkerque.

Von Rundstedt's armored divisions ripped 50 miles through American defenses in the Battle of the Bulge and stalled just three miles short of the offensive's goal, splitting the United States and British armies at the Meuse river.

The strike was made in snow and freezing weather that had limited allied aerial observation of the German buildup.

Allies Agreed on Strategy

Allied strategists agreed the field marshal had found the weakest part of the allied lines in striking into the Ardenes. His troops reinvaded both Belgium and Luxembourg to establish the Bulge. It finally collapsed in January, 1945. Strikes by allied war planes and Gen. Eisenhower's ground forces smashed the German bid and sent von Rundstedt's troops back toward the Ruhr and eventual defeat.

Von Rundstedt was among the high German officers long held by the allies on suspicion of war crimes, but he never came to trial.

Captured by the American troops May 2, 1945, he was kept in British custody for four years, mostly under hospital care.

He was released in Hamburg in May, 1949. British authorities dropped charges against him because he was considered too ill to stand trial.

Dies on Notice Of Sister's Death

Overcome by announcement of her sister's death, Mrs. William Kearns of Salem, Va., died last night, it was reported today by the Ernest A. Kelly Funeral Home.

Mrs. Kearns, who had been in ill health, succumbed after hearing of the death of Miss Anna M. Ellsworth, 74, whose funeral will be held from the Kelly Funeral Home, 111 West Chester street, Wednesday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Port Ewen Cemetery.

Mrs. Kearns, formerly Edith Ellsworth, and Miss Ellsworth were daughters of the late Herman and Sarah Kay Ellsworth of Port Ewen. Miss Ellsworth died Sunday after a brief illness.

Is Found Dead in Pool

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—James Baillie, 56, of 84-46 Jamaica avenue, Woodhaven, Queens, a plumber at the Park Sheraton Hotel, was found dead at the bottom of the hotel's swimming pool today. Police Captain John E. Langton brought the body to the surface but efforts to revive him failed. The plumber was believed to have fallen into the pool while working near its edge. An autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death. Baillie had worked at the hotel for nine months.

Auto Is Struck

An automobile owned and driven by Christopher Bennett of the Bronx was struck in the rear by a following automobile when Bennett applied his brakes to avoid a hole in the roadway on the Onteora Trail between Phoenicia and Mt. Tremper about 3:30 p. m. Monday, Bennett told Cpl. Ray Dunn of the state police. Dunn said the second automobile involved was driven by Arthur Schwartz of East Orange, N. J. No personal injuries were reported and no arrest was made.

Sees No Cutbacks Ahead

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles was quoted as telling senators today that he sees nothing in the international picture to raise hope there can be drastic cutbacks in defense and foreign aid spending. Pressure from Russia "is as great as it ever has been and is expected to continue," Dulles was reported as saying.

Child Health Day

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower today proclaimed May 1 as National Child Health Day. In his proclamation, he urged all organizations and individuals interested in the well being of children "to increase their understanding of the emotional, social and spiritual growth of children."

Vice Trial Opens To Press, Public

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—Minot (Mickey) Jelke's vice trial lawyers sought to show today that Pat Ward—who accuses the playboy of inducing her to become a prostitute—was keeping late hours long before she met Jelke.

The defense began its attack on the character of the state's chief witness after General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente threw the trial open to press and public.

Valente barred the courtroom while the prosecution presented its case because, he said, the testimony was too lurid for public consumption.

In a motion today the defense sought a mistrial because the prosecution phase was closed, but Valente dismissed it.

Jelke is charged with inducing the 19-year old Miss Ward and two other young women to become prostitutes and then taking some of Miss Ward's earnings.

Says It Doesn't Pay

Leeds, England, Feb. 24 (AP)—The oldest burgler in Britain announced today, at the age of 100, that what people have been telling him for years is true. Crime doesn't pay. Bob Wooldridge, wizened but alert, gave this as his firm conclusion after 82 misspent years of house-prowling and prison cells. He observed his 100th birthday last night in an old folk's home. The first time old Bob ran afoul of the law was in 1866, when he was 13. Nabbed stealing coal sacks in Newcastle, he was sentenced to a dozen strokes with a birch rod.

Lack of Snow Reported

Camp Drum, Feb. 24 (AP)—Paratroopers, grounded by lack of snow to cushion their landings, open a counteroffensive on foot today in the first mass tactical operation of exercise snowstorm. The 82nd Airborne Division planned a ground assault to block the escape route of the "aggressor" forces, which theoretically have invaded northern New York from Canada. Instead of dropping chutists behind enemy lines, 24 air force C-119 transports were to drop bundles to simulate the paratrooper attack in the three-day mock warfare.

The Joiners

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

The regular stated conclave of Rondout Commandery 52, will be held at the Masonic Temple, 31 Albany avenue, at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. There will be a full form opening and the Order of the Red Cross will be conferred on a class of candidates by Past Commander Richard W. Heffernan. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Catskills' 'Shiners Can Take It Easy

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Moonshiners in the Catskill hills can take it easy. "The federals" have been grounded and have no government cars to drive while raiding stills.

Director Riley J. Ratterree of the Albany office of the Internal Revenue Bureau said today that all government cars in his 22-county district have been garaged because of lack of funds.

He added that he is trying to divert other department funds to automobile upkeep. Meanwhile agents are being reimbursed for mileage in the use of their private cars.

In another "economy" move Ratterree has prohibited all out-going telephone calls, both business and personal, in eight revenue offices in Bronx and Westchester counties.

Held for Grand Jury

Arraigned on Monday night before Police Justice Benjamin Lonstein of Ellenville, Herbert Watley, 29 of 4 Brodhead street waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action on a second degree assault charge. Bail was set at $1,000. Watley was arrested by Officer Arthur Mantone of the Ellenville police as a result of a reported fight on a village street corner Saturday midnight in which two men suffered knife slashes. Neither victim was hospitalized.

Reynolds, Mantle Agree

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 24 (AP)—The New York Yankees announced today that pitcher Allie Reynolds and outfielder Mickey Mantle had agreed to baseball contract terms for the 1953 season. The signing reduced the Yankees' list of unsigned players to 10. There was no official announcement of the figures but reports were that Reynolds will draw $38,000 for the year and young Mantle will get $18,000.

Assistance Approved

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today unanimously approved a bill continuing government assistance to servicesmen's dependent's until July 1, 1955. The law, expiring April 30, provides for government payments of $51.30 to $96.90 a month, according to rank and number of dependents, to supplement family pay allotments ranging between $40 and $80.

Morton Is Suspended

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The State Department today suspended the chief of its Voice of America broadcasting division. It said he disregarded an order forbidding use of material from Communist and fellow traveler writers. The official was Alfred H. Morton, chief of the International Broadcasting Service, at New York.

Denies Wedding Bells

Hollywood, Feb. 24 (AP)—There won't be any wedding bells for Gloria Swanson, she says. Told of a report that she is going to wed Lewis L. Bredin, sportsman and former member of the Michigan Racing Commission, Miss Swanson told a reporter today: "I am not going to marry anyone. They have me marrying people all over the country"

Manville Denied License

Skyscrapers Stifle City

Philadelphia (AP)—Lewis Mumford, author, critic and city planner, advised this city not to follow the bad example of his native New York city in building skyscrapers. "New York," he warned, "is slowly stifling to death from tall buildings that take up all the room and cause paralysis and congestion. The pattern cities must follow in the future if they are to survive are low buildings constructed on generous portions of land and containing not more than 100 people to an acre."

Chain of Flame

London (AP)—British Boy Scouts will hail the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II by lighting up a nationwide chain of flaming beacons. They will be touched off simultaneously at night across the country on high points and where possible within sight of each other. The scouts forged a similar chain of 1,775 beacons on May 6, 1935, to celebrate the jubilee of King George V.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—The stock market raced ahead today under the spur of lower margin requirements.

The initial forward surge swamped the tape, and the ticker was as much as three minutes late in reporting floor transactions during the first half hour of trading.

Gains ranged up to around 3 points at the best as trading enthusiasm mounted. When the first rush ended, however, prices started backing down from their best. The majority of stocks showed plus signs in the fractions and a handful of leading issues were up from 1 to 2 points.

The Federal Reserve reduced to 50 per cent from 75 per cent the amount of cash required as a down payment on the purchase or short sale of stocks.

Railroads, steels and motors were by far the most popular major divisions. The best gains also were shown there along with coppers, aircrafts, and some radio-television issues. The retreat from the best prices was uniform with a few individual exceptions that resisted the easier tone.

Higher prices were paid for such issues as Bethlehem Steel, Seaboard Railroad, Missouri Pacific Preferred, Southern Railway, Chrysler, Studebaker, Kennecott Copper, American Smelting, Montgomery Ward, Pan American World Airways, Paramount Pictures, Allied Chemical, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Radio Corp.

To Deliver Lenten Service Tomorrow

The second in a series of midweek lenten vespers will be held at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers streets, on Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, will continue the lenten series on the general theme, Who is this Saviour, with a meditation on the topic, Christ, Man of Courage. Incidental music for vespers will be played by Mrs. Lester Decker at the organ and will include Herzlich Lieb hab Ich Dich, O Herr and Lamentation, both by Karg-Elert. The choir will present the anthem, O Lord Most Holy, by Abt under the direction of Leonard Stine.

The congregation will unite in a special litany on the Seven Last Words of Christ prepared from the historic prayers of the church for the lenten season. The congregation welcomes guest worshippers at these services. The senior choir will rehearse immediately following the close of vespers.

Theatre Is Emptied As Smoke Gets Into Air Conditioning

The Kingston Fire Department was notified at 9:30 p. m. yesterday by Fire Commissioner Harold S. Van Bramer that the Kingston Theatre on Wall street was full of smoke and an engine was dispatched from the Wiltwyck Station by Deputy Chief Harold Sanford.

When Engine 3 arrived at the theatre, it was reported, the building was full of smoke and the doors open. A representative of Newcombe Oil Company checked the furnace and reported the burner was running low on oil and that smoke was backing out of the burner into the oil room and getting into the air conditioning system.

The show was held up about 20 minutes until the theatre could be cleared of smoke. Patrons were reported to have gone out quietly.

The GOP Senate chief said today he had offered the plan as a "feeler" so that members could sound out sentiment in their home districts.

Would Bring 50 Millions

A 2-cent increase would bring the state about 50 million dollars a year in additional revenue. Wicks proposed that it all be earmarked for highway and parkway construction.

The state now has about 90 million dollars available in state and federal funds for highway and parkway construction during the coming fiscal year.

In addition to the present 4-cent a gallon state tax on gasoline, motorists now pay a 2-cent federal levy.

fense will be best served by getting more active production from these submerged lands and that it is equally important, therefore, that the Congress should in the same legislation establish a procedure by which development may go forward on all of the lands in the continental shelf outside of a line marking the historical boundaries of the several states with all of the revenues to 'go the nation as a whole."

Likes Piano Music

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower told a White House visitor today he likes piano music and good bass voice singing. Howard Mitchell, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra said the President expressed those preferences in accepting a season ticket for the orchestra's forthcoming programs.

Cashin Still Ill, Court Recesses; Fromer Sits Friday

Although County Judge John M. Cashin has been discharged from the Benedictine Hospital, he is not well enough to continue the February term of court, and this morning jurors and court officers were excused.

Deputy County Clerk Ward Tongue said that Friday at 10 a. m., Judge Paul Fromer of Greene county would hold a session of court here to take care of criminal matters prior to concluding the month's term.

The next trial term of Ulster county court will be held in April.

Judge Cashin suffered a severe attack of influenza and was a patient at the Benedictine for more than a week, and although he is convalescing satisfactorily at his home, his physician has advised against any activity that might bring about a relapse.

Mrs. Cashin was also a patient at the hospital, while the judge was there, she having been stricken with the flu previous to his attack.

Immanuel Lutheran To Hold Lent Service

The second in a series of lenten meditations will be held at Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livingston street at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Ernest L. Witte will preach on the theme, A Penitent and Christ. The second portion of the History of the Passion of Jesus Christ will be read. The children's choir will be heard in a seasonal chorale and the organist, Russell Schmidt, will give a brief recital before the service. The public is invited.

Says They Seek Popularity

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—A New York professor told Senate investigators today that Communist teachers do greater damage outside the classrooms than in them. He said they mask their true beliefs and try to win popularity among the students. The witness was Dr. William H. Withers, professor of economics and contemporary civilization at Queens College. He said the Communist policy in infiltrating schools and colleges is to shun social study classes and concentrate an "currying favor" with students in other activities.

Will Try for Record

Los Angeles, Feb. 24 (AP)—Actor Jimmy Stewart's sleek F-51 Mustang, the Thunderbird, and his pilot, Joe De Bona, are poised today for a new west-east transcontinental flight record attempt. De Bona awaits only a telephone call from Ralph Meeker, American Airlines chief meteorologist and an authority on winds aloft. When Meeker gives the word that the winds are favorable, De Bona will take off from Los Angeles International Airport for LaGuardia Field, New York.

Von Rundstedt, 77, Dies in Hannover

Hannover, Germany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt, a stern Prussian officer who directed the big German offensive against U. S. lines in the Battle of the Bulge, died at his home here today. He was 77.

The German offensive in the winter of 1944 was a dying gasp of Hitler's armed forces and the third great battle of the war in which von Rundstedt had the guiding hand. The others were the envelopment of Poland's main army in 1939 and Dunkerque.

Von Rundstedt's armored divisions ripped 50 miles through American defenses in the Battle of the Bulge and stalled just three miles short of the offensive's goal, splitting the United States and British armies at the Meuse river.

The strike was made in snow and freezing weather that had limited allied aerial observation of the German buildup.

Allies Agreed on Strategy

Allied strategists agreed the field marshal had found the weakest part of the allied lines in striking into the Ardenes. His troops reinvaded both Belgium and Luxembourg to establish the Bulge. It finally collapsed in January, 1945. Strikes by allied war planes and Gen. Eisenhower's ground forces smashed the German bid and sent von Rundstedt's troops back toward the Ruhr and eventual defeat.

Von Rundstedt was among the high German officers long held by the allies on suspicion of war crimes, but he never came to trial.

Captured by the American troops May 2, 1945, he was kept in British custody for four years, mostly under hospital care.

He was released in Hamburg in May, 1949. British authorities dropped charges against him because he was considered too ill to stand trial.

Marvin VanWagnen

Marvin VanWagnen of Rosendale died Sunday at the home of Walter Kampe at The Clove, RD High Falls. Mr. VanWagnen was born in Rosendale, son of the late Simon and Christina Davis VanWagnen. He ran a farm there until 14 months ago. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Leila Holmes of Poughkeepsie. Funeral services will be held at the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main street, Rosendale, 2 p. m. Wednesday with burial in the Rosendale Plains Cemetery.

Theodore Gildenstern

Theodore Gildenstern of 120 Broadway, for many years a gate tender on the West Shore Division of the New York Central Railroad, died early today. Funeral services will be held at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, at 2 p. m. Thursday with burial in Montrepose Cemetery. Surviving are his widow; a son, Edward of Kingston; a granddaughter, three great-grandchildren, four nephews and a niece. He attended Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Josephine G. Miller

Funeral services for Mrs. Josephine Cromie Miller, widow of the Rev. Rennetts C. Miller, were held Monday morning at the Sweet and Keyser Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue, with the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Montrepose Cemetery. Sunday evening members of the Kingston Townsend Club No. 1, of which Mrs. Miller was a founder and charter member, visited the funeral home and conducted ritualistic services.

John Patrick Tobin

Funeral services for John Patrick Tobin were held Monday morning from the Francis J. McCardle Funeral Home, 99 Henry street, thence to St. Joseph's Church where a high Mass of requiem was held for the repose of his soul by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly. The Rev. John D. Simmons served as deacon and the Rev. James J. Keating as subdeacon. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir under the direction of Mrs. Frank Rafferty. Many called at the funeral home to extend condolence, among whom was the Rev. James J. Keating who Sunday evening led those assembled in the recitation of the Rosary. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Keating pronounced final absolution. Bearers were Joseph McAuliffe, Joseph A. McAuliffe, James McAuliffe, Francis McAuliffe, Patrick Daly and Charles Daly.

Rachel L. McC. Horton

Rachel Louise McCausland Horton of 31 Maple avenue, Ellenville, died Sunday at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, after a long illness. Mrs. Horton was born in Kingston, daughter of the late James and Emma Hardenburgh McCausland. She married Henry Horton, a distinguished character actor, in 1904. Mr. Horton died 12 years ago. Since 1934 Mrs. Horton had lived in Ellenville after having spent many years at Maplewood. She was a music teacher and a private music tutor, following a very successful stage career. She studied music under the best masters here and abroad. She was a member of the Dutch Reformed Church of Ellenville, the Women's Council of the church, and a member of the Garden Club and Women's Club of Ellenville. She was also a past president, past secretary and past state program chairman for the New York State Federation of Music Clubs. Surviving is a cousin, Mrs. Ora Anthony of Greenwich. Private funeral services were to be held at 2 p. m. today at the Pulling Funeral Home with burial in the Fantinekill Cemetery.

Mrs. Kearns, who had been in ill health, succumbed after hearing of the death of Miss Anna M. Ellsworth, 74, whose funeral will be held from the Kelly Funeral Home, 111 West Chester street, Wednesday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Port Ewen Cemetery.

Mrs. Kearns, formerly Edith Ellsworth, and Miss Ellsworth were daughters of the late Herman and Sarah Kay Ellsworth of Port Ewen. Miss Ellsworth died Sunday after a brief illness.

Is Found Dead in Pool

Auto Is Struck

An automobile owned and driven by Christopher Bennett of the Bronx was struck in the rear by a following automobile when Bennett applied his brakes to avoid a hole in the roadway on the Onteora Trail between Phoenicia and Mt. Tremper about 3:30 p. m. Monday, Bennett told Cpl. Ray Dunn of the state police. Dunn said the second automobile involved was driven by Arthur Schwartz of East Orange, N. J. No personal injuries were reported and no arrest was made.

Sees No Cutbacks Ahead

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles was quoted as telling senators today that he sees nothing in the international picture to raise hope there can be drastic cutbacks in defense and foreign aid spending. Pressure from Russia "is as great as it ever has been and is expected to continue," Dulles was reported as saying.

Child Health Day

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower today proclaimed May 1 as National Child Health Day. In his proclamation, he urged all organizations and individuals interested in the well being of children "to increase their understanding of the emotional, social and spiritual growth of children."

Vice Trial Opens To Press, Public

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—Minot (Mickey) Jelke's vice trial lawyers sought to show today that Pat Ward—who accuses the playboy of inducing her to become a prostitute—was keeping late hours long before she met Jelke.

The defense began its attack on the character of the state's chief witness after General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente threw the trial open to press and public.

Valente barred the courtroom while the prosecution presented its case because, he said, the testimony was too lurid for public consumption.

In a motion today the defense sought a mistrial because the prosecution phase was closed, but Valente dismissed it.

Jelke is charged with inducing the 19-year old Miss Ward and two other young women to become prostitutes and then taking some of Miss Ward's earnings.

Says It Doesn't Pay

Leeds, England, Feb. 24 (AP)—The oldest burgler in Britain announced today, at the age of 100, that what people have been telling him for years is true. Crime doesn't pay. Bob Wooldridge, wizened but alert, gave this as his firm conclusion after 82 misspent years of house-prowling and prison cells. He observed his 100th birthday last night in an old folk's home. The first time old Bob ran afoul of the law was in 1866, when he was 13. Nabbed stealing coal sacks in Newcastle, he was sentenced to a dozen strokes with a birch rod.

Lack of Snow Reported

Camp Drum, Feb. 24 (AP)—Paratroopers, grounded by lack of snow to cushion their landings, open a counteroffensive on foot today in the first mass tactical operation of exercise snowstorm. The 82nd Airborne Division planned a ground assault to block the escape route of the "aggressor" forces, which theoretically have invaded northern New York from Canada. Instead of dropping chutists behind enemy lines, 24 air force C-119 transports were to drop bundles to simulate the paratrooper attack in the three-day mock warfare.

The Joiners

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

The regular stated conclave of Rondout Commandery 52, will be held at the Masonic Temple, 31 Albany avenue, at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. There will be a full form opening and the Order of the Red Cross will be conferred on a class of candidates by Past Commander Richard W. Heffernan. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Catskills' 'Shiners Can Take It Easy

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Moonshiners in the Catskill hills can take it easy. "The federals" have been grounded and have no government cars to drive while raiding stills.

Director Riley J. Ratterree of the Albany office of the Internal Revenue Bureau said today that all government cars in his 22-county district have been garaged because of lack of funds.

He added that he is trying to divert other department funds to automobile upkeep. Meanwhile agents are being reimbursed for mileage in the use of their private cars.

In another "economy" move Ratterree has prohibited all out-going telephone calls, both business and personal, in eight revenue offices in Bronx and Westchester counties.

Held for Grand Jury

Arraigned on Monday night before Police Justice Benjamin Lonstein of Ellenville, Herbert Watley, 29 of 4 Brodhead street waived examination and was ordered held for grand jury action on a second degree assault charge. Bail was set at $1,000. Watley was arrested by Officer Arthur Mantone of the Ellenville police as a result of a reported fight on a village street corner Saturday midnight in which two men suffered knife slashes. Neither victim was hospitalized.

Reynolds, Mantle Agree

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 24 (AP)—The New York Yankees announced today that pitcher Allie Reynolds and outfielder Mickey Mantle had agreed to baseball contract terms for the 1953 season. The signing reduced the Yankees' list of unsigned players to 10. There was no official announcement of the figures but reports were that Reynolds will draw $38,000 for the year and young Mantle will get $18,000.

Assistance Approved

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today unanimously approved a bill continuing government assistance to servicesmen's dependent's until July 1, 1955. The law, expiring April 30, provides for government payments of $51.30 to $96.90 a month, according to rank and number of dependents, to supplement family pay allotments ranging between $40 and $80.

Morton Is Suspended

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The State Department today suspended the chief of its Voice of America broadcasting division. It said he disregarded an order forbidding use of material from Communist and fellow traveler writers. The official was Alfred H. Morton, chief of the International Broadcasting Service, at New York.

Denies Wedding Bells

Hollywood, Feb. 24 (AP)—There won't be any wedding bells for Gloria Swanson, she says. Told of a report that she is going to wed Lewis L. Bredin, sportsman and former member of the Michigan Racing Commission, Miss Swanson told a reporter today: "I am not going to marry anyone. They have me marrying people all over the country"

Manville Denied License

Skyscrapers Stifle City

Philadelphia (AP)—Lewis Mumford, author, critic and city planner, advised this city not to follow the bad example of his native New York city in building skyscrapers. "New York," he warned, "is slowly stifling to death from tall buildings that take up all the room and cause paralysis and congestion. The pattern cities must follow in the future if they are to survive are low buildings constructed on generous portions of land and containing not more than 100 people to an acre."

Chain of Flame

London (AP)—British Boy Scouts will hail the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II by lighting up a nationwide chain of flaming beacons. They will be touched off simultaneously at night across the country on high points and where possible within sight of each other. The scouts forged a similar chain of 1,775 beacons on May 6, 1935, to celebrate the jubilee of King George V.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—The stock market raced ahead today under the spur of lower margin requirements.

The initial forward surge swamped the tape, and the ticker was as much as three minutes late in reporting floor transactions during the first half hour of trading.

Gains ranged up to around 3 points at the best as trading enthusiasm mounted. When the first rush ended, however, prices started backing down from their best. The majority of stocks showed plus signs in the fractions and a handful of leading issues were up from 1 to 2 points.

The Federal Reserve reduced to 50 per cent from 75 per cent the amount of cash required as a down payment on the purchase or short sale of stocks.

Railroads, steels and motors were by far the most popular major divisions. The best gains also were shown there along with coppers, aircrafts, and some radio-television issues. The retreat from the best prices was uniform with a few individual exceptions that resisted the easier tone.

Higher prices were paid for such issues as Bethlehem Steel, Seaboard Railroad, Missouri Pacific Preferred, Southern Railway, Chrysler, Studebaker, Kennecott Copper, American Smelting, Montgomery Ward, Pan American World Airways, Paramount Pictures, Allied Chemical, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Texas Pacific Land Trust, and Radio Corp.

To Deliver Lenten Service Tomorrow

The second in a series of midweek lenten vespers will be held at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers streets, on Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, will continue the lenten series on the general theme, Who is this Saviour, with a meditation on the topic, Christ, Man of Courage. Incidental music for vespers will be played by Mrs. Lester Decker at the organ and will include Herzlich Lieb hab Ich Dich, O Herr and Lamentation, both by Karg-Elert. The choir will present the anthem, O Lord Most Holy, by Abt under the direction of Leonard Stine.

The congregation will unite in a special litany on the Seven Last Words of Christ prepared from the historic prayers of the church for the lenten season. The congregation welcomes guest worshippers at these services. The senior choir will rehearse immediately following the close of vespers.

Theatre Is Emptied As Smoke Gets Into Air Conditioning

The Kingston Fire Department was notified at 9:30 p. m. yesterday by Fire Commissioner Harold S. Van Bramer that the Kingston Theatre on Wall street was full of smoke and an engine was dispatched from the Wiltwyck Station by Deputy Chief Harold Sanford.

When Engine 3 arrived at the theatre, it was reported, the building was full of smoke and the doors open. A representative of Newcombe Oil Company checked the furnace and reported the burner was running low on oil and that smoke was backing out of the burner into the oil room and getting into the air conditioning system.

The show was held up about 20 minutes until the theatre could be cleared of smoke. Patrons were reported to have gone out quietly.

Would Bring 50 Millions

A 2-cent increase would bring the state about 50 million dollars a year in additional revenue. Wicks proposed that it all be earmarked for highway and parkway construction.

The state now has about 90 million dollars available in state and federal funds for highway and parkway construction during the coming fiscal year.

In addition to the present 4-cent a gallon state tax on gasoline, motorists now pay a 2-cent federal levy.

Likes Piano Music

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower told a White House visitor today he likes piano music and good bass voice singing. Howard Mitchell, conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra said the President expressed those preferences in accepting a season ticket for the orchestra's forthcoming programs.

Cashin Still Ill, Court Recesses; Fromer Sits Friday

Although County Judge John M. Cashin has been discharged from the Benedictine Hospital, he is not well enough to continue the February term of court, and this morning jurors and court officers were excused.

Deputy County Clerk Ward Tongue said that Friday at 10 a. m., Judge Paul Fromer of Greene county would hold a session of court here to take care of criminal matters prior to concluding the month's term.

The next trial term of Ulster county court will be held in April.

Judge Cashin suffered a severe attack of influenza and was a patient at the Benedictine for more than a week, and although he is convalescing satisfactorily at his home, his physician has advised against any activity that might bring about a relapse.

Mrs. Cashin was also a patient at the hospital, while the judge was there, she having been stricken with the flu previous to his attack.

Immanuel Lutheran To Hold Lent Service

The second in a series of lenten meditations will be held at Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livingston street at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Ernest L. Witte will preach on the theme, A Penitent and Christ. The second portion of the History of the Passion of Jesus Christ will be read. The children's choir will be heard in a seasonal chorale and the organist, Russell Schmidt, will give a brief recital before the service. The public is invited.

Says They Seek Popularity

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—A New York professor told Senate investigators today that Communist teachers do greater damage outside the classrooms than in them. He said they mask their true beliefs and try to win popularity among the students. The witness was Dr. William H. Withers, professor of economics and contemporary civilization at Queens College. He said the Communist policy in infiltrating schools and colleges is to shun social study classes and concentrate an "currying favor" with students in other activities.

Will Try for Record

Los Angeles, Feb. 24 (AP)—Actor Jimmy Stewart's sleek F-51 Mustang, the Thunderbird, and his pilot, Joe De Bona, are poised today for a new west-east transcontinental flight record attempt. De Bona awaits only a telephone call from Ralph Meeker, American Airlines chief meteorologist and an authority on winds aloft. When Meeker gives the word that the winds are favorable, De Bona will take off from Los Angeles International Airport for LaGuardia Field, New York.

Mental Fugitive Kills His Estranged Wife

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—A mental institution fugitive fatally stabbed his estranged pregnant wife last night and then whispered words of tenderness and sorrow over her corpse, police said.

Police said they found 29-year-old Clifton Cockerham talking to the body of his wife, Doris, 22, when they arrived in the East Side apartment where she lived with her mother who was seriously wounded in the affray.

"You're beautiful; I'm sorry I killed you," police quoted Cockerham as muttering as he bent over the bed on which his wife's body rested.

Cockerham's mother-in-law, Mrs. Ida Burns, 43, told police that Cockerham suddenly appeared in the apartment and started slashing at the wife he married last June after a one-week courtship. Mrs. Burns received her wounds as she sought to shield her daughter.

Police said Cockerham, a hotel worker from Paris, Texas, was reported missing on Feb. 19 from Kings Park State Hospital, where he had been a patient since Dec. 5.

He was taken to a police station in hysterical condition and early today was booked on homicide and felonious assault charges.

Bills Go to Governor

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Bills to permit Canadian and other non-citizen doctors to hold public health posts permanently instead of only during emergency shortages was sent to Gov. Dewey today. Final legislative approval came last night in the Assembly. The 105-38 vote crossed party lines. The State Health Department bills, passed by the Senate last week, were introduced by Mrs. Genesta M. Strong, Republican assemblywoman from Nassau county. Canadian doctors frequently fill state and local health jobs when there is a shortage of American applicants.

Lane Denies Truth to Reports Staff Has Gangster Tieins

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane says there is no truth to reports that members of his staff possibly had links with underworld characters.

Lane said in a statement last night:

"My record for vigorous and unrelenting prosecution, not only of underworld characters, but of crime, corruption, treason, espionage and of Communists who would plot to overthrow our government by force and violence, speaks for itself on the question of whether I have conducted my office with propriety and in accordance with the highest standard of legal ethics."

Lane said that since he took office 16 months ago his staff has prosecuted 1,600 cases and won 98.6 per cent convictions.

He noted particularly his prosecution of Frank Costello whom he called the "reputed underworld kingpin whom nobody else was able to convict." Costello is serving an 18-month federal term for contempt of the U. S. Senate Crime Committee.

Of Costello Case

Lane said of the Costello case: "This should be ample proof of the influence which underworld characters have with members of my prosecution staff."

Lane said he would take immediate action if he found any evidence of ties between his staff and the underworld.

A House judiciary subcommittee has announced its investigation of Justice Department activities in several cities will include reports that members of Lane's staff had associated with underworld characters. Also on the probe list, the committee said, was a report that the Justice and State Departments interfered with a federal grand jury in New York investigating the loyalty of Americans employed by the United Nations.

Lane Is Democrat

Lane is a Democrat. The House Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.), has tentatively scheduled hearings to start here Friday.

Commenting on the grand jury probe of the loyalty of UN employes, Lane noted in his statement that he had testified before a House committee last December that he knew of no attempted interference with a presentment (statement) the jury filed in court. The presentment charged Communist infiltration among some American employes of the UN.

Lane answered charges by several of the grand jurors that government officials attempted to hold back the presentment. He said he had letters from about two-thirds of the jury members, who "not only branded as false any suggestion of interference, but have reiterated their praise of me for my advice, assistance and cooperation in making such a presentment possible."

6 Billion Dollars?
Yes, Buster, that's a bill you inherit. It's the cost to date of government power — federal-government-in-the-electric-business — the money put out for electric power plants, electric lines and all that goes with them.

Big Baby, Eh?
You bet. Government power has grown like a giant. It's 35 times bigger than it was 20 years ago. In money, that's a big chunk of the whole U. S. debt. Just paying interest on it costs Americans over $150 million a year.

Who Gets Nicked?
Well, your parents do. And everyone else. In the taxes they pay on food, clothing, smokes, income — even baby powder. That means that everybody's taxes help pay the electric bills of the people served by government power.

Is This Necessary?
Not a bit. Most people get electric service from an independent electric light and power company. They pay for what they use, and at low rates—for electricity is a real bargain. And no one else has to pay part of their bills.

Why Can't Somebody...?
Do something about it? Everybody can. By objecting to any more unnecessary government power projects, and helping Congress resist those who want a $45 billion tax-supported federal monopoly of electricity.

I'll Yell Bloody Murder!
Even better than that, Sonny. Encourage your family to help get the federal government out of all business as much as possible, so you won't grow up to be just a helpless subject of a socialist nation.

Mental Fugitive Kills His Estranged Wife

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—A mental institution fugitive fatally stabbed his estranged pregnant wife last night and then whispered words of tenderness and sorrow over her corpse, police said.

Police said they found 29-year-old Clifton Cockerham talking to the body of his wife, Doris, 22, when they arrived in the East Side apartment where she lived with her mother who was seriously wounded in the affray.

"You're beautiful; I'm sorry I killed you," police quoted Cockerham as muttering as he bent over the bed on which his wife's body rested.

Cockerham's mother-in-law, Mrs. Ida Burns, 43, told police that Cockerham suddenly appeared in the apartment and started slashing at the wife he married last June after a one-week courtship. Mrs. Burns received her wounds as she sought to shield her daughter.

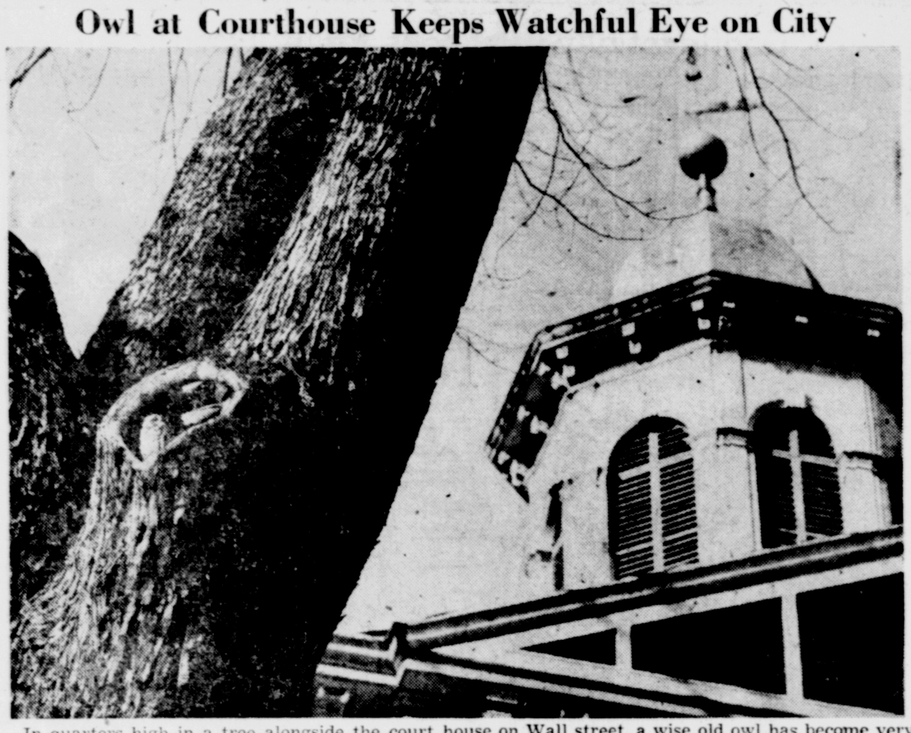

Police said Cockerham, a hotel worker from Paris, Texas, was reported missing on Feb. 19 from Kings Park State Hospital, where he had been a patient since Dec. 5.

He was taken to a police station in hysterical condition and early today was booked on homicide and felonious assault charges.

Bills Go to Governor

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—Bills to permit Canadian and other non-citizen doctors to hold public health posts permanently instead of only during emergency shortages was sent to Gov. Dewey today. Final legislative approval came last night in the Assembly. The 105-38 vote crossed party lines. The State Health Department bills, passed by the Senate last week, were introduced by Mrs. Genesta M. Strong, Republican assemblywoman from Nassau county. Canadian doctors frequently fill state and local health jobs when there is a shortage of American applicants.

Lane Denies Truth to Reports Staff Has Gangster Tieins

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane says there is no truth to reports that members of his staff possibly had links with underworld characters.

Lane said in a statement last night:

"My record for vigorous and unrelenting prosecution, not only of underworld characters, but of crime, corruption, treason, espionage and of Communists who would plot to overthrow our government by force and violence, speaks for itself on the question of whether I have conducted my office with propriety and in accordance with the highest standard of legal ethics."

Lane said that since he took office 16 months ago his staff has prosecuted 1,600 cases and won 98.6 per cent convictions.

He noted particularly his prosecution of Frank Costello whom he called the "reputed underworld kingpin whom nobody else was able to convict." Costello is serving an 18-month federal term for contempt of the U. S. Senate Crime Committee.

Of Costello Case

Lane said of the Costello case: "This should be ample proof of the influence which underworld characters have with members of my prosecution staff."

Lane said he would take immediate action if he found any evidence of ties between his staff and the underworld.

A House judiciary subcommittee has announced its investigation of Justice Department activities in several cities will include reports that members of Lane's staff had associated with underworld characters. Also on the probe list, the committee said, was a report that the Justice and State Departments interfered with a federal grand jury in New York investigating the loyalty of Americans employed by the United Nations.

Lane Is Democrat

Lane is a Democrat. The House Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.), has tentatively scheduled hearings to start here Friday.

Commenting on the grand jury probe of the loyalty of UN employes, Lane noted in his statement that he had testified before a House committee last December that he knew of no attempted interference with a presentment (statement) the jury filed in court. The presentment charged Communist infiltration among some American employes of the UN.

Lane answered charges by several of the grand jurors that government officials attempted to hold back the presentment. He said he had letters from about two-thirds of the jury members, who "not only branded as false any suggestion of interference, but have reiterated their praise of me for my advice, assistance and cooperation in making such a presentment possible."

6 Billion Dollars?
Yes, Buster, that's a bill you inherit. It's the cost to date of government power — federal-government-in-the-electric-business — the money put out for electric power plants, electric lines and all that goes with them.

Big Baby, Eh?
You bet. Government power has grown like a giant. It's 35 times bigger than it was 20 years ago. In money, that's a big chunk of the whole U. S. debt. Just paying interest on it costs Americans over $150 million a year.

Who Gets Nicked?
Well, your parents do. And everyone else. In the taxes they pay on food, clothing, smokes, income — even baby powder. That means that everybody's taxes help pay the electric bills of the people served by government power.

Is This Necessary?
Not a bit. Most people get electric service from an independent electric light and power company. They pay for what they use, and at low rates — for electricity is a real bargain. And no one else has to pay part of their bills.

Why Can't Somebody...?
Do something about it? Everybody can. By objecting to any more unnecessary government power projects, and helping Congress resist those who want a $45 billion tax-supported federal monopoly of electricity.

I'll Yell Bloody Murder!
Even better than that, Sonny. Encourage your family to help get the federal government out of all business as much as possible, so you won't grow up to be just a helpless subject of a socialist nation.

CARELESS LACK OF VITAL FACTS

Adlai Stevenson's first major speech since his defeat for the presidency was admirable in its generalities of fair-minded opposition and its tone of good-humored sportsmanship. But when it descended to particulars of criticism against the new administration, it often showed a glaring lack of facts.

Stevenson's celebrated sense of humor obviously was not a casualty of the election. He made his little jokes and turned many a happy phrase.

In more sober vein, he pledged constructive opposition to President Eisenhower and the Republican 83rd Congress, and said the government would have Democratic support so long as it worked in the public and the national interest.

He declared, more sensibly than many of his eager followers, that 25 days is too short a span in which to judge a new President. He proposed to bide time and allow the Eisenhower administration full chance to develop its programs.

Despite these fine resolves, however, Stevenson could not resist commenting upon some events since Jan. 20, especially in the foreign field. And here he strayed sadly from the facts.

Secretary of State Dulles' recent blunt warnings to Western Europe on the issue of European unity seemed to Stevenson a sign we have turned to bullying our allies and ignoring their legitimate doubts and fears.

Stevenson apparently felt Dulles' conduct in Europe resembled the "bull in the china shop," and he implied a contrast to Democratic handling of these matters. He seemed to suggest further that much American opinion runs contrary to the Dulles approach.

But the fact is that the overhelming majority of Americans support this new tack, including many Democrats in Congress and many of Stevenson's friends in the State Department.

Furthermore, some evidence exists that Chancellor Adenauer of Germany and one or two French leaders actually requested Dulles to speak bluntly in public. Adenauer now clearly believes the warning may have saved the unity project, and the general feeling in Europe—despite a certain ruffling of feathers—is that it accomplished a good deal.

Stevenson also erred in assuming that other administration moves in the foreign field add up to an ineptly conceived plan for psychological warfare against the Communists. According to those who know what is in the making, much more is afoot than a mere stepped-up propaganda drive.

Possibly we should not be too harsh with Stevenson at this early stage. His White House visit may have filled in the big gaps in his knowledge of present affairs.

GRIM WARNING

It is hard for Americans to imagine bombs falling on their cities. Although it is no longer fashionable to declare oneself an isolationist most people are still influenced psychologically by the oceans which separate us from our enemies. But the Civil Defense Administration said recently that it is now possible for Russia to send out a 400 plane assault on our cities capable of inflicting 11,000,000 casualties in a single day.

The figure sounds incredible. But modern weapons such as the atomic bomb are capable of sowing wholesale destruction in a matter of minutes. Improvements are made in aviation every day and it would be foolish to underestimate our enemies.

The Civil Defense workers more than doubled their number last year but it is still far from being large enough. About 4,000,000 Americans are now enlisted in the Civil Defense Corps. This figure will have to be increased if we are to ensure any measure of preparedness in case an attack should come.

Although original Rembrant pictures are still priced too high for the average family budget it is heartening to hear that T-bone steaks in an Ohio super-market recently sold for 39 cents a pound.

The army has announced that production of ammunition increased last year. The ammunition industry is one which can always be expected to boom.

THE PACT AT YALTA

Any consideration of the cancellation of the secret agreements made at Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam must, as Senator Homer Ferguuson so correctly contends, be premised on a knowledge by Congress of what they were. The people ought to know, too. And the point needs to be made that secret agreements were entered into elsewhere which require inquiry. For instance, is it true that the United States has a secret agreement with Canada to keep the price of newsprint fabulously high in the interests of Canada and to the detriment of the United States? Secret diplomacy breeds suspicion and uncertainty.

Some of the things done at Yalta have become clear by the course of events and by publication in memoirs, books, speeches and casual papers. One of the obvious changes that affected the whole course of events has to do with words. I cite an instance: In the Atlantic Charter, the phrase appears "sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them." To that phrase at Yalta was added "by the aggressor nations." The aggressor nations have been defined as Germany, Italy and Japan. Therefore, by the Yalta agreement, any territories seized by Soviet Russia, not an aggressor nation, could remain seized. It is difficult to understand why Roosevelt and Churchill altogether ignored the nature of the Hitler-Stalin alliance which Hitler, not Stalin, broke. In that alliance, Russia definitely appears as an agggressor.

Yalta took place February 4-11, 1945. By that time, Russia had already seized Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Eastern Finland, Eastern Poland. Also, by that time, Russia was in occupation of Bulgaria, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Hungary. By the use of four words, "by the aggressor nations," Soviet Russia came into possession, by consent of Roosevelt and Churchill, of the vast areas indicated, perhaps 80,000,000 European people. (The United States never recognized the absorption by Russia of the three Baltic states).

How it was possible to define Soviet Russia as a non-aggressor in 1945, it is difficult to understand, but our statesmanship did just that.

Also at Yalta it was agreed to institute the veto in the Security Council of the United Nations when organized. Alger Hiss was Roosevelt's expert at Yalta; Alger Hiss was the State Department official at San Francisco in charge of the organization of the United Nations. There is evidence that the veto was Roosevelt's idea and was presented to the Yalta Conference by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

Another conclusion reached at Yalta was to give to Soviet Russia three votes in the Assembly while all other countries only had one vote each. It was at one stage of the conference proposed that the United States also have three votes, but Roosevelt dropped the idea. At San Francisco, the United States voted to give Soviet Russia the three votes because it had been agreed to at Yalta.

It would also seem that Henry Morgenthau and Averell Harriman had cooked up a scheme to make a huge loan to Soviet Russia. It was to be a loan in the billions. The Russians after 1945 often referred to the promised credits which were not forthcoming and took the position that they had been double-crossed.

It was at Yalta that the stupid and costly Morgenthau Plan was agreed upon. It is necessary to discover the origin of that plan. Harry Dexter White, an original member of the Harold Ware Communist Cell, was Mr. Morgenthau's chief adviser in the Treasury. Germany was not only to be conquered, it was to be devastated, so that never could anyone use its territory to defend the Western world against Soviet Russia. Germany was to be turned into a pastoral state, through which Russia could march unimpeded.

In addition, this agreement recognized slave labor. How the United States could agree to slave labor is beyond understanding. We not only agreed to slave labor but used American troops to enforce slavery. The Russians employed slave labor during the course of the war. This needs a broad-scale investigation into the facts, of which we possess only driblets.

If these agreements are now cancelled, their harm cannot be undone. The only value in their cancellation would be publication of all the documents relating to them. It would educate the world to the evils of secret diplomacy. It would fix responsibility precisely.

TONSILS AND THE POLIO SEASON

As parents read health articles written by reputable physicians, they naturally cannot understand how one physician or group of physicians will make a statement that is flatly contradicted by another group of equal standing. Some of this can be explained by the fact that perhaps all the circumstances surrounding the investigations are not on an equal basis.

I have in mind the question of whether it is advisable to have a child undergo removal of tonsils within a month or six weeks of the polio (infantile paralysis) season. We see reports stating that the number of cases of the bulbar (most paralyzing) cases is definitely larger after a recent tonsillectomy (removal of tonsils) and other reports with facts and figures stating that the number of such cases in proportion to number of tonsil removals is not any greater.

Thus in the Year Book of Pediatrics (children's diseases) of 1950, we read the statement that "taken objectively, the facts do not prove that tonsillectomy predisposes to poliomyelitis." In the 1951 Year Book of Pediatrics we read, "the relationship between removal of tonsils (and adenoids) and the increased incidence (number of cases of polio) seems to have become more clearly defined." Recently a review of the data from New York City Health Department by Drs. M. Siegel, M. Greenberg and M. C. Magee show the relation between tonsillectomy and bulbar paralysis form of polio.

The evidence clearly indicates that physicians and public health officers should continue to discourage removal of tonsils and adenoids during the poliomyelitis season despite pressure to relax this prohibition against operation at the pre-polio season.

As a sort of "clincher" of the fact that this paralyzing type of polio shows more of the bulbar type after recent removal of tonsils, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which distributes the hundreds of thousands of dollars annually collected to prevent polio of all types, has accepted the fact that removal of tonsils and adenoids should not be done just prior to the polio season.

As a matter of fact, many surgeons state that no surgical operations that can be safely postponed should be performed at this time.

There are, of course, some operations, including removal of tonsils, that must be performed, regardless of the polio season. The polio season, August and September, is many months off yet but parents should keep these facts in mind.

"Confidentially---It Looks Pretty Good"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—A sensational recommendation that the states and local communities receiving primary benefits from federal flood control projects be assessed for a fair share of the assistance they get from such public works as contained in the final report of the Missouri River Basin Survey Commission, just released.

If this reform could be adopted as national policy it would go a long way towards ending the worst abuses of pork-barrel legislation in which all federal taxpayers are assessed for benefits to local areas. Flood-control appropriations now run half a billion dollars a year.

This revised policy would be in line with other Eisenhower administration ideas to get the federal government out of the business of doing for various specialized groups of people what they should do for themselves. But such a reform is sure to meet with tough opposition in Congress.

Many congressmen are elected to office on the basis of their ability or their promises to get federal appropriations for their districts and states. The National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which has among its leaders many senators and representatives from the most frequently flooded areas, is a highly organized lobby.

The idea that federal expenditures for flood control and navigation are "nonreimbursable" has now been pretty well established as national policy. It was written into the 1944 flood-control legislation, with full support of the Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Barkley's 1936 Bill Changed Policy

The old pattern was that the federal government bore all the construction costs, but local governments provided the land and the rights of way. In 1936, however, ex-Vice President Alben Barkley, then a senator from Kentucky, got through a bill for some minor flood-control work in his state, with the provision that the federal government pay 100 per cent of the costs, including site costs. That was the break in the dike.

From 1938 on, the federal government has borne 100 per cent of the flood-control cost allocation on major dams and reservoirs. From 1941 on, state and local governments have been required to provide only site and maintenance costs on purely local protective works, such as floodway levees and channel rectification.

It is not now the recommendation of the Missouri Basin Commission that the full cost of major dams and reservoirs be made reimbursable by local groups benefiting from such public works. Only that share which is properly attributable to flood control would be assessed against the beneficiaries.

This is now the way in which public power, irrigation and local water supply system costs are handled on multi-purpose dams. Such costs are reimbursable. Revenues from the sale of electricity go back to the federal treasury to pay for power development. Farmers receiving water from a dam pay for irrigation costs and maintenance. City water users pay back the costs allocated to their supply system.

Would Lessen Burden on Whole Nation

Putting flood control and navigation costs on a similar reimbursable basis is now the aim of the Missouri Basin Commission.

"The Commission is convinced that contribution or repayment policies are in need of revision in order to lessen the burden on the nation as a whole," says its report.

How much influence this part of the Missouri Basin Commission's recommendation will have is problematical. The 11-man Commission was appointed by President Truman in 1952. Its chairman was James L. Lawrence, Lincoln, Neb., editor. Having now filed its report, it has gone out of business.

Democratic Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of Missouri, who was vice chairman, is calling the five congressional members of the Commission together to draw up legislation to carry out its recommendations. The other congressional members are Senators James E. Murray (D., Mont.) and Milton R. Young (R., N. D.); Representatives Wayne Aspinwall (D., Colo.) and Clifford R. Hope (R., Kan.).

While the Commission did file unanimous reports on all but two of its 51 recommendations, it split on the all-important question of how a Missouri Basin Authority should be organized. All members said an authority was necessary to serve as water master.

A majority of eight said this should be a federal authority. Three said it should be an interstate compact wtih the federal government as a member. They were Senator Young, Representative Hope and Dean H. T. Person of Colorado. The split leaves this question where it always has been—which is unresolved.

Bradley Statement of Warning Raises Query Whether We Are Not in World War 3

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 24—Are we in World War 3—Russian style—or just a period of "tension"?

The question arises because of the dispatch quoting General Omar Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, as saying that "America's most dangerous idea is the slogan: 'Let's face the facts, we are already in World War 3'."

General Bradley says if World War 3 were here, he and the others to whom he was speaking at Rollins College, Florida, would not have time "to sit here and talk about it." He calls the present a "tough period of tension." Most people who read that dispatch didn't know who was advancing the other idea.

The Bradley statement attempts to refute a widely circulated comment by Major General J. F. C. Fuller, retired, a British military expert who distinguished himself as the chief general officer of the British tank corps in World War 2.

General Fuller's observations were first made in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report" and have just been reprinted in "The Reader's Digest." His views have been attracting a good deal of attention here and are known to have been read with approval by high officials of the Eisenhower administration. General Bradley serves until next August as chairman of the joint chiefs and, while he has spoken often on matters outside his military field as the mouthpiece of the Truman-Acheson administration, the fact that he plays golf occasionally with President Eisenhower doesn't mean he reflects now the views of either the White House or the Department of State on foreign policy.

Evidently General Bradley visualizes the word "World War 3" as meaning only a large-scale war of military operations. He fails to take into account the true meaning of the phrase as it is being used to show the weakness of the allied polices. General Fuller was asked:

"Do you look for a shooting war in Europe within the foreseeable future?"

"No," was his reply. "It was Lenin's idea that the 'soundest strategy in war is to postpone operations until the moral disintegration of the enemy renders the delivery of the mortal blow both possible and easy.' Therefore, in his system of warfare, the psychological took precedence over military attack and defense. Today Russia's buildup has two purposes: The first is to cover Russia's psychological war by a terror barrage, a standing threat to all who oppose it. The second is to defend herself should her psychological offensive, as it might, finally lead to actual war."

"The 'cold war' of today, then, is the real war?"

"Yes, it's emphatically not just a nuisance. It is the third world war, not only in being but in action. It is violently positive and can only be defeated by equally positive action. Let me illustrate: We sometimes try to 'contain' malaria by sleeping under nets, but that doesn't destroy the germ-carrying mosquito. It only prevents us from being bitten in certain localities. If you want really to swat the mosquito, you attack his breeding ground.

"The Marshall Plan was essentially defensive. The North Atlantic Treaty is a diplomatic countermove. What is now needed is a positive, psychological counter offensive.

"More and more, argument between governments is giving way to argument between each government and its opponent's people. The aim is not, as in the past, to settle the argument by discussion but, instead, by subversion—that is, to persuade the enemy people to overthrow their government or force it to accept its opponent's policy."

"What, in a nutshell, General Fuller, would be your principal advice?"

"Get a move on with our side of the cold war. Communism is effective as a threat; is isn't a successful concept of government. Russia isn't invincible. Russia is a giant with a stomach very sensitive to political poisions. Therefore the answer lies in our own hands: Put a pinch of counter-revolutionary arsenic in the monster's soup."

The foregoing illustrates more clearly than anything else the difference between the Truman-Acheson-Bradley concept of endless tension without doing anything about it and the more imaginative and realistic approach soon to be undertaken in a psychological war offensive by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. A special commission appointed by the President is already at work on detailed plans and strategy.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

One way is as good as another to achieve a good result. With this philosophical pearl of dubious luster, I commend to your attention the fair renown earned by an American soldier who was kicked out of two Chicago high schools, never attended the Military Academy and is now close to retirement with three stars on his shoulders and as full of honors as any starry-eyed shavetail could wish to be.

Around and about the period from 1904 until 1909, when he vanished from the ken of the kids on our block, our neighbors on Kenmore avenue, Chicago, included Manton, or Matt, Eddy, one of three brothers who lived in a frame house up toward Buena avenue. The Eddy boys were thoroughbreds. For that matter, as the late Miss Mary Hurley, of the fourth grade at Horace Greeley School, put it not long before she died, good quality was general among the people thereabouts and reflected in their children who came under her eye. Miss Hurley wrote that of a sudden after our crop had passed along, including half a dozen boys who later achieved favorable distinction in a variety of lines, she realized that whereas she had been instructor and a sort of deputy mother or aunt to us, she was now performing the office of cop over a class of brats who reflected the sordidness of their homes, so she took her pension and quit.

B8,DPgrsfi....cp

Matt Eddy earned extraordinary respect in my regard at that early age because he was the only kid in the neighborhood who was not intimidated by the unearned reputation as a fighter of another boy named Harry Eastman. Eastman was a handsome fellow with a natural knack for athletics. He seems in retrospect to have been a decent boy and I can't say how he came to be held in fear, or let us rather say awe, by all the others except Matt Eddy. I don't recall that any other one ever toed the mark to him. But Matt did and they fought after school night after night as the custom was in those days and may be still, bloodied and breathing hard and as proud as any two stags that ever fought in a wood. I do not recall which one won but whoever lost was not without honor.

A year ago, arriving in Frankfurt where Lieut. Gen. Manton C. Eddy was commander of the Seventh Army, I received a courtesy call from a young public relations officer who said the general would be glad to show me over his command, and was there anything he could do meanwhile to make me happy? I said that if it could be arranged without prejudice I would like to see a young nephew with the Fourth Division down near the Iron Curtain, and, in the morning, the young corporal arrived in something of a daze at the hotel in Frankfort, wondering how came the army headquarters to single him out for transportation in a staff car over those slippery roads to keep a rendezvous with persons unknown, with a three-day pass in his pocket.

Visiting General Eddy's headquarters and observing the tight, alert authority and professional precision of the command, I felt a degree of satisfaction of which I can only say that I was proud to know him. Being two years older than I, he had not known me as well as I had known him or of him when he was fighting Harry Eastman in those gory, long-drawn rounds under the el in back of Kenmore avenue.

I had gone to Lane Technical School for almost a year and a half and, although I have said that I was finally canned, actually I just got discouraged by failure and detached myself to take a job as filing clerk in an insurance office at $25 a month. I neglected to say anything about this at home.

General Eddy, though, said he had been actually canned from Lane. Moreover, he had been canned from Lake View, pronounced Leg View, another public high school, but co-educational, whereas Lane was and is strictly stag. There was a general verboten against fraternities in high schools in Chicago then, so Matt Eddy had joined one as a matter of course. It was his fate, though who would say his misfortune, to be called upon by the fully accredited brothers in the sacred, everlasting bond to get up on the rickety little stage of a nickel movie theatre on Clark street, near Belmont, one night, and make a fool of himself by impromptu antics, at that fateful hour in the infinity of time which Professor Buck, the principal of Leg View, selected to cast an eye

Wallkill

Plans were made to charter a bus to travel to New York for a day on March 10. The bus will leave at 8 a. m. from the bus station in Wallkill and will leave New York at 9 p. m. from Dixie Terminal. Thirty-three passengers are needed to charter the bus. Anyone wishing to spend a day in the city shopping or seeing a show, or viewing the flower show should call Mrs. Rudolph Grill or Mrs. Walter Wigand as soon as possible. The required number must be obtained by March 3. It is not necessary to be a member to make the trip.

The party was attended by many of their friends and games were enjoyed and refreshments served.

Reds Uncover Group

Hong Kong (AP) — The Shanghai Communist Liberation Daily reported recently the Public Safety Bureau of the municipal government had uncovered a Chinese Nationalist underground resistance organization. The Red paper said three leaders of the Shanghai "Anti-Communist Fraternal Society" were executed. Two more were sentenced to death but the sentences were deferred for two years. The victims were said to be "agents of Chiang Ching-kuo," eldest son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

CARELESS LACK OF VITAL FACTS

Adlai Stevenson's first major speech since his defeat for the presidency was admirable in its generalities of fair-minded opposition and its tone of good-humored sportsmanship. But when it descended to particulars of criticism against the new administration, it often showed a glaring lack of facts.

Stevenson's celebrated sense of humor obviously was not a casualty of the election. He made his little jokes and turned many a happy phrase.

In more sober vein, he pledged constructive opposition to President Eisenhower and the Republican 83rd Congress, and said the government would have Democratic support so long as it worked in the public and the national interest.

He declared, more sensibly than many of his eager followers, that 25 days is too short a span in which to judge a new President. He proposed to bide time and allow the Eisenhower administration full chance to develop its programs.

Despite these fine resolves, however, Stevenson could not resist commenting upon some events since Jan. 20, especially in the foreign field. And here he strayed sadly from the facts.

Secretary of State Dulles' recent blunt warnings to Western Europe on the issue of European unity seemed to Stevenson a sign we have turned to bullying our allies and ignoring their legitimate doubts and fears.

Stevenson apparently felt Dulles' conduct in Europe resembled the "bull in the china shop," and he implied a contrast to Democratic handling of these matters. He seemed to suggest further that much American opinion runs contrary to the Dulles approach.

But the fact is that the overhelming majority of Americans support this new tack, including many Democrats in Congress and many of Stevenson's friends in the State Department.

Furthermore, some evidence exists that Chancellor Adenauer of Germany and one or two French leaders actually requested Dulles to speak bluntly in public. Adenauer now clearly believes the warning may have saved the unity project, and the general feeling in Europe—despite a certain ruffling of feathers—is that it accomplished a good deal.

Stevenson also erred in assuming that other administration moves in the foreign field add up to an ineptly conceived plan for psychological warfare against the Communists. According to those who know what is in the making, much more is afoot than a mere stepped-up propaganda drive.

Possibly we should not be too harsh with Stevenson at this early stage. His White House visit may have filled in the big gaps in his knowledge of present affairs.

GRIM WARNING

It is hard for Americans to imagine bombs falling on their cities. Although it is no longer fashionable to declare oneself an isolationist most people are still influenced psychologically by the oceans which separate us from our enemies. But the Civil Defense Administration said recently that it is now possible for Russia to send out a 400 plane assault on our cities capable of inflicting 11,000,000 casualties in a single day.

The figure sounds incredible. But modern weapons such as the atomic bomb are capable of sowing wholesale destruction in a matter of minutes. Improvements are made in aviation every day and it would be foolish to underestimate our enemies.

The Civil Defense workers more than doubled their number last year but it is still far from being large enough. About 4,000,000 Americans are now enlisted in the Civil Defense Corps. This figure will have to be increased if we are to ensure any measure of preparedness in case an attack should come.

Although original Rembrant pictures are still priced too high for the average family budget it is heartening to hear that T-bone steaks in an Ohio super-market recently sold for 39 cents a pound.

The army has announced that production of ammunition increased last year. The ammunition industry is one which can always be expected to boom.

THE PACT AT YALTA

Any consideration of the cancellation of the secret agreements made at Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam must, as Senator Homer Ferguuson so correctly contends, be premised on a knowledge by Congress of what they were. The people ought to know, too. And the point needs to be made that secret agreements were entered into elsewhere which require inquiry. For instance, is it true that the United States has a secret agreement with Canada to keep the price of newsprint fabulously high in the interests of Canada and to the detriment of the United States? Secret diplomacy breeds suspicion and uncertainty.

Some of the things done at Yalta have become clear by the course of events and by publication in memoirs, books, speeches and casual papers. One of the obvious changes that affected the whole course of events has to do with words. I cite an instance: In the Atlantic Charter, the phrase appears "sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them." To that phrase at Yalta was added "by the aggressor nations." The aggressor nations have been defined as Germany, Italy and Japan. Therefore, by the Yalta agreement, any territories seized by Soviet Russia, not an aggressor nation, could remain seized. It is difficult to understand why Roosevelt and Churchill altogether ignored the nature of the Hitler-Stalin alliance which Hitler, not Stalin, broke. In that alliance, Russia definitely appears as an agggressor.

Yalta took place February 4-11, 1945. By that time, Russia had already seized Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Eastern Finland, Eastern Poland. Also, by that time, Russia was in occupation of Bulgaria, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Hungary. By the use of four words, "by the aggressor nations," Soviet Russia came into possession, by consent of Roosevelt and Churchill, of the vast areas indicated, perhaps 80,000,000 European people. (The United States never recognized the absorption by Russia of the three Baltic states).

How it was possible to define Soviet Russia as a non-aggressor in 1945, it is difficult to understand, but our statesmanship did just that.

Also at Yalta it was agreed to institute the veto in the Security Council of the United Nations when organized. Alger Hiss was Roosevelt's expert at Yalta; Alger Hiss was the State Department official at San Francisco in charge of the organization of the United Nations. There is evidence that the veto was Roosevelt's idea and was presented to the Yalta Conference by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

Another conclusion reached at Yalta was to give to Soviet Russia three votes in the Assembly while all other countries only had one vote each. It was at one stage of the conference proposed that the United States also have three votes, but Roosevelt dropped the idea. At San Francisco, the United States voted to give Soviet Russia the three votes because it had been agreed to at Yalta.

It would also seem that Henry Morgenthau and Averell Harriman had cooked up a scheme to make a huge loan to Soviet Russia. It was to be a loan in the billions. The Russians after 1945 often referred to the promised credits which were not forthcoming and took the position that they had been double-crossed.

It was at Yalta that the stupid and costly Morgenthau Plan was agreed upon. It is necessary to discover the origin of that plan. Harry Dexter White, an original member of the Harold Ware Communist Cell, was Mr. Morgenthau's chief adviser in the Treasury. Germany was not only to be conquered, it was to be devastated, so that never could anyone use its territory to defend the Western world against Soviet Russia. Germany was to be turned into a pastoral state, through which Russia could march unimpeded.

In addition, this agreement recognized slave labor. How the United States could agree to slave labor is beyond understanding. We not only agreed to slave labor but used American troops to enforce slavery. The Russians employed slave labor during the course of the war. This needs a broad-scale investigation into the facts, of which we possess only driblets.

If these agreements are now cancelled, their harm cannot be undone. The only value in their cancellation would be publication of all the documents relating to them. It would educate the world to the evils of secret diplomacy. It would fix responsibility precisely.

TONSILS AND THE POLIO SEASON

As parents read health articles written by reputable physicians, they naturally cannot understand how one physician or group of physicians will make a statement that is flatly contradicted by another group of equal standing. Some of this can be explained by the fact that perhaps all the circumstances surrounding the investigations are not on an equal basis.

I have in mind the question of whether it is advisable to have a child undergo removal of tonsils within a month or six weeks of the polio (infantile paralysis) season. We see reports stating that the number of cases of the bulbar (most paralyzing) cases is definitely larger after a recent tonsillectomy (removal of tonsils) and other reports with facts and figures stating that the number of such cases in proportion to number of tonsil removals is not any greater.

Thus in the Year Book of Pediatrics (children's diseases) of 1950, we read the statement that "taken objectively, the facts do not prove that tonsillectomy predisposes to poliomyelitis." In the 1951 Year Book of Pediatrics we read, "the relationship between removal of tonsils (and adenoids) and the increased incidence (number of cases of polio) seems to have become more clearly defined." Recently a review of the data from New York City Health Department by Drs. M. Siegel, M. Greenberg and M. C. Magee show the relation between tonsillectomy and bulbar paralysis form of polio.

The evidence clearly indicates that physicians and public health officers should continue to discourage removal of tonsils and adenoids during the poliomyelitis season despite pressure to relax this prohibition against operation at the pre-polio season.

As a sort of "clincher" of the fact that this paralyzing type of polio shows more of the bulbar type after recent removal of tonsils, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which distributes the hundreds of thousands of dollars annually collected to prevent polio of all types, has accepted the fact that removal of tonsils and adenoids should not be done just prior to the polio season.

As a matter of fact, many surgeons state that no surgical operations that can be safely postponed should be performed at this time.

There are, of course, some operations, including removal of tonsils, that must be performed, regardless of the polio season. The polio season, August and September, is many months off yet but parents should keep these facts in mind.

"Confidentially---It Looks Pretty Good"

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—A sensational recommendation that the states and local communities receiving primary benefits from federal flood control projects be assessed for a fair share of the assistance they get from such public works as contained in the final report of the Missouri River Basin Survey Commission, just released.

If this reform could be adopted as national policy it would go a long way towards ending the worst abuses of pork-barrel legislation in which all federal taxpayers are assessed for benefits to local areas. Flood-control appropriations now run half a billion dollars a year.

This revised policy would be in line with other Eisenhower administration ideas to get the federal government out of the business of doing for various specialized groups of people what they should do for themselves. But such a reform is sure to meet with tough opposition in Congress.

Many congressmen are elected to office on the basis of their ability or their promises to get federal appropriations for their districts and states. The National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which has among its leaders many senators and representatives from the most frequently flooded areas, is a highly organized lobby.

The idea that federal expenditures for flood control and navigation are "nonreimbursable" has now been pretty well established as national policy. It was written into the 1944 flood-control legislation, with full support of the Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Barkley's 1936 Bill Changed Policy

The old pattern was that the federal government bore all the construction costs, but local governments provided the land and the rights of way. In 1936, however, ex-Vice President Alben Barkley, then a senator from Kentucky, got through a bill for some minor flood-control work in his state, with the provision that the federal government pay 100 per cent of the costs, including site costs. That was the break in the dike.

From 1938 on, the federal government has borne 100 per cent of the flood-control cost allocation on major dams and reservoirs. From 1941 on, state and local governments have been required to provide only site and maintenance costs on purely local protective works, such as floodway levees and channel rectification.

It is not now the recommendation of the Missouri Basin Commission that the full cost of major dams and reservoirs be made reimbursable by local groups benefiting from such public works. Only that share which is properly attributable to flood control would be assessed against the beneficiaries.

This is now the way in which public power, irrigation and local water supply system costs are handled on multi-purpose dams. Such costs are reimbursable. Revenues from the sale of electricity go back to the federal treasury to pay for power development. Farmers receiving water from a dam pay for irrigation costs and maintenance. City water users pay back the costs allocated to their supply system.

Would Lessen Burden on Whole Nation

Putting flood control and navigation costs on a similar reimbursable basis is now the aim of the Missouri Basin Commission.

"The Commission is convinced that contribution or repayment policies are in need of revision in order to lessen the burden on the nation as a whole," says its report.

How much influence this part of the Missouri Basin Commission's recommendation will have is problematical. The 11-man Commission was appointed by President Truman in 1952. Its chairman was James L. Lawrence, Lincoln, Neb., editor. Having now filed its report, it has gone out of business.

Democratic Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., of Missouri, who was vice chairman, is calling the five congressional members of the Commission together to draw up legislation to carry out its recommendations. The other congressional members are Senators James E. Murray (D., Mont.) and Milton R. Young (R., N. D.); Representatives Wayne Aspinwall (D., Colo.) and Clifford R. Hope (R., Kan.).

While the Commission did file unanimous reports on all but two of its 51 recommendations, it split on the all-important question of how a Missouri Basin Authority should be organized. All members said an authority was necessary to serve as water master.

A majority of eight said this should be a federal authority. Three said it should be an interstate compact wtih the federal government as a member. They were Senator Young, Representative Hope and Dean H. T. Person of Colorado. The split leaves this question where it always has been—which is unresolved.

Bradley Statement of Warning Raises Query Whether We Are Not in World War 3

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 24—Are we in World War 3—Russian style—or just a period of "tension"?

The question arises because of the dispatch quoting General Omar Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, as saying that "America's most dangerous idea is the slogan: 'Let's face the facts, we are already in World War 3'."

General Bradley says if World War 3 were here, he and the others to whom he was speaking at Rollins College, Florida, would not have time "to sit here and talk about it." He calls the present a "tough period of tension." Most people who read that dispatch didn't know who was advancing the other idea.

The Bradley statement attempts to refute a widely circulated comment by Major General J. F. C. Fuller, retired, a British military expert who distinguished himself as the chief general officer of the British tank corps in World War 2.

General Fuller's observations were first made in a copyrighted interview in "U. S. News & World Report" and have just been reprinted in "The Reader's Digest." His views have been attracting a good deal of attention here and are known to have been read with approval by high officials of the Eisenhower administration. General Bradley serves until next August as chairman of the joint chiefs and, while he has spoken often on matters outside his military field as the mouthpiece of the Truman-Acheson administration, the fact that he plays golf occasionally with President Eisenhower doesn't mean he reflects now the views of either the White House or the Department of State on foreign policy.

Evidently General Bradley visualizes the word "World War 3" as meaning only a large-scale war of military operations. He fails to take into account the true meaning of the phrase as it is being used to show the weakness of the allied polices. General Fuller was asked:

"Do you look for a shooting war in Europe within the foreseeable future?"

"No," was his reply. "It was Lenin's idea that the 'soundest strategy in war is to postpone operations until the moral disintegration of the enemy renders the delivery of the mortal blow both possible and easy.' Therefore, in his system of warfare, the psychological took precedence over military attack and defense. Today Russia's buildup has two purposes: The first is to cover Russia's psychological war by a terror barrage, a standing threat to all who oppose it. The second is to defend herself should her psychological offensive, as it might, finally lead to actual war."

"The 'cold war' of today, then, is the real war?"

"Yes, it's emphatically not just a nuisance. It is the third world war, not only in being but in action. It is violently positive and can only be defeated by equally positive action. Let me illustrate: We sometimes try to 'contain' malaria by sleeping under nets, but that doesn't destroy the germ-carrying mosquito. It only prevents us from being bitten in certain localities. If you want really to swat the mosquito, you attack his breeding ground.

"The Marshall Plan was essentially defensive. The North Atlantic Treaty is a diplomatic countermove. What is now needed is a positive, psychological counter offensive.

"More and more, argument between governments is giving way to argument between each government and its opponent's people. The aim is not, as in the past, to settle the argument by discussion but, instead, by subversion—that is, to persuade the enemy people to overthrow their government or force it to accept its opponent's policy."

"What, in a nutshell, General Fuller, would be your principal advice?"

"Get a move on with our side of the cold war. Communism is effective as a threat: is isn't a successful concept of government. Russia isn't invincible. Russia is a giant with a stomach very sensitive to political poisions. Therefore the answer lies in our own hands: Put a pinch of counter-revolutionary arsenic in the monster's soup."

The foregoing illustrates more clearly than anything else the difference between the Truman-Acheson-Bradley concept of endless tension without doing anything about it and the more imaginative and realistic approach soon to be undertaken in a psychological war offensive by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. A special commission appointed by the President is already at work on detailed plans and strategy.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

One way is as good as another to achieve a good result. With this philosophical pearl of dubious luster, I commend to your attention the fair renown earned by an American soldier who was kicked out of two Chicago high schools, never attended the Military Academy and is now close to retirement with three stars on his shoulders and as full of honors as any starry-eyed shavetail could wish to be.

Around and about the period from 1904 until 1909, when he vanished from the ken of the kids on our block, our neighbors on Kenmore avenue, Chicago, included Manton, or Matt, Eddy, one of three brothers who lived in a frame house up toward Buena avenue. The Eddy boys were thoroughbreds. For that matter, as the late Miss Mary Hurley, of the fourth grade at Horace Greeley School, put it not long before she died, good quality was general among the people thereabouts and reflected in their children who came under her eye. Miss Hurley wrote that of a sudden after our crop had passed along, including half a dozen boys who later achieved favorable distinction in a variety of lines, she realized that whereas she had been instructor and a sort of deputy mother or aunt to us, she was now performing the office of cop over a class of brats who reflected the sordidness of their homes, so she took her pension and quit.

B8,DPgrsfl....cp

Matt Eddy earned extraordinary respect in my regard at that early age because he was the only kid in the neighborhood who was not intimidated by the unearned reputation as a fighter of another boy named Harry Eastman. Eastman was a handsome fellow with a natural knack for athletics. He seems in retrospect to have been a decent boy and I can't say how he came to be held in fear, or let us rather say awe, by all the others except Matt Eddy. I don't recall that any other one ever toed the mark to him. But Matt did and they fought after school night after night as the custom was in those days and may be still, bloodied and breathing hard and as proud as any two stags that ever fought in a wood. I do not recall which one won but whoever lost was not without honor.

A year ago, arriving in Frankfurt where Lieut. Gen. Manton C. Eddy was commander of the Seventh Army, I received a courtesy call from a young public relations officer who said the general would be glad to show me over his command, and was there anything he could do meanwhile to make me happy? I said that if it could be arranged without prejudice I would like to see a young nephew with the Fourth Division down near the Iron Curtain, and, in the morning, the young corporal arrived in something of a daze at the hotel in Frankfort, wondering how came the army headquarters to single him out for transportation in a staff car over those slippery roads to keep a rendezvous with persons unknown, with a three-day pass in his pocket.

Visiting General Eddy's headquarters and observing the tight, alert authority and professional precision of the command, I felt a degree of satisfaction of which I can only say that I was proud to know him. Being two years older than I, he had not known me as well as I had known him or of him when he was fighting Harry Eastman in those gory, long-drawn rounds under the el in back of Kenmore avenue.

I had gone to Lane Technical School for almost a year and a half and, although I have said that I was finally canned, actually I just got discouraged by failure and detached myself to take a job as filing clerk in an insurance office at $25 a month. I neglected to say anything about this at home.

General Eddy, though, said he had been actually canned from Lane. Moreover, he had been canned from Lake View, pronounced Leg View, another public high school, but co-educational, whereas Lane was and is strictly stag. There was a general verboten against fraternities in high schools in Chicago then, so Matt Eddy had joined one as a matter of course. It was his fate, though who would say his misfortune, to be called upon by the fully accredited brothers in the sacred, everlasting bond to get up on the rickety little stage of a nickel movie theatre on Clark street, near Belmont, one night, and make a fool of himself by impromptu antics, at that fateful hour in the infinity of time which Professor Buck, the principal of Leg View, selected to cast an eye

Justice Has List Of Owners Who Lack Dog Licenses

Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster said today that the list of dog owners of that township who are delinquent in the matter of obtaining 1953 licenses has been turned over to him.

Unless those persons on the list obtain licenses immediately from the town clerk, they face a penalty under Article 7, Section 113, subdivision 2 of the Agriculture and Markets Law, he warned. Summonses will be issued against those failing to comply with the law.

Justice Macholdt added that persons who have disposed of their dog or whose dog has died since last year must sign an affidavit to that effect and file it with the town clerk in order to escape the penalty.

Jury to Resume Deliberations in Gambling Trial

Ballston Spa, Feb. 24 (AP)—A jury today was to resume weighing the gambling charges against Louis J. (Doc) Farone, after having failed to reach a verdict in 5 hours and 20 minutes of deliberation yesterday.

Justice Leo J. Hagerty of State Supreme Court last night ordered the seven men and five women locked up until 10 a. m. today. They had reported to him at 11 p. m. they had not reached an agreement.

He is charged with 16 counts of gambling, conspiring to gamble, maintaining a gaming establishment and receiving wagers.

The trial, which began Jan. 27, was the first in the 23-month-old state-ordered investigation of illegal gambling and alleged payoffs to politicians in Saratoga county. Testimony taken totaled 2,438 typewritten pages.

Memorial Showing Of Magafan Work Opens in New York

Woodstock, Feb. 24—A memorial exhibition of paintings by Jenne Magafan, whose death here last October saddened the art world, opened Monday at the Ganso Gallery, 125 East 57th street, New York. In connection with the exhibition, statements have been issued by several of her artist friends, expressing their regard for Jenne Magafan and her work.

"The sudden and untimely death of Jenne," said Yasuo Kuniyoshi, "who was loved by my wife and me as a friend and respected as an artist has caused us great sorrow. Her zeal and steadiness in purpose both in painting and friendship gained my admiration."

Eugene Speicher describes her as "a rare spirit, a painter of talent and sensibility....her work reflected her charm and warmth. No one can ever take her place in our hearts, and the world of art has lost much in her passing."

"Jenne Magafan," Fletcher Martin stated, "was from the high country of the West. Her spirit was like that wonderful place, fresh and strong and beautiful. These things are in her work too, because she was a fine artist. With taut design and muted color she made pictures which reveal her gentle and compassionate heart.. tender, but sensitive and strong. These works are the legacy of Jenne, my dear friend."

One of Jenne's former teachers, Peppino Mangravite a painter who is also associated with Colorado wrote: "Jenne Magafan was raised in Colorado, and I like to think that she inherited her quiet dignity and unpredictable calm from its mountains and prairies. All she stood for, all she came to be known as, are qualities associated with broad spaces, clear skies, and life close to the soil. Her art is an unpretentious creative effort to arrive at a pictorial solution: the solution of man in nature. Jenne would have been pleased to have known that her friends believed she succeeded."

The 14 paintings included in the show are titled: The Mother, Facade, Woman Knitting, The Window, Green Hills, Youth Mother, Mother and Child, The Stair, Empty Rooms, Picket Fence, Woman, Maternity, White City and Three Women.

Jenne Magafan, who was born in Chicago in 1916, studied under Frank Mechau and Peppino Mangravite. She was the twin sister of Ethel Magafan and married to the painter Edward Chavez. In her brief career she established an enviable record of accomplishments which have earned national recognition. Her work has been included in all the most important exhibitions throughout the United States.

School Stamp Club Hears Hoffman Talk

Woodstock, Feb. 24—Members of the Woodstock School Stamp Club, which meets every Friday afternoon at the school under the direction of Mrs. Melvin Leshen, enjoyed an absorbing and informative talk last week by a well-known local stamp expert. James Hoffman, of the Colonial Stamp Shop in Saugerties, addressed the group of 18 students and also showed his collection of foreign covers and United States stamps.

Another category of stamps, which was of particular interest to this group, was Hoffman's collection of Ulster county covers, dating back to 1800, and some probably earlier. A question and answer period followed the talk and Konrad King was awarded a stock book.

Guild Lists Classes

Woodstock, Feb. 24—It has been announced by the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen that the new ceramic class which the Guild sponsors in conjunction with the New York State Education Department will meet in two groups. One session is held on Thursday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:10 p. m. and the other on Tuesday evenings from 7:30 to 10:10 p. m. Both classes are held at Bill Miller's studio at the rear of the Catskill Book and Record Shop.

Enlists in Reserve

Woodstock, Feb. 24—Ex-Korean War veteran Cpl. Peter O. Brinkman, enlisted last Tuesday night in the 9267 Air Reserve Squadron as sergeant. He has applied, according to his father Ernest H. Brinkman of this village, for immediate active service. When recalled to duty, Sgt. Brinkman, who is at his home here, intends to make the service his career.

Troop 34 to Send Boy To Scout Jamboree

Woodstock, Feb. 24—The Rev. Harvey I. Todd has announced that the boy from the Woodstock Boy Scout Troop 34 who will attend the Boy Scout Jamboree in California in July will be selected before April 1. His reservations for the trip have already been made. The jamboree will be held at the Irving Ranch, Santa Ana, Calif., 35 miles from Los Angeles. A quota of 66 boys from the Rip Van Winkle Council will attend.

The last jamboree was held, Todd said, at Valley Forge, Pa., in 1951. At that time seven boys from Woodstock attended.

Committee to Meet

Woodstock, Feb. 24—The Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday at 2 p. m. in Deanies upstairs. Plans will be discussed for the benefit box supper and square dance which the committee will sponsor at the Town House Saturday, April 25.

Giffard Executed At Anglo Prison

Bristol, England, Feb. 24 (AP)—Miles Giffard, 26-year-old Cornwall county cricket star convicted of killing his wealthy parents and dumping their bodies off a cliff, was hanged today at Horfield prison.

Young Giffard beat his father and mother to death with an iron bar last Nov. 7 in their home near Porthpean. He loaded their bodies in a wheelbarrow, trundled them to a nearby cliff and threw them to the seashore 120 feet below.

Police picked the young man up the following night in London, where he had driven in his father's car to meet his girl friend. The girl, 19-year-old Gabriel Vallance, testified at his trial that young Giffard had taken her on a round of drinking places, told her he had killed his parents and then proposed marriage.

The prosecution charged Giffard committed the double murder because his father cut off his allowance to keep him from spending time in London.

Saboteurs Damage Four Thunderjets

Copenhagen, Denmark, Feb. 24 (AP) — Saboteurs damaged four U. S.-built jet fighter planes stationed at Denmark's biggest military airfield, it was officially announced today. It was the second case of sabotage reported at the field in the last eight weeks.

The Armed Forces Press Office said the speedometers of four F-84 Thunderjets were found damaged during a routine check at Karup Airfield—one of Europe's biggest.

Six soldiers on duty at the field were held for questioning.

Justice Has List Of Owners Who Lack Dog Licenses

Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster said today that the list of dog owners of that township who are delinquent in the matter of obtaining 1953 licenses has been turned over to him.

Unless those persons on the list obtain licenses immediately from the town clerk, they face a penalty under Article 7, Section 113, subdivision 2 of the Agriculture and Markets Law, he warned. Summonses will be issued against those failing to comply with the law.

Justice Macholdt added that persons who have disposed of their dog or whose dog has died since last year must sign an affidavit to that effect and file it with the town clerk in order to escape the penalty.

Jury to Resume Deliberations in Gambling Trial

Ballston Spa, Feb. 24 (AP)—A jury today was to resume weighing the gambling charges against Louis J. (Doc) Farone, after having failed to reach a verdict in 5 hours and 20 minutes of deliberation yesterday.

Justice Leo J. Hagerty of State Supreme Court last night ordered the seven men and five women locked up until 10 a. m. today. They had reported to him at 11 p. m. they had not reached an agreement.

He is charged with 16 counts of gambling, conspiring to gamble, maintaining a gaming establishment and receiving wagers.

The trial, which began Jan. 27, was the first in the 23-month-old state-ordered investigation of illegal gambling and alleged payoffs to politicians in Saratoga county. Testimony taken totaled 2,438 typewritten pages.

'Red Dean' Quits At Ontario City

London, Ont., Feb. 24 (AP)—Students ringing cowbells and exploding paper bags silenced Dr. Hewlett Johnson last night and sent Britain's controversial "Red" Dean of Canterbury scurrying out of town.

"They are not quite adult yet in London (Ont.), the Communist sympathizing dean shouted as he drove away from the meeting which the student din had disrupted.

Johnson, touring eastern Canada, had tried to speak at a meeting sponsored by the local Society of Friendship Committee.

Bill Would Provide 1,000 Scholarships

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—An additional 1,200 war service scholarships for armed forces veterans would be created under terms of a bill approved by the Senate.

The scholarships, which provide $350 a year over four years for each veteran, were set up in 1944, and 1,200 have been added each year.

The Senate last night also passed measures that would:

Extend to July 1, 1955, the power of the Conservation Department to close fishing waters because of drouth conditions.

Extend one year, to July 1, 1954, permission for members of the armed services to hunt or fish in the state without a license. The measure would exclude the hunting of deer and bear.

Licensing Chiropractors

Last night over station WKNY I listened to the presentation by the Ulster County Medical Society on the subject of the licensing of Chiropractic in the state of New York. During the discussion the doctors asked the people to write their Senator and Assemblyman to vote against the Chiropractic Bill and to vote for the one they are supporting.

I feel that patients of the Chiropractors as well as other supporters of the Chiropractic healing profession should have an equal invitation to write urging the passage of a bill licensing the Chiropractic profession in the state of New York as it is in the 44 other states and the District of Columbia. Therefore, I urge all those interested in the good of Chiropractic write to Senator Arthur Wicks and Assemblyman John Wadlin asking their support of the Seelye-Morgan Chiropractic Bill (Print No. 1374 Senate and No. 1555 Assembly) now pending in Albany.

Yours very truly
CLIFFORD J. BELL

Integrity Is Subject Of Wednesday Service

The second in the series of lenten midweek services will be held at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church on Wednesday, Feb. 25 at 7:30 p. m.

The general theme of the lenten devotional addresses being given by Dr. Clyde Herbert Snell is Essentials of Discipleship. Wednesday's topic will be Integrity. The public is cordially invited.

Actor Is Honored

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—The Forty-eighth Street Theatre has a new name just for today—the Old Vic Theatre. A sign with the new name was to be hoisted over the marquee in honor of the 76th birthday of actor Victor Moore, who is starring in the play "On Borrowed Time." Moore started his stage and screen career 60 years ago.

Catholic Schools Hold Press Exhibit Tonight

A press exhibit of publications written and edited by students of Catholic elementary and secondary schools, universities and colleges in the New York Archdiocese will be displayed tonight from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock, at the Catholic Charities Center, 130 East 22nd street, New York, when the Catholic Youth Organization holds its fourth annual press exhibit marking Catholic Press Month.

In addition, ten students will participate in a forum discussion of the significance of the Catholic press.

More than 300 papers and periodicals — mimeographed, photo-offset and printed — will be shown at the exhibit. Gold medal awards will be presented by a committee of judges for the best papers edited by parish youth groups whose editorial members are under 25 years of age.

Competing in this fourth annual exhibit, are schools and colleges in Staten Island, Manhattan, the Bronx, Westchester, Rockland, Orange, Dutchess, Ulster and Sullivan counties.

At the forum ten boys and girls representing schools in Manhattan and the Bronx will discuss the Catholic press.

Bill Goes to Assembly

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24 (AP)—A bill to extend the once-controversial State Emergency Defense Act was before the Assembly today, after approval, last night almost without a murmur, in the Senate. The act stirred a storm of opposition before its passage in 1951. Its foes contended Gov. Dewey sought to gain dictatorial powers through the measure. It has been extended each year since.

Reports Girl Bitten

Dr. George F. Elnterz reported to police at 4:20 p. m. yesterday that he had treated Gloria Hughes, 11, of 38 Boulder avenue, for dogbite about the left arm and left chest. Police said the girl was bitten by a dog owned by Earl C. Hopkins of 26 Lucas avenue.

Suicide Is Reported

Tokyo, Feb. 24 (AP)—The UN Prison of War Command today reported that a Chinese Communist POW was found hanging in a bath house at the Cheju Island prison camp Sunday. The command said preliminary investigation indicated the POW had committed suicide.

Three-dimensional Motion Picture Here March 18

The world's first feature-length three-dimensional motion picture, Bwana Devil, will be presented at the Kingston Theatre starting Wednesday, March 18.

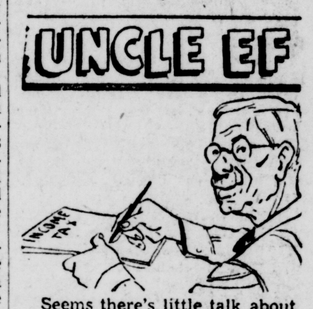

The history making film, which is also the first three-dimensional film to be made in color, is the exciting culmination of over 25 years of intense research in the field of three-dimensional cinematography and projection by technicians both in Hollywood and in Europe.

Special projection and sound equipment and a new screen will be installed in the Kingston without interruption to the theatre's regular motion picture presentation, and more than 20,000 special polaroid glasses have been ordered for the use of patrons during the special engagement.

For the first time, theatre patrons will be able to actually see depth on the screen in Bwana Devil as well as experience the sensation that images project out from the screen into the theatre auditorium.

Reade hailed the engagement as a historical one for the motion picture industry, declaring that Bwana Devil will be the first of many feature-length three-dimensional films now being made in Hollwood. He declared that it will make moving going an entirely new experience for the public and marks a milestone as important as the introduction of sound.

Bwana Devil was produced by Natural Vision, headed by Arch Oboler, noted motion picture and radio writer-director-producer, and stars Robert Stack, Barbara Britton, and Nigel Bruce in a story taking place in Africa. In the few pre-release engagements in a number of major American theatres the film has done greater business than any normal motion picture feature in many years.

Court of Claims Dismisses Suits

The New York State Court of Claims yesterday dismissed two suits, one brought by Mrs. Theresa J. Desco of Kingston and the other by James Yannone, 24, of Catskill, for damages arising out of an accident on the New York Thruway on March 26, 1951, when a car operated by Stephen P. Desco was in collision with a parked lumber truck.

Claimants contended the accident was caused when the car in which they were riding collided with the truck parked on the travel lane because the operator of the truck was unable to pull off on the soft shoulder when his truck became disabled.

$805,000 Sought

Mrs. Desco sought $105,000 from the state for the "wrongful death" of her husband, Louis J. Desco, 30, and James Yannone, 24, Summit avenue, Catskill, asked $200,000 for injuries which he sustained.

The claimants charged the state with negligent construction of Thruway shoulders, stating they were soft and the disabled truck had been unable to get off the hard surfaced highway.

At the time of the accident the occupants of the car were en route to Kingston, after visiting relatives in Catskill. The matter was heard last week before the Court of Claims. Andrew J. Cook, Jr., of Cook & Cook appeared for Yannone. Charles A. Gaffney appeared for Desco. Appeals will be taken in both cases.

Bill Would Provide 1,000 Scholarships

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—An additional 1,200 war service scholarships for armed forces veterans would be created under terms of a bill approved by the Senate.

The scholarships, which provide $350 a year over four years for each veteran, were set up in 1944, and 1,200 have been added each year.

The Senate last night also passed measures that would:

Extend to July 1, 1955, the power of the Conservation Department to close fishing waters because of drouth conditions.

Extend one year, to July 1, 1954, permission for members of the armed services to hunt or fish in the state without a license. The measure would exclude the hunting of deer and bear.

Licensing Chiropractors

Last night over station WKNY I listened to the presentation by the Ulster County Medical Society on the subject of the licensing of Chiropractic in the state of New York. During the discussion the doctors asked the people to write their Senator and Assemblyman to vote against the Chiropractic Bill and to vote for the one they are supporting.

I feel that patients of the Chiropractors as well as other supporters of the Chiropractic healing profession should have an equal invitation to write urging the passage of a bill licensing the Chiropractic profession in the state of New York as it is in the 44 other states and the District of Columbia. Therefore, I urge all those interested in the good of Chiropractic write to Senator Arthur Wicks and Assemblyman John Wadlin asking their support of the Seelye-Morgan Chiropractic Bill (Print No. 1374 Senate and No. 1555 Assembly) now pending in Albany.

Yours very truly

Moore started his stage and screen career 60 years ago.

Catholic Schools Hold Press Exhibit Tonight

A press exhibit of publications written and edited by students of Catholic elementary and secondary schools, universities and colleges in the New York Archdiocese will be displayed tonight from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock, at the Catholic Charities Center, 130 East 22nd street, New York, when the Catholic Youth Organization holds its fourth annual press exhibit marking Catholic Press Month.

In addition, ten students will participate in a forum discussion of the significance of the Catholic press.

More than 300 papers and periodicals — mimeographed, photo-offset and printed — will be shown at the exhibit. Gold medal awards will be presented by a committee of judges for the best papers edited by parish youth groups whose editorial members are under 25 years of age.

Competing in this fourth annual exhibit, are schools and colleges in Staten Island, Manhattan, the Bronx, Westchester, Rockland, Orange, Dutchess, Ulster and Sullivan counties.

At the forum ten boys and girls representing schools in Manhattan and the Bronx will discuss the Catholic press.

Bill Goes to Assembly

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24 (AP)—A bill to extend the once-controversial State Emergency Defense Act was before the Assembly today, after approval, last night almost without a murmur, in the Senate. The act stirred a storm of opposition before its passage in 1951. Its foes contended Gov. Dewey sought to gain dictatorial powers through the measure. It has been extended each year since.

Three-dimensional Motion Picture Here March 18

The world's first feature-length three-dimensional motion picture, Bwana Devil, will be presented at the Kingston Theatre starting Wednesday, March 18.

The history making film, which is also the first three-dimensional film to be made in color, is the exciting culmination of over 25 years of intense research in the field of three-dimensional cinematography and projection by technicians both in Hollywood and in Europe.

Special projection and sound equipment and a new screen will be installed in the Kingston without interruption to the theatre's regular motion picture presentation, and more than 20,000 special polaroid glasses have been ordered for the use of patrons during the special engagement.

For the first time, theatre patrons will be able to actually see depth on the screen in Bwana Devil as well as experience the sensation that images project out from the screen into the theatre auditorium.

Reade hailed the engagement as a historical one for the motion picture industry, declaring that Bwana Devil will be the first of many feature-length three-dimensional films now being made in Hollwood. He declared that it will make moving going an entirely new experience for the public and marks a milestone as important as the introduction of sound.

BOILING OUT INFLATION

By Harry C. France

The dollar is soon to regain some of its lost integrity. Thrift—with the promise of lower costs and taxes—will again be an economic virtue. Saving and investment, with higher interest rates and more stable values, will assume their rightful place in the national economy.

President Eisenhower's address to the Congress on Monday, Feb. 2, indicates that in the immediate months ahead many of the inflationary policies of the government of recent years are to be reversed. The flood of money which deficient financing has produced is to be stopped at the first possible moment.

Oceans of dollars have been primarily responsible for the price and wage troubles of the past 15 years. As I have noted in this column many times, when Uncle Sam's debts increased from 20 billions of dollars in 1933 to 267 billions in 1953, a flood of paper money (mostly Federal Reserve notes) inundated the country. That flood forced prices and wages higher and higher.

Uncle Sam borrowed over $33,000,000,000 a day, on the average, 365 or 366 days a year for 20 consecutive years to pay his bills. President Eisenhower proposed to stop this borrowing early in his term of office. It is good news to everybody who wants a sound dollar—and who doesn't?

Inflation encourages unsound speculation and discourages thrift. A working man who has little or nothing left from his pay check after he has settled with the butcher, baker and candlestick maker often falls prey to betting or unworthy risk-taking. High prices, high rents, high costs—these leave millions of people vulnerable to unsound economic practices. Such prices and costs often drive men to licentiousness. Inflation can become a devastating moral and economic force.

My prediction of recent months that money is going to get more expensive has already come true. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is extending short term, low yielding government bonds into longer term, higher yielding obligations. If interest rates on the best bond in the world—U. S. Government Bonds—are allowed to go somewhat higher, billions of dollars of idle money will flow into them and the refunding of billions of Uncle Sam's dangerous bank-held inflationary debt will be accomplished easily.

It is my opinion that the complete reversal of many of Washington's fiscal policies will adversely affect some stock prices. Let me illustrate: Here is a world-leading corporation. In 1952, its volume was over a billion dollars—a 400% increase in 10 years. That is a perfect picture of what inflation does. Its prices, profits, wages, taxes and costs reflect the inflation. And the common stock is up 150% in price.

Common stock buyers today should look closely into the inflation picture of the enterprise which shares they are contemplating buying. And where, in recent years, volume and prices and profits and wages and dividends have been in an upward spiral, great care and sober judgment should be employed.

The utilities, the bank and trust shares, some of the merchandising stocks have been little influenced by inflationary trends. Inflation has hampered the rails, what with their growing costs and taxes.

A long-pull investor need be in no hurry to buy choice equities, in my opinion. Where immediate income is obligatory, short term bonds, good grade preferred stocks paying 5% and 6% on a cost basis, sound utility and bank stocks may be purchased.

All investors should welcome fiscal policies out of Washington that will help boil some of the inflation out of the high price, high tax and high cost situations in America.

The Forum

(Q.) Lately, many letters from readers able to save from $300 to $500 a year have come to my desk. This is a general answer to all of them.

(A) No one should start investing until he has (1) a reasonable amount on deposit, withdrawal on demand, in a good savings bank, and (2) an insurance contract of some sort. Dollars in banks at interest and an insurance anchor should precede other investment. Beyond these, each $1,000 of savings should go into two or three sound equities of enterprises that must stand if America does. I shall discuss some of them next week.

Harry C. France will anwer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Woman's Discovery Makes Margarine Spread Smoother

Grange News

Farm policy on the subject of price supports as expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was applauded by N. Y. State Grange Master Leland D. Smith. Speaking at a western, N. Y., conference the farm leader told his audience that Grange members and most farmers in the northeast have known for years that full production and free markets are not encouraged under rigid price controls. Until now Washington has turned a deaf ear to grass roots farmers who have asked for less government intervention in their affairs. "Secretary of Agriculture Benson has pledged himself to uphold existing laws governing price supports," Mr. Smith pointed out, "but his intention to use them in the future only as a last extremity is in line with Grange farm policy, and we heartily approve his courageous stand. We in the Grange feel that the mark of a free people is their determination and ability to solve their own problems through their own resources rather than calling on others to do it for them, and we are pleased to find that Secretary Benson shares this belief."

Grange youth activities will focus on the annual leadership school, which has been set for July 26 through August 1 at the Agricultural and Technical Institute at Morrisville. Dormitory and class accommodations make this a desirable location, together with suitable recreation facilities including nearby swimming. Pomona Granges will be well repaid in financing at least one representative to the school, by contributing to this excellent training in leadership that will return long range benefits to their areas. There are no fixed quotas, and now is the time to canvass your youth for eligible students. Applications of chosen "students" should be in to Pomona youth committees by May 30 and to State youth chairman Elton Borden by June 15.

Sardine Sandwich Spells Thrift

PROTEIN-RICH SALAD of Maine sardines, hard-cooked eggs, sharp cheese and lettuce, plus Russian dressing is served chilled.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For meatless day luncheons, you'll enjoy this recipe which uses Maine sardines, a very economical source of excellent protein. The creamed pea sauce that goes with this puts more low-cost nutrition into the recipe:

Whole Meal Sardine Sandwiches
(4 servings)

One can Maine cardines (3¼-ounce size), ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup flour, 1½ cups milk, 1 cup fresh cooked or canned peas, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 slices bread, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tomatoes.

Make a white sauce from butter, flour and milk. Add drained peas, salt and keep hot over boiling water. Toast the bread, and butter the slices. Drain oil from sardines. Arrange on toast and top with tomato slices. Place under broiler long enough to heat tomatoes through. Serve hot with a generous helping of the creamed peas over the top.

Sardine Apple Salad
(6 servings)

Two cans Maine sardines (3¼-ounce size), 1 firm red apple, 1½ cups diced boiled potatoes, 1½ cups diced pickled beets, 1/3 cup minced sweet pickles, 1 small onion (chopped), 4 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons water, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and pepper to taste, 2 hard-cooked eggs, ½ cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon pickled beet juice.

Drain oil from sardines and cut into small pieces. Peel, core and chop apple and combine with sardines along with potatoes, pickled beets, pickles and onion. Mix vinegar, water, sugar and salt and pepper. Toss lightly into sardines and vegetables.

Pack into a 1-quart mold that has been rinsed in cold water and chill several hours in refrigerator. Unmold and garnish with wedges of hard-cooked eggs. Serve with sour cream beaten stiff and lightly tinted with pickled beet juice.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Fruit cup, fried cornmeal mush with pork sausages, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Whole meal sardine sandwiches with creamed peas, raw carrot sticks, baked apples, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, saute of shoulder lamb chops and onions, baked potatoes, buttered kale with lemon and chopped egg yolk, enriched bread, butter or margarine, lemon meringue pudding, coffee, milk.

Trinity to Hold Second Service

The second mid-week Lenten service of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

The familiar old Lenten hymns will be sung and Part 2 of the History of the Passion of our Lord will be read. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, will preach the second of a series of Lenten sermons on the general theme, Towering O'er the Wrecks of Time. His topic will be the Victory of the Cross. As has been the custom in past years, there will be a special quiet time during the general prayer for individual petitions on the part of the congregation. The service will close with a Lenten Litany sung by the Senior Choir.

The following musical program has been arranged by Mrs. Willard A. Burke, director of music, and Miss Lucinda Merritt, church organist:

Prelude, Romanza, Wolfstenholm; solo, Prayer, Guion by Miss Dorris Terns; anthem, Still, Still With Thee, Speaks; postlude, Eventide, Clarke.

TV Hurts Advertiser

Chicago (AP) — Television shows of crime and violence are not good business, says a Chicago advertising executive who has been making a study of the question. Edward H. Weiss says that when people are in a panic, or semi-panic, such as that induced by a highly dramatic scene or killing in a TV play, they freeze and do nothing. "Violence is the worst possible thing to get people in the proper frame of mind for commercials," he says.

The Mature Parent

Parents' Own Experience Is Useful With Children

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Before he was married, Hal's father worked for a man named Mr. Bryce. Part of his job was the monthly preparation of a list of stores which had used certain pieces of display advertising. Mr. Bryce called this list the "Customer Response Report."

It was a dull report to have to prepare—but Mr. Bryce's temperament made it intolerable. For days before it was due, he would worry at Hal's father and the Customer Response Report like a tired dog at two bones he didn't want to eat. In the elevator, at the office water-cooler, five times a day, every day, Mr. Bryce would say, "How's the report coming, Miller?...Getting some good licks in on the report tomorrow? . . . You're not forgetting the chain-store breakdowns, are you?"

At these times, Hal's father often wished he'd gone to sea as a boy. He suffered from revolutionary feelings toward his job, and stalled on the Customer Response Report.

But one day, he woke up to the fact that this was pretty silly. He saw that it was not very bright of him to confuse his ressistance to nagging, anxious Mr. Bryce with resistance to the dull but innocent Customer Response Report. After that he got it done in two days—and soon left the job he had conquered for a better one.

One Saturday reecntly Hal's mother had to tell him three times to get on with his chore of cleaning the garage. When he continued to stall, his father did not say, "You heard your mother. Get out there and get to work." Instead, he called Hal into the living-room and told him the story of Mr. Bryce.

He said, "Are you sore at mother and me about something? Because if you are, it would be better for you to get your gripe off your chest instead of taking it out on a chore that has to be done. It only makes a job twice as hard when you don't face up to your dislike of the person who tells you to do it. So what's the gripe?"

It turned out to be his 13-year-old's still-rankling resentment at the parents who had denied him permission to skate on a half-frozen lake the week before.

When their point of view had been explained, Hal went off whistling to clean the garage. He's gone on cleaning it very Saturday since with a minimum of grumble.

A smart father? Not particularly. He's just used what he knows. He's not the only one among us who's had a Mr. Bryce in his life. Most of us have. Have we forgotten what it was like to obey him—or like Hal's father, do we use what he taught us when the children stall on the chores?

Do we wring our hands over their resistance to our nagging—or like Hal's father, do we identify it with our own remembered resistance to nagging? It's important to remember. Because Mr. Bryce is Incompetent Authority—and wherever you find him, we'll find people who stall on what he asks them to do.

BOILING OUT INFLATION

By Harry C. France

The dollar is soon to regain some of its lost integrity. Thrift—with the promise of lower costs and taxes—will again be an economic virtue. Saving and investment, with higher interest rates and more stable values, will assume their rightful place in the national economy.

President Eisenhower's address to the Congress on Monday, Feb. 2, indicates that in the immediate months ahead many of the inflationary policies of the government of recent years are to be reversed. The flood of money which deficient financing has produced is to be stopped at the first possible moment.

Oceans of dollars have been primarily responsible for the price and wage troubles of the past 15 years. As I have noted in this column many times, when Uncle Sam's debts increased from 20 billions of dollars in 1933 to 267 billions in 1953, a flood of paper money (mostly Federal Reserve notes) inundated the country. That flood forced prices and wages higher and higher.

Uncle Sam borrowed over $33,000,000 a day, on the average, 365 or 366 days a year for 20 consecutive years to pay his bills. President Eisenhower proposed to stop this borrowing early in his term of office. It is good news to everybody who wants a sound dollar—and who doesn't?

Inflation encourages unsound speculation and discourages thrift. A working man who has little or nothing left from his pay check after he has settled with the butcher, baker and candlestick maker often falls prey to betting or unworthy risk-taking. High prices, high rents, high costs—these leave millions of people vulnerable to unsound economic practices. Such prices and costs often drive men to licentiousness. Inflation can become a devastating moral and economic force.

My prediction of recent months that money is going to get more expensive has already come true. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is extending short term, low yielding government bonds into longer term, higher yielding obligations. If interest rates on the best bond in the world—U. S. Government Bonds—are allowed to go somewhat higher, billions of dollars of idle money will flow into them and the refunding of billions of Uncle Sam's dangerous bank-held inflationary debt will be accomplished easily.

It is my opinion that the complete reversal of many of Washington's fiscal policies will adversely affect some stock prices. Let me illustrate: Here is a world-leading corporation. In 1952, its volume was over a billion dollars—a 400% increase in 10 years. That is a perfect picture of what inflation does. Its prices, profits, wages, taxes and costs reflect the inflation. And the common stock is up 150% in price.

Common stock buyers today should look closely into the inflation picture of the enterprise which shares they are contemplating buying. And where, in recent years, volume and prices and profits and wages and dividends have been in an upward spiral, great care and sober judgment should be employed.

The utilities, the bank and trust shares, some of the merchandising stocks have been little influenced by inflationary trends. Inflation has hampered the rails, what with their growing costs and taxes.

A long-pull investor need be in no hurry to buy choice equities, in my opinion. Where immediate income is obligatory, short term bonds, good grade preferred stocks paying 5% and 6% on a cost basis, sound utility and bank stocks may be purchased.

All investors should welcome fiscal policies out of Washington that will help boil some of the inflation out of the high price, high tax and high cost situations in America.

The Forum

(Q.) Lately, many letters from readers able to save from $300 to $500 a year have come to my desk. This is a general answer to all of them.

(A) No one should start investing until he has (1) a reasonable amount on deposit, withdrawal on demand, in a good savings bank, and (2) an insurance contract of some sort. Dollars in banks at interest and an insurance anchor should precede other investment. Beyond these, each $1,000 of savings should go into two or three sound equities of enterprises that must stand if America does. I shall discuss some of them next week.

Harry C. France will anwer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

Grange News

Farm policy on the subject of price supports as expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson was applauded by N. Y. State Grange Master Leland D. Smith. Speaking at a western, N. Y., conference the farm leader told his audience that Grange members and most farmers in the northeast have known for years that full production and free markets are not encouraged under rigid price controls. Until now Washington has turned a deaf ear to grass roots farmers who have asked for less government intervention in their affairs. "Secretary of Agriculture Benson has pledged himself to uphold existing laws governing price supports," Mr. Smith pointed out, "but his intention to use them in the future only as a last extremity is in line with Grange farm policy, and we heartily approve his courageous stand. We in the Grange feel that the mark of a free people is their determination and ability to solve their own problems through their own resources rather than calling on others to do it for them, and we are pleased to find that Secretary Benson shares this belief."

Grange youth activities will focus on the annual leadership school, which has been set for July 26 through August 1 at the Agricultural and Technical Institute at Morrisville. Dormitory and class accommodations make this a desirable location, together with suitable recreation facilities including nearby swimming. Pomona Granges will be well repaid in financing at least one representative to the school, by contributing to this excellent training in leadership that will return long range benefits to their areas. There are no fixed quotas, and now is the time to canvass your youth for eligible students. Applications of chosen "students" should be in to Pomona youth committees by May 30 and to State youth chairman Elton Borden by June 15.

TV Hurts Advertiser

Chicago (AP) — Television shows of crime and violence are not good business, says a Chicago advertising executive who has been making a study of the question. Edward H. Weiss says that when people are in a panic, or semi-panic, such as that induced by a highly dramatic scene or killing in a TV play, they freeze and do nothing. "Violence is the worst possible thing to get people in the proper frame of mind for commercials," he says.

Sardine Sandwich Spells Thrift

PROTEIN-RICH SALAD of Maine sardines, hard-cooked eggs, sharp cheese and lettuce, plus Russian dressing is served chilled.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

For meatless day luncheons, you'll enjoy this recipe which uses Maine sardines, a very economical source of excellent protein. The creamed pea sauce that goes with this puts more low-cost nutrition into the recipe:

Whole Meal Sardine Sandwiches

(4 servings)

One can Maine cardines (3¼-ounce size), ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup flour, 1½ cups milk, 1 cup fresh cooked or canned peas, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 slices bread, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tomatoes.

Make a white sauce from butter, flour and milk. Add drained peas, salt and keep hot over boiling water. Toast the bread, and butter the slices. Drain oil from sardines. Arrange on toast and top with tomato slices. Place under broiler long enough to heat tomatoes through. Serve hot with a generous helping of the creamed peas over the top.

Sardine Apple Salad

Two cans Maine sardines (3¼-ounce size), 1 firm red apple, 1½ cups diced boiled potatoes, 1½ cups diced pickled beets, 1/3 cup minced sweet pickles, 1 small onion (chopped), 4 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons water, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and pepper to taste, 2 hard-cooked eggs, ½ cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon pickled beet juice.

Drain oil from sardines and cut into small pieces. Peel, core and chop apple and combine with sardines along with potatoes, pickled beets, pickles and onion. Mix vinegar, water, sugar and salt and pepper. Toss lightly into sardines and vegetables.

Pack into a 1-quart mold that has been rinsed in cold water and chill several hours in refrigerator. Unmold and garnish with wedges of hard-cooked eggs. Serve with sour cream beaten stiff and lightly tinted with pickled beet juice.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Fruit cup, fried cornmeal mush with pork sausages, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Whole meal sardine sandwiches with creamed peas, raw carrot sticks, baked apples, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, saute of shoulder lamb chops and onions, baked potatoes, buttered kale with lemon and chopped egg yolk, enriched bread, butter or margarine, lemon meringue pudding, coffee, milk.

Trinity to Hold Second Service

The second mid-week Lenten service of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spring and Hone streets, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

The familiar old Lenten hymns will be sung and Part 2 of the History of the Passion of our Lord will be read. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Frank Lawrence Gollnick, will preach the second of a series of Lenten sermons on the general theme, Towering O'er the Wrecks of Time. His topic will be the Victory of the Cross. As has been the custom in past years, there will be a special quiet time during the general prayer for individual petitions on the part of the congregation. The service will close with a Lenten Litany sung by the Senior Choir.

The following musical program has been arranged by Mrs. Willard A. Burke, director of music, and Miss Lucinda Merritt, church organist:

Prelude, Romanza, Wolfstenholm; solo, Prayer, Guion by Miss Dorris Terns; anthem, Still, Still With Thee, Speaks; postlude, Eventide, Clarke.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Before he was married, Hal's father worked for a man named Mr. Bryce. Part of his job was the monthly preparation of a list of stores which had used certain pieces of display advertising. Mr. Bryce called this list the "Customer Response Report."

It was a dull report to have to prepare—but Mr. Bryce's temperament made it intolerable. For days before it was due, he would worry at Hal's father and the Customer Response Report like a tired dog at two bones he didn't want to eat. In the elevator, at the office water-cooler, five times a day, every day, Mr. Bryce would say, "How's the report coming, Miller?...Getting some good licks in on the report tomorrow? . . . You're not forgetting the chain-store breakdowns, are you?"

At these times, Hal's father often wished he'd gone to sea as a boy. He suffered from revolutionary feelings toward his job, and stalled on the Customer Response Report.

But one day, he woke up to the fact that this was pretty silly. He saw that it was not very bright of him to confuse his ressistance to nagging, anxious Mr. Bryce with resistance to the dull but innocent Customer Response Report. After that he got it done in two days—and soon left the job he had conquered for a better one.

One Saturday reecntly Hal's mother had to tell him three times to get on with his chore of cleaning the garage. When he continued to stall, his father did not say, "You heard your mother. Get out there and get to work." Instead, he called Hal into the living-room and told him the story of Mr. Bryce.

He said, "Are you sore at mother and me about something? Because if you are, it would be better for you to get your gripe off your chest instead of taking it out on a chore that has to be done. It only makes a job twice as hard when you don't face up to your dislike of the person who tells you to do it. So what's the gripe?"

It turned out to be his 13-year-old's still-rankling resentment at the parents who had denied him permission to skate on a half-frozen lake the week before.

When their point of view had been explained, Hal went off whistling to clean the garage. He's gone on cleaning it very Saturday since with a minimum of grumble.

A smart father? Not particularly. He's just used what he knows. He's not the only one among us who's had a Mr. Bryce in his life. Most of us have. Have we forgotten what it was like to obey him—or like Hal's father, do we use what he taught us when the children stall on the chores?

Do we wring our hands over their resistance to our nagging—or like Hal's father, do we identify it with our own remembered resistance to nagging? It's important to remember. Because Mr. Bryce is Incompetent Authority—and wherever you find him, we'll find people who stall on what he asks them to do.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

How would you like to buy property now at the 1902 prices in Kingston? W. G. Hamilton, a real estate broker of 293 Wall street was advertising some of the following properties. One called "The Bruyn Property," 277 Albany avenue, lot 100x500, value $12,000 selling at $8,000. An 8-room house on Green street for two families only $1,250. An 8-room cottage at 77 Maiden Lane for only $1,600. A 6-room house near Chester street for only $950. I guess you can't even buy a prefabricated house for that. Perhaps a garage can be had for that now, providing you have the land on which to build it. Lucky were the Kingstonians who back in 1902 had the foresight to buy land and property in the sections which became expensive as the years rolled along.

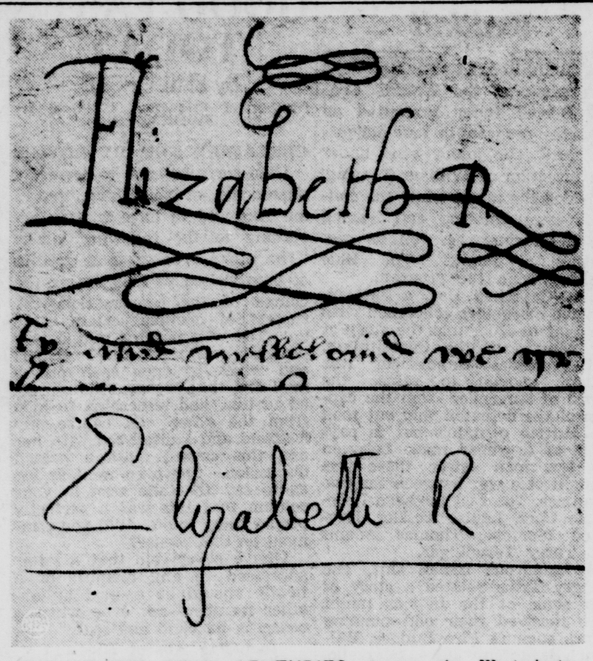

That was the year that the new Kirkland opened its doors April 1. The advertisement said: "New and magnificent apartment house. Offers, to those desiring, superior accommodations at moderate rates. Large sunny rooms. Hot and cold water, baths and every other modern comfort and appointment. Mrs. M. S. Conklin." Several years later on May 27, 1909 articles of incorporation of the Ulster County Hotel Corp. were filed in Albany. Directors were James S. Winne, Carrie C. Winnie, and Chris. K. Loughran. The article stated that the corporation planned to erect a $100,000 hotel at John and Fair streets. That of course became our Stuyvesant Hotel. At the time it stated the hotel was to be managed by James S. Winnie who for 25 years was one of the proprietors of the old Eagle Hotel on Main street until sold to C. E. Hungerford.

Most old timers remember when the old Eagle Hotel was owned and run by William J. Turck, he bought it on Feb. 16, 1922. Back in the very early 1880's — the old Eagle was the leading hotel in Kingston, located on Main street where the parking lot is today. In the old advertisements they used to say "a few steps from the route of the horse-cars as they pass the County Clerk's office." The old Eagle was the successor of an old tavern around the 1840's. That was the time, in the sharp campaign of 1840, it became the rallying point for the processions which, on a wave of "hard cider, and wafted by fluttering coon skins swept into the presidency William Henry Harrison, and Tyler too."

Down in Rondout, the old Mansion House was the principal hotel. The building is now broken up into apartments and most of the balconies are gone. In the early 1880's they said of the Mansion House, "It is a large and commodious building, eligible situated on Union avenue corner The Strand." Those were the days that lower Broadway was called Union avenue.

Kingston has grown very slowly in population for back in 1833 we already had 20,000. In those days Kingston had no waterworks, and no general system of electric fire-alarm of course. The city was lighted throughout with gas, which was first used about 1854. A telephone line was rapidly spreading its network of wire throughout the entire city and suburbs, believe it or not. The Western Union Telegraph Co. had two offices in the city, and there was a well organized local Express Co. and quick delivery of smaller goods. The United States Express and American Express both also had offices in Kingston at the time.

SIGNATURES SPAN CENTURIES—Among the Westminster Abbey treasures on display at St. James' palace are the signatures of Queen Elizabeth I (top), who ruled England in the 16th century, and Queen Elizabeth II, the present sovereign. The "Elizabeth R" means "Elizabeth Regina" or Elizabeth the Queen.

'Made in Japan'

By FRANK TRIPP

They are inching back into the American market; those products of Japan which once sent chills up labor's back. A new generation has come of age since the stamp "Made in Japan" caused half of our populace to see red; before the Nips committed suicide at Pearl Harbor.

Excepting perhaps, silks, cotton fabrics and chinaware, their products were vastly inferior, mostly fragile, flimsy imitations of American and German creations — though not always. Their inventiveness had not been tested. They boasted their ability to imitate.

The Japanese masses who made these things were paid wages around one tenth of the American wage of even 20 years ago. They worked nine and ten-hour days, seven days a week; no Sundays, at most two days rest in a month. Children of 12 and 14, both sexes, were in factories. Home industry was widespread.

* * *

OF A SUDDEN inventiveness began to appear and better products imitated the American article with which it would compete: when they learned that price often is secondary to quality in the States. Thus pre-Pearl Harbor we saw items which began to challenge our standards.

The improvement will be more evident with Japan's rehabilitation. Japanese are workers; ambitious, tireless, patient; their industrialists intelligent and crafty. Don't be fooled, we are far from through reckoning with them commercially.

Before World War 2, half of their national budgets and one fourth of their people were employed in war preparation and defense. Now we have taken over their battles. Millions of Japanese must seek different livelihood. In industry, of course, to compete with American workmen, here and in world markets.

UNTIL THEIR standards of living compare with ours, which is inconceivable, only trade restrictions, tariffs or boycotts can protect the American workman against Japan's certain thrust to achieve American quality. Their recovered position in optics, lenses, cameras and small gadgets already is disturbing.

Their age-old hatred of Russia writes off any immediate Red threat. Their workers have the same ambitions as ours, but have oh so far to go. Yet they have advanced some, through our occupation and by contact with our soldiers. Their hopes were smoldering, even before the war.

While Hirohito was still a divinity to them, this chronicler took the trouble to probe the thinking of these workers. And found them hopelessly groping for a better life. Whilst fettered body and soul by a militaristic-industrial government clique.

IN OSAKA a Japanese was making a micrometer. For average purposes it equalled ours, yet sold over here for about $7, against $15 for its American counterpart. This price spread was almost entirely the difference in labor cost.

Through an interpreter he asked "How much does American workman get for making this?" I guessed $1.75 an hour, $14 a day, as of that time. At current exchange $14 then bought 42 Japanese yen, the yen being their dollar.

The man stared straight through me, with an angered leer, half disgust, half threat. He was intelligent, an expert workman, one of the highest paid to be found in Japan. He was paid a premium wage—six yen for a nine-hour day. That equalled 20 cents an hour, $1.80 a day in our money.

No affair of ours? Let's see. The article he was making was to sell against the labor of an American, who was paid, within five cents, as much for one hour's work as this Japanese was paid for a nine-hour day.

* * *

THE INCIDENT and others like it have remained indelible in my mind, a signal every time I read a label, "Made in Japan." A signal that Kipling hoisted many years ago, "Oh, East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet."

Yet the twain does meet—in the market place; clashes there bloodlessly but as bitterly as on the battlefield.

There is one role however into which Japanese labor can be cast to the benefit of the American workman and his sons in Korea. Let Japan rearm, by her own labor, and send her sons to replace ours on Oriental battlefields. As she did for ages; which she yearns to do again in her own defense—and to our advantage.

Nippon will think for centuries before pulling another Pearl Harbor. Russia and China will keep her plenty busy on her own doorstep.

Take Bridge Tip From Tourney Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When today's hand was played in the recent World Championship Match in New York, the American West did not consider his hand worth an opening two bid. It was a borderline hand, and he would have opened with a two bid if his clubs had been spades. Since his best suit was a minor, however, he preferred the more conservative opening bid.

As you can see from the bidding in the diagram, West found a way to show his full strength by doubling everything in sight thereafter. The double of one spade was a takeout double, but the double of two diamonds could be played either way, and East chose to pass. When West also doubled two spades, East was delighted to pass.

South went for a nice ride at two spades. West cashed two top hearts, continued with the king of clubs, shifted to the ace of diamonds, and then led his singleton king of spades.

South took the ace of spades, entered dummy with a diamond, and led the queen of hearts instead of cashing dummy's remaining diamond. East ruffed with the nine, and South overruffed with the jack. South next led a trump, and East took three trump tricks. A club shift now gave West two tricks in that suit, for down four.

In the other room, the Swedish West opened with two clubs rather than only one club. He eventually played the hand at three no-trump, and was set one trick by careful defense. The American team thus scored 700 points in the first room and 50 points in the second room for a total gain of 750 points on the hand.

Perhaps this hand will serve as a lesson to the many players who itch to open with a two bid on the slightest possible excuse. There is no advantage in reaching a game contract that you cannot make, and there is a decided advantage in giving the opponents a chance to climb into the bidding and to get themselves massacred.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

How would you like to buy property now at the 1902 prices in Kingston? W. G. Hamilton, a real estate broker of 293 Wall street was advertising some of the following properties. One called "The Bruyn Property," 277 Albany avenue, lot 100x500, value $12,000 selling at $8,000. An 8-room house on Green street for two families only $1,250. An 8-room cottage at 77 Maiden Lane for only $1,600. A 6-room house near Chester street for only $950. I guess you can't even buy a prefabricated house for that. Perhaps a garage can be had for that now, providing you have the land on which to build it. Lucky were the Kingstonians who back in 1902 had the foresight to buy land and property in the sections which became expensive as the years rolled along.

That was the year that the new Kirkland opened its doors April 1. The advertisement said: "New and magnificent apartment house. Offers, to those desiring, superior accommodations at moderate rates. Large sunny rooms. Hot and cold water, baths and every other modern comfort and appointment. Mrs. M. S. Conklin." Several years later on May 27, 1909 articles of incorporation of the Ulster County Hotel Corp. were filed in Albany. Directors were James S. Winne, Carrie C. Winnie, and Chris. K. Loughran. The article stated that the corporation planned to erect a $100,000 hotel at John and Fair streets. That of course became our Stuyvesant Hotel. At the time it stated the hotel was to be managed by James S. Winnie who for 25 years was one of the proprietors of the old Eagle Hotel on Main street until sold to C. E. Hungerford.

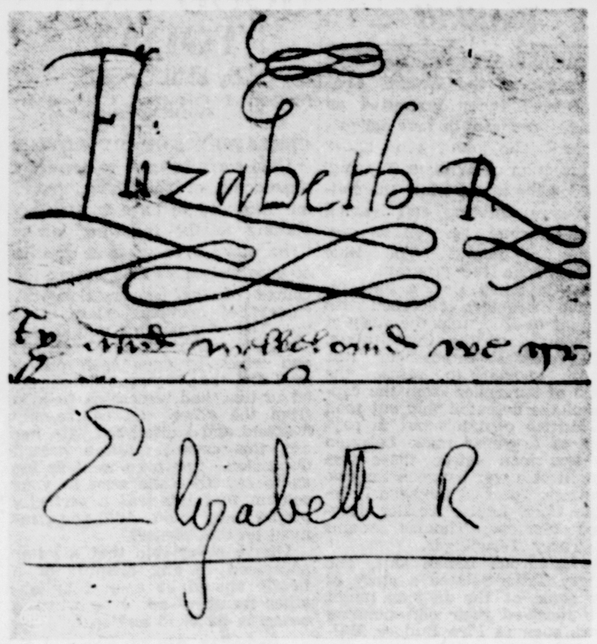

Most old timers remember when the old Eagle Hotel was owned and run by William J. Turck, he bought it on Feb. 16, 1922. Back in the very early 1880's — the old Eagle was the leading hotel in Kingston, located on Main street where the parking lot is today. In the old advertisements they used to say "a few steps from the route of the horse-cars as they pass the County Clerk's office." The old Eagle was the successor of an old tavern around the 1840's. That was the time, in the sharp campaign of 1840, it became the rallying point for the processions which, on a wave of "hard cider, and wafted by fluttering coon skins swept into the presidency William Henry Harrison, and Tyler too."

Down in Rondout, the old Mansion House was the principal hotel. The building is now broken up into apartments and most of the balconies are gone. In the early 1880's they said of the Mansion House, "It is a large and commodious building, eligible situated on Union avenue corner The Strand." Those were the days that lower Broadway was called Union avenue.

Kingston has grown very slowly in population for back in 1833 we already had 20,000. In those days Kingston had no waterworks, and no general system of electric fire-alarm of course. Hostesses are Mrs. Goss and Mrs. Millard Sutherland.

At the unit's last meeting, Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, spoke on the topic of mental health. She also outlined coming events in which the Home Bureau will participate.

Pity, No Substitute For Love, Says Home For Aged Speaker

During a recent entertainment provided by American Federation of Musicians, Local 215, at the Home for the Aged, Hugo Wessler addressed the guests on the subject of Growing Old. "Pity for the old is a poor substitute for the love and approval earned as a result of continued contribution to family and community," he said.

He also described pity as leading to over-protection and rejection. "Although there is a great need for more and better facilities to care for the aged who are ill or who have no place to live, there is a greater need to develop the human relationships of older people. More important than a home of one's own, is a life of one's own."

Praise for Parks

Mr. Wessler praised Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Parks, superintendent and matron at the Home, "for their devotion to those whose lives have been enriched by the care they receive."

The speaker gave his personal views on how to age successfully. He said, "if you wish to live long, you must be willing to grow old. There is no secret formula for longevity, and most of the restrictions on activity placed upon older people, only make life seem longer, by making it duller."

Grow Old Aggressively

"I would reject the grow old gracefully motto," he continued. "Grow old aggressively, creatively and social mindedly." Concluding, the speaker pointed out that "old age can be interesting and rewarding even if it is not glamorous. He suggested a wide range of interests, a willingness to learn and to accept change, taking an active part in the life of the community, as some of the means through which a good life may be achieved."

Record Sum Launches 1953 UJA Campaign

Responding to the United Jewish Appeal's emergency call for help to meet the crisis stemming from continued Soviet assaults on the Jews of Eastern Europe and on the State of Israel, top Jewish leaders from 125 cities today set a new high for support of the UJA as they launched the Appeal's 1953 nationwide campaign with a record outpouring of gifts totalling $14,150,000.

This unprecedented result was marked by numerous contributions representing increases of 25 per cent to 100 per cent over gifts made by the same persons one year ago, it was reported by Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, executive vice-chairman of the campaign who declared, "the Jews of the free world will not abandon Eastern Europe's 2,500,000 Jews."

Carolyn M. Bell Becomes Bride of Gilbert R. Smith

The marriage of Miss Carolyn M. Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Bell, 38 Ponckhockie street, to Gilbert Reynolds Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson R. Smith, 204 Lucas avenue, took place on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 14, in St. James Methodist Church. The Rev. Ralph M. Houston, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A buffet tea reception for 100 guests was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. Mrs. Arthur T. Knapp of Danbury, Conn., and Mrs. William H. Longyear, 55 Green street, great-aunts of the bridegroom, presided at the tea table.

Traditional wedding selections were played by Miss Gloria Massa, organist, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Estelle Fatum in I Love You Truly, Because, and the Lord's Prayer.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly-type lace over bridal satin, fashioned with a basque bodice, off-shoulder neckline, long pointed sleeves; and a bouffant nylon net skirt which terminated in a lined chapel length train. Her finger-tip length veil of silk illusion was secured to a tiara of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of Pinnochio roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Frank Bell of Ponckhockie street, was her sister-in-law's only attendant. She was attired in a floor length gown of rose ombre marquisette styled with a molded bodice, mandarin neckline and cap sleeves. She carried a cascade bouquet of Better Times roses and carnations.

Donald Donohue, 184 Lucas avenue was best man. Serving as ushers were Ronald Rifenberg, 121 Fairview avenue; and Frank J. McMahon Jr., 303 Foxhall avenue.

The couple left for a trip in Northern New York state. For traveling, the bride wore a midnight blue velvet suit, grey topper, and an orchid corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at 2421 Broadway, Schenectady.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '52, and has been employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The bridegroom also was graduated from Kingston High School, class of '48, attended Alfred University, and is employed by General Electric Company, Schenectady. He is a member of the 27th Division, National Guard, Albany.

Wallkill

Wallkill, Feb. 24—Mr. Stantial's fifth grade of the Wallkill Central School today presented an assembly program of four delightful skits. The junior band under the direction of William Topping, provided the music while the children were entering and leaving the auditorium, as well as presenting a number, The Blue Waltz, within the program.

The Captain's Hat, a skit involving characters concerned with the War of 1812, told the story of the captain of the Constitution. Old Ironsides commander was gallant enough to refuse the sword of surrender from the captain of the defeated ship but took the British captain's hat in payment of a wager made between the two men before there was thought of a war between the two countries. The cast included Rosemarie Carr, Louise Kessler, Raymond Martens, Thomas Adams and Terry Terwilliger.

A humurous Indian skit, The Hungry Tribe related a story of how some of the Indians might have received their odd-sounding names such as Fire Builder. William Backofen, John Scarzello, Preston Witherel, Eugene Brown and Raymond Kane took the parts of the Indians, bringing down the house with their war dance.

John Pape, Terry Terwilliger, David Kreiton, Mary Ann Law, Barbara Sheehy and Beatrice Williams presented a skit named the Three Tests. The faithful servants of the king decided that he needed a wife and engineered the king into meeting likely candidates. The tests employed to determine the eligibility of the candidates provided the audience with several hearty laughs.

Safety around the home and school was the theme of the final skit. Frances Almack took the part of the nurse with Charles Wager portraying the doctor. The careless patients who were taught a lesson through their injuries resulting from accidents were Louise Kessler, Floyd Weed, Terry Terwilliger, Carol Rugar, George Foster and Jo Marie Booth.

The assembly opened with the usual exercises led by Mary Ann Law who continued in the role of announcer. Musical solos were presented by David Kreiton on the piano and John Pape with the clarinet. The entire class provided further music with a group song.

There's Always a Murder a play written by Ken Parker will be presented by the Wallkill Central School Teacher's Association for the benefit of the student scholarship fund at school March 27 and 28, Dorothy P. White of the association announced today.

The scholarship is worth $600. Recent winners of the scholarships included Wallkill Central School students Mitchell Curesky, Constance and Theresa Duch, Constance LaFuente, Stanley Nevins and Philip Rappleyea.

No. 1 Tourist Spot

United Nations, N. Y., Feb. 24 (AP) — Delegates returning to the resumption today of the United Nations General Assembly found their headquarters has become the No. One tourist attraction in the United States. Carl Cannon, head of the UN's guided tour service, said startling modern UN buildings recently have passed Rockefeller Center as the spot every tourist wants to see. "We have reached the saturation point," he said, pointing out that elevators and other mechanical devices at headquarters were not built to handle the 1,500 persons daily taking the tours. About the same number visit the headquarters daily but don't take the dollar look-around.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

CERTAINLY NOT MY ADVICE

I am sorry to have to correct a misreading of something that I am supposed to have written according to the following letter: "The other evening some friends of ours visited us and, during the course of the conversation, the subject of opening letters came up. The wife insisted that it was perfectly all right for husbands and wives to open each others mail and that anyone who objected to this, had something to hide from the other. Of course, my husband and I disagreed with her and this caused quite a heated discussion. She even went so far as to say that she read in your column that this was a perfectly proper thing to do. Will you comment on this, please?"

I have never said that a letter addressed to any member of a family should be opened by another member—not even when it concerns husband and wife.

Including Absent Husband

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct way to address an invitation to a married couple when the husband is in Korea? Should it be addressed to the wife alone or to Mr. and Mrs., even though it is known that it will be impossible for him to be present. Ever since this horrible conflict in Korea, I have frequently been confronted with this situation, and am always doubtful as to what is correct.

Answer: Correctly, if it is a general invitation requiring no answer, then it could be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. even though he is thousands of miles away. But if it is an invitation to an ordinary party requiring an answer, including his name would merely lead to confusion.

Pseudo-Youth

Dear Mrs. Post: What is your opinion of older women referring to groups of their personal friends as "the girls"? One hears this so much and should grow accustomed to it, but it always sounds ludicrous to me.

Answer: I agree that if they only realized the impression that over-aged girlishness gives, they would cease using this term.

Are you planning to write your wedding invitations by hand? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but details on wedding invitations and announcements are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-10. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

To Be Honored Guest

MRS. CHRISTINE B. QUELL

The Ulster county division of Practical Nurses of New York Inc., will hold its third anniversary dinner on Thursday in Judie's restaurant. Mrs. Christine B. Quell, president of the state organization, will be the guest of honor.

The principal speaker will be Dr. Henry L. Bibby, president of the Cerebral Palsy Association. One of the highlights of the evening will be a contribution by the local practical nurses, of $100 for the Cerebral Palsy Clinic.

Pity, No Substitute For Love, Says Home For Aged Speaker

During a recent entertainment provided by American Federation of Musicians, Local 215, at the Home for the Aged, Hugo Wessler addressed the guests on the subject of Growing Old. "Pity for the old is a poor substitute for the love and approval earned as a result of continued contribution to family and community," he said.

He also described pity as leading to over-protection and rejection. "Although there is a great need for more and better facilities to care for the aged who are ill or who have no place to live, there is a greater need to develop the human relationships of older people. More important than a home of one's own, is a life of one's own."

Praise for Parks

Mr. Wessler praised Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Parks, superintendent and matron at the Home, "for their devotion to those whose lives have been enriched by the care they receive."

The speaker gave his personal views on how to age successfully. He said, "if you wish to live long, you must be willing to grow old. There is no secret formula for longevity, and most of the restrictions on activity placed upon older people, only make life seem longer, by making it duller."

Grow Old Aggressively

"I would reject the grow old gracefully motto," he continued. "Grow old aggressively, creatively and social mindedly." Concluding, the speaker pointed out that "old age can be interesting and rewarding even if it is not glamorous. He suggested a wide range of interests, a willingness to learn and to accept change, taking an active part in the life of the community, as some of the means through which a good life may be achieved."

Home Bureau

Wiltwyck Unit

The Wiltwyck Unit of the Home Bureau recently held a series of food classes in the home of Mrs. Harold Mandell, 90 Harding avenue.

In attendance at the classes were the Mmes. Adam C. Thiel, Julian Gifford, Peter Torigian, Casper Gunther, Thomas Connolly, Edward Reynolds, Helen Zucca, Charles Lamphere, William Abernethy, Norman Niles, Henry Shuler. Mrs. Harry Van DeMark was the foods leader.

Tillson Unit

The regular meeting of the Tillson Unit of the Home Bureau will be held Wednesday, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Goss. Mrs. Charles Stantial will be present to teach the art of patching with a machine. The unit will also continue its lessons on woolen skirts. Refreshments will be served. Hostesses are Mrs. Goss and Mrs. Millard Sutherland.

At the unit's last meeting, Miss Everice Parsons, county home demonstration agent, spoke on the topic of mental health. She also outlined coming events in which the Home Bureau will participate.

Record Sum Launches 1953 UJA Campaign

Responding to the United Jewish Appeal's emergency call for help to meet the crisis stemming from continued Soviet assaults on the Jews of Eastern Europe and on the State of Israel, top Jewish leaders from 125 cities today set a new high for support of the UJA as they launched the Appeal's 1953 nationwide campaign with a record outpouring of gifts totalling $14,150,000.

This unprecedented result was marked by numerous contributions representing increases of 25 per cent to 100 per cent over gifts made by the same persons one year ago, it was reported by Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, executive vice-chairman of the campaign who declared, "the Jews of the free world will not abandon Eastern Europe's 2,500,000 Jews."

B'nai B'rith Chapter Marks 10th Anniversary

No. 1 Tourist Spot

United Nations, N. Y., Feb. 24 (AP) — Delegates returning to the resumption today of the United Nations General Assembly found their headquarters has become the No. One tourist attraction in the United States. Carl Cannon, head of the UN's guided tour service, said startling modern UN buildings recently have passed Rockefeller Center as the spot every tourist wants to see. "We have reached the saturation point," he said, pointing out that elevators and other mechanical devices at headquarters were not built to handle the 1,500 persons daily taking the tours. About the same number visit the headquarters daily but don't take the dollar look-around.

CERTAINLY NOT MY ADVICE

I am sorry to have to correct a misreading of something that I am supposed to have written according to the following letter: "The other evening some friends of ours visited us and, during the course of the conversation, the subject of opening letters came up. The wife insisted that it was perfectly all right for husbands and wives to open each others mail and that anyone who objected to this, had something to hide from the other. Of course, my husband and I disagreed with her and this caused quite a heated discussion. She even went so far as to say that she read in your column that this was a perfectly proper thing to do. Will you comment on this, please?"

I have never said that a letter addressed to any member of a family should be opened by another member—not even when it concerns husband and wife.

Including Absent Husband

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct way to address an invitation to a married couple when the husband is in Korea? Should it be addressed to the wife alone or to Mr. and Mrs., even though it is known that it will be impossible for him to be present. Ever since this horrible conflict in Korea, I have frequently been confronted with this situation, and am always doubtful as to what is correct.

Answer: Correctly, if it is a general invitation requiring no answer, then it could be addressed to Mr. and Mrs. even though he is thousands of miles away. But if it is an invitation to an ordinary party requiring an answer, including his name would merely lead to confusion.

Pseudo-Youth

Dear Mrs. Post: What is your opinion of older women referring to groups of their personal friends as "the girls"? One hears this so much and should grow accustomed to it, but it always sounds ludicrous to me.

Answer: I agree that if they only realized the impression that over-aged girlishness gives, they would cease using this term.

Are you planning to write your wedding invitations by hand? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but details on wedding invitations and announcements are included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-10. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Review of Taxation Might Give No Change Now in Situation

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—In his State of the Union message President Eisenhower told Congress: "The tax structure as a whole demands review."

The review is underway. What sort of tax policy will emerge from it is as yet publicly unknown and the situation might stay that way for two or three months.

Federal agencies have been given until April to come up with new estimates of spending for fiscal 1954 which begins July 1. Speaker Martin (R.-Mass.) has promised the House will not consider tax reduction bills before May 1.

Chief Policy Course

In the meantime, Eisenhower's statements and those of his tax specialists can be considered. On the basis of these, the main policy lines of the administration's tax program might be expected to be:

1. The nation has large financial commitments, for services at home and for mutual defense security, which are to be maintained. Taxes now are "too high" but they will remain "stiff" for the forseeable future.

2. The tax system must encourage enterprise, reward hard work and encourage general economic growth.

3. The excess profits tax on corporations must go, if not when it is due to expire June 30, then soon afterward.

4. The higher bracket personal income tax rates must be revised downward.

Lower Incomes Eyed

5. If tax cutbacks, considered necessary to encourage general economic growth and personal endeavor, reduce revenues below the level needed, "lower income" sources of revenue must be tapped. Perhaps this might be done through a sales tax (exempting food and rent), new excise taxes, or higher basic rates of individual income taxes. Also, regular corporation income taxes must be raised.

6. The tax system should go hand-in-hand with monetary policy to ward off "boom and bust" economic swings.

"A system of taxation that will impose the least possible obstacle to the dynamic growth of the country * * * read opportunity for the growth of small business."

In the message and again in his first news conference, he said he thought there should be no tax reduction until it was known how much spending could be cut.

Substitute for Revenues

He also said he thought there should be a substitute for revenues from the excess profits tax on corporations, which will expire June 30 unless extended.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Marion Folsom, testifying before a House committee a year ago, recommended balancing the budget by economies. But if that was not possible, he said, "consideration should be given to the enactment of a broad-based consumption tax."

1. "Taxation in the top brackets has been pushed very considerably beyond the level consistent with my personal concepts of social justice. * * * the individual income tax has become a mass tax in its coverage, but remains a class tax in its application."

2. "Most countries are apparently doomed to live with high taxation for the indefinite future."

Risky Use Treatment

3. "To secure large revenues with minimum repressive influences, favorable treatment would have to be given to risky uses of capital, with penalties perhaps imposed on uses of capital which do not foster economic growth...extra exertion should be allowed to receive extra net rewards."

4. "Under such a tax structure it would be possible to become rich * * * it might, however, be harder to stay rich over several generations."

5. "In this country the dogma of progressive taxation and the obsession against sales and excise taxation are especially serious."

6. The excess profits tax (and additional tax on corporation profits above a certain average) encourages waste (large expense accounts, for instance, to write off the extra profits) hits small companies and new companies (which do not have a big profit average to start from) and is inflationary because it encourages spending money without better reason than not to pay more taxes.

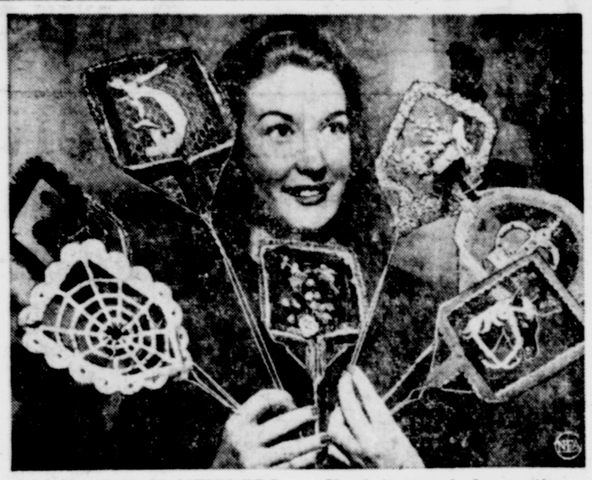

In the Harvard Business Review for January, 1951, Smith and others proposed raising extra defense revenue by increasing the rate on corporate earnings above $25,000 to 60 per cent. It is 52 per cent.

Undersecretary Folsom, as chairman of the committee for economic development (CED), a private business research group he headed before coming to the treasury, has backed many of these same ideas.

Additionally, Folsom led the CED in developing an overall tax theory which holds that firm tax rates should be fixed and then left alone unless there is some major change in national policy or condition of national life (like war or depression)."

Will Tour Hospitals

Seoul, Feb. 24 (AP)—The countess of Limerick, vice chairman of the British Red Cross, arrived by plane today for a tour of United Nations hospitals. The countess was dressed in a blue Red Cross uniform. She plans to visit hospitals serving troops of every nationality.

Democrats Seek Aid On Pari-Mutuel Bill

The maneuver to force the measures from GOP-controlled committees in the assembly and Senate faced almost certain defeat. The Republican majority customarily knocks down such motions.

However, Democrats hope to gain from Republican lawmakers from Nassau and Saratoga county. Those counties and New York city have been collecting the tax.

The 5 per cent levy was cut to 4 per cent last year and 3 per cent this year. It is slated to drop 1 per cent a year until 1955, when the taxing power would expire.

Exclusively for State

Republican lawmakers sponsored the law for gradual elimination of the tax. They contended the constitution reserved the pari-mutuel taxing power exclusively for the state.

Restoration of the full tax is part of Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's fiscal plan for New York city. His financial program was turned down Sunday night by Gov. Dewey's administration, but the rejection report did not detail objections to the pari-mutuel levy.

Romans Used Holly

The use of holly as a Christmas decoration originated with the Romans, who festooned their homes with it so that spirits might find refuge there from the winter cold, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Nails Fatal to Mollie

Dolton, Conn., Feb. 24 (AP)—Mollie, one of the town's fattest cows and best milk producers, is dead because of something she ate—nails. They didn't know what was wrong with her until veterinarian Harry Sherman found the trouble with a mine detector. He operated—extracted a nail in her second stomach. But Mollie failed to respond. They tried penicillin, sulfa drugs, intravenous glucose and dextrose feedings. It was no use. They had to send Mollie off to the slaughter house yesterday. A post-mortem examination showed Mollie had another nail in another stomach. They said Mollie must have eaten the nails while grazing.

Stalin Is Elected

Moscow, Feb. 24 (AP)—Communist and government-supported non-party-bloc candidates racked up an overwhelming victory in Sunday's local elections, winning 99.82 per cent of the votes in the city of Moscow and 99.76 in the city's suburban district. Results were announced today. More than 1,800 candidates, including Premier Stalin, were elected to local posts in the voting.

As Pegler Sees It

on that flickering novelty which was coming to be called the silent drama. In due course, Matt Eddy, the pledge, was called before Professor Buck and fired from Leg View High.

In his biographical stuff in Who's Who, General Eddy skips over these episodes and starts his educational data with his studies at Shattuck Military, a small school at, I believe, Fairibault, Minn. Shattuck is not listed in the World Almanac. Being graduated in 1913, he was offered one of an allotment of commissions as second lieutenant which were available to such schools for their best graduates, but turned it down to become a salesman down around St. Louis. But, in 1916, even as we were acclaiming Woodrow Wilson for keeping us out of war, his father saw the first war coming our way and advised Matt to take that commission, otherwise he would be drafted, anyway, for he was big and strong and professionally desirable. Matt did, and his active service led him up to command of the XII Corps in France, Germany and Luxembourg in WW2, and now to the high command of our army in Germany, which apparently will be his last.

If common practice is followed, the boy who was kicked out of Lane Tech and Leg View will take his last review with four stars on his shoulders. I find irresistible the temptation to advise the unhappy cadets who were expelled from West Point for "violations of honor," some of them extremely fine-haired and finicking, to consider Matt's case and be of good hope.

Use Their Own Money

Taipeh, Formosa, Feb. 24 (AP)—Nationalist Chinese guerrillas in a mountainous coastal region of Communist China are issuing their own currency for local use, the official Nationalist Central News Agency said today. The area was not identified. The agency said the currency is called "recovery notes" and is popular among farmers.

Full Prize List for Doubles and Singles Announced by KBA

19 Two-Man Teams, 20 Solos in Money

The complete but unofficial prize list in the minor events of the 16th annual Kingston Bowling Association city tournament which were concluded Sunday night at Ferraro's Bowlodrome was announced today by Irwin J. Thomas, KBA secretary.

A total of 19 tandems hit the board for cash awards while 20 singles also will share in the money.

The all-events prize list includes 10 bowlers, topped by Jimmy DeCicco, the Electrol Night kegler, who amassed a 1924 total to capture first place.

Repeating as champions of the doubles were two of the city's veteran trundlers, Cliff Quick and Randy Kelder fired a gross score of 1250. They also exploded for the top high single net score in the doubles with 438.

DeCicco Red Hot

DeCicco, who certainly made his presence felt in the all-events scramble, also grabbed the top berth in the singles shooting with a nifty 728 score, bettering Orville Carney's 709 by 19 pins.

In addition to the record cash awards for this year's tournament the KBA also put up a heavy array of trophies, including the sponsor's trophy for the Economy Excavators, new city champions on the strength of their 2970 net score. The Excavators also will get individual trophies for each member of the squad including Charlie "Juice" Manfro, Harold Broskie, Jackie Houghtaling Fred Schryver and Larry Weishaupt.

Herzog's Supply of the Central Rec League won the high gross team championship this year, firing a hefty 3158 blast in the final shift of the five-man events. Members of the gross champions were Bill Hornbeck, Bert Maxwell, Don Zeidler, Ed Thomas and Johnny Bartsch, Sr.

A total of $1,751 was set up by the KBA for this year's city tournament. The breakdown included $1,225 for five-man events, $220.50 for doubles, $194.50 for singles and $111 for all-events.

Meet NFA Here Tonight

Caught off guard without their usual Maroon uniforms, the Kingston High School varsity basketball team nevertheless strikes a sturdy pose in readiness for tonight's cage game at municipal auditorium. The Maroons face the 1952-53 DUSO League champions from Newburgh Free Academy on the Broadway boards. With the pennant wrapped up by the Hilly City quintet, Kingston's big hope tonight rests with the possibility of halting NFA's 37-game winning streak. Newburgh made it 37 Friday night by beating Liberty and clinching the DUSO League flag. The Maroons who will start against George "Lanky" Masterson's crew tonight will be (l-r) George Telepas, Skipper Brodhead, Dick Bezemer, Bill Haber and Bill DuBois. (Freeman photo)

Ticket Deadline Is Set Saturday For Jackets' March 14 Reunion

1926 Original Team To Be Honored

Meanwhile, Scully today advised those interested to make their reservations for the dinner without delay. The deadline for reservations is Saturday, Feb. 28. When the number of persons is ascertained, the place will be announced, the chairman pointed out.

According to present plans, a prominent football figure will be secured to address the Jackets' reunion dinner. Scully promised more information on this in the near future.

"Right now we're going ahead with plans for a big night," Scully said "and judging from the response to date we should have a big turnout at the affair."

Original Members

Coaches—Carl Preston, former star at old Kingston Academy and Pratt Institute and Captain Victor L. Olsen who played at Utah University. Manager of the squad was Ed Redhead while Clarence "Dubby" Raichle, whose interest now lies on the fairways, was mascot.

Ends—Vince Rice, Harry Scheffel, Fred Ehnes, Ray Nadel (deceased).

Tackles — Earl McLane, Bill Clark and Martinelli.

Centers—Len O'Reilly.

Fullbacks—Captain Lee Hasbrouck and John Cirone (deceased).

Scully also revealed today that the Jackets in 1926 won eight of eight contests and tied one game, that with the Westchester Pros.

Among the opponents for the fabulous Jackets in those days were West Point Artillery, Middletown Wolves, Westchester Pros (tied), West Point Service Detachment, the Troy Bearcats, Beacon (defeated twice) and Poughkeepsie (defeated twice).

Bears Were Interested

The calibre of the Yellow Jackets was so great that after a few years of play the local gridders received feelers from the Chicago Bears and the Providence Steamrollers.

Continuing with top-notch grid stars until the final season of 1941, the Yellow Jackets presented a schedule which included many of the top-ranking semi-professional teams in the East.

Among them, Scully reported, were the Springfield Pros, New Rochelle Bull Dogs, Paterson Panthers, Albany Cardinals, Albany Knickerbockers, Watervliet Merriams, Amsterdam Rough Riders, Hudson Falls Green Jackets, Fordham AC of New York, the West Point Cavalry and the West Point Infantry.

From 1926 to the final squad in 1941, the locals' schedule also included games with Newburgh, Port Jervis, Poughkeepsie, Middletown, Catskill, Hudson, Yonkers, Jersey City, Newark, Passaic as well as several elevens from Connecticut.

Sept. 26—Jackets 20, Beacon 0.
Oct. 3—At Wappingers Falls (canceled).
Oct. 10—Jackets 10, Artillery 7.
Oct. 17—Jackets 36, Poughkeepsie 0.
Oct. 24—Jackets 26, Beacon 0.
Oct. 31—Jackets defeated Middletown.
Nov. 7—Jackets 19, Poughkeepsie 0.
Nov. 14—Jackets 0, Westchester 0.
Nov. 21—Jackets 7, West Point Service 3.
Nov. 25—Jackets 19, Troy 0.

Ramblers, Jays Win Midget Games

The Ramblers and Blue Jays scored triumphs in last week's slate of games in the Boy's Club Midget League.

Cosenza Hits 17

Larry Cosenza of the Ramblers was top scorer in the doubleheader with 17 points. Harold Winters scored six for the Aces. Bob Lang and Vic Locke each contributed eight for the Jays while Don Ellsworth pushed in nine markers for the Trotters.

The scores:

Dempsey Blames Video For Boxing's Downfall

By AL BURT
NEA Special Correspondent

Jacksonville, Fla. (NEA)—Jack Dampsey, who lined his life with a million dollars as a fighter, now says any boy who goes into the boxing game is crazy.

The old Manassa Mauler says there's just no future in it.

"A boy is crazy to get into fighting this day and age," he said. "And most of them realize it. There is no security in fighting today, so why should anyone take it up?"

Dempsey paused here on a one-night stand that was part of a chain of appearances he made in the south as a wrestling referee.

He gave his ideas on when boxing would improve as a profession—if it does.

"When people who are running it, or the television people, give fighters long-term contracts," was his answer.

Lack Decent Cards

"Boxing is definitely a hot potato for that reason. No one wants to mess with it when it is going down so rapidly. They can't even get up decent cards."

Dempsey puts the blame squarely on television.

"In the first place, they charge $50,000 for televising a fairly good fight and the principals get only $3500. Yet they are selling his wares. Why should he let them do it?"

Although he is 57 years old, Dempsey looks a full 10 years younger. In addition to his wrestling appearances, he has a restaurant in New York, a real estate firm in California and is a director in a radio school.

Dempsey took one more of his once-famous punches at boxing, at the same time patting his new job on the back.

"Wrestling is doing better than ever and one big reason for it is that boxing has gone down so much," he said.

Money Given Players Reason for Probation Slapped on Michigan

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 24 (AP)—A total of $3,183 either given or loaned to ten players on Michigan State's undefeated 1951 football team after their last game was over, emerged today as the main reason for the one year probation slapped on the college by the Western Conference.

The money that started the fuss came from the now disbanded "Spartan Foundation. A Michigan State booster organization. The players who received it all were members of the undefeated 1951 team. The cash was passed out after the season was over and the players had used up their eligibility.

Names on the list included such notables as AP All-America Don Coleman, of Flint, Mich., and quarterback Al Dorow, of Imlay City, Mich.

Dorow later went on to distinguish himself in post season bowl and service competition.

Munn Keeps Silent

MSC football coach Clarence H. "Biggie" Munn, head of the nation's number one team last year, the successful east coach in the annual east-west game, and winner of the "coach of the year" award, was grimly noncommittal.

"I am sure that no one who knows the facts," said his brief statement, "will let this action detract from the splendid record these young men have made."

The ex-president of the Spartan Foundation, Claud Erickson, of Lansing, Mich., meanwhile said in a casual telephone conversation to a reporter, that loans might have been given to "a few more."

Dean Lloyd C. Emmons, chairman of the MSC Athletic Council, emphasized that the foundation was an outside organization with no official connection with the college, which did not have college approval and which was disbanded at the request of the college.

"There was no violation of Western Conference Rules," Emmons said: "As far as I know there are no boys remaining on the campus with eligibility left who received any such assistance."

"These bays were given loans," Emmons said, in a press conference. Then he hesitated.

Lists 10 Players

"Let's be honest about it," he continued," they were given some which the foundation said was in the form of loans, but it was after they had completed their eligibility. Emmons listed ten players as receiving the total of $3,183 from the foundation.

Besides Coleman and Dorow, these were:

Gussy's Advice Is: Girls Stay Amateur

Palm Springs, Calif., Feb. 24 (AP)—If you want to play competitive tennis, gals, don't turn professional.

That's the advice of Gertrude (Gorgeous Gussy) Moran, who parlayed her charms, tennis ability and a pair of lace panties into a $75,000 contract a couple years ago.

Gussy says she isn't sorry she signed for the one-year tour with Bobby Riggs' troupe in 1950, but she'd like to be an amateur again. Why? Because there's no competition for professional women tennis players, she said during an interview.

"There just isn't any incentive to turn pro today," she explained. "Even if someone should sponsor a professional women's tennis tournament, there'd be only five or six who would play."

Wicks Race Bill Goes to Assembly

Albany, Feb. 24 (AP)—A proposal to transfer control of New York harness racing from the U. S. Trotting Association to the State Harness Racing Commission has been passed by the Senate and sent to the Assembly.

The bill, approved by the Senate last night, would authorize the commission to license owners, trainers and drivers of harness horses and to carry out supervisory functions now handled by the USTA.

The USTA, a private group, would continue to license and direct its New York state members, but its rules would not be binding under state law.

Introduced by Wicks

The measure was introduced by Senate Leader Arthur H. Wicks, chairman of the special legislative committee studying horse racing in New York state.

The USTA led the opposition that willed a similar Wicks bill last year, but is supporting the present bill.

The current proposal would prohibit the commission from granting a license to a corporation of which "any officer, director or principal stockholder" has a criminal or gambling background.

The bill also would advance the harness season opening from April 15 to April 1, but would retain the Nov. 15 closing.

Five College Cage Teams Ready for East Tourney

New York, Feb. 24 (AP) — The NCAA has selected four teams for its eastern regional basketball tournaments and a fifth—Louisiana State—has qualified by winning the Southeastern Conference championship.

The invited team, disclosed last night, are Notre Dame, Fordham, DePaul and Navy. Another selection, possibly Eastern Kentucky, will be announced tonight or tomorrow.

DePaul has accepted its invitation. The most the other invited schools would say was that bids were being considered.

News Leaks Out

The information on invited teams leaked out last night at least 24 hours before the NCAA planned its annouuncement. Even though spokesmen for the schools admitted under direct questioning that bids had been received, the NCAA was keeping mum, except to say that an announcement was expected tonight or tomorrow morning.

Ironically, the names on the NCAA invitations came out in part because one of the schools DePaul—turned down a bid to the rival National Invitation Tournament in New York.

A DePaul spokesman first explained the Chicago team could not be in two places at one time and then agreed DePaul had been invited to the NCAA.

Duquesne Is Choice

An authoritative source said Duquesne was the choice for the fifth NCAA invitation, but the Pittsburgh school yesterday accepted a bid to the NIT instead. NCAA rules this season for the first time bar a school from competing in both post-season tournaments. To make the ban doubly effective the NCAA scheduled its first two rounds for March 9 and March 13-14, dates which overlap the NIT'S run of March 7-14.

Duquesne's acceptance gave the NIT half of its required 12 teams and another one probably will be named today. The best bet here was that St. John's of Brooklyn would be the next choice.

Already in besides Duquesne are Seton Hall, La Salle, Manhattan, Western Kentucky and Louisville. Still very much in the running are Holy Cross, St. Louis, Niagara, Villanova and either Brigham Young or Wyoming.

Art Larsen Firm About His Bid for Vacated Net Title

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—Lefty Art Larsen has a new disposition, a heavier racquet, and both eyes cocked on Frank Sedgman's vacated world amateur tennis crown.

"I've never played better," the 27-year-old San Leandro, Calif., stylist said yesterday after polishing off Denmark's Kurt Nielsen for the national indoor championship.

"I feel I'm ready. I'll be a threat every time I step out on the court."

Larsen hit new heights for himself in whipping a heavily favored Nielsen at the Seventh Regiment Armory, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Almost everybody expected the little Californian, a strategist rather than a killer, to be devoured on the hardwood by the Dane's "big game" — powerful service and deadly volleys. Nielsen had taken Larsen's measure twice on European boards this winter.

Instead, the 150-pound southpaw handled Nielsen's service as if it were a toy and he captured the offensive with a sparkling exhibition of net play. He beat the big Dane to the barrier and won with well-placed volleys and half-volleys.

First to Win All Four

Thus Larsen, who a few years ago was called the "problem child" of tennis, became the first player to win all four national championships on the various surfaces. He was national grass courts champion in 1950 and subsequently No. 1 ranked nationally. In 1950 he also won the national clay court and one of his two hard-court titles. The hard-court is a concrete-type surface.

Larsen's victory prevented a foreign sweep of singles titles. Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia rallied to defeat Mrs. Barbara Scofield Davidson of Boston for the women's singles crown, 5-7, 6-0, 9-7. Mrs. Long was down 0-5 in the last set before pulling it out.

Ackers, Boys Club Score Victories

Jerry Tierney pushed in 22 points for Acker's Charter Service to score a 47 to 31 victory over the Boys Club in the Boys' Club Junior Basketball League last week.

Charlie Harding and Frank Mooney trailed Tierney for Ackers with 12 and 11 points. Tony Perpetua bucketed 10 markers for the losers.

In a Senior League contest, the Boys' Club downed the Kingston 49ers by 41 to 32.

Seton Hall Perched on Top For Sixth Straight Week

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—Undefeated Seton Hall, with 26 straight victories and only four games to play, held the No. 1 position in the Associated Press basketball rankings today. It is the Pirates' sixth straight week on top.

By beating Villanova and Loyola of Chicago last week, Coach Honey Russell's charges managed to stand off a strong challange by the Big Ten's Indiana in the esteem of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

The Pirates received only 32 of the 113 first place votes cast but showed enough balanced strength to gain a slender 12-point advantage over the second place Hoosiers. Points are awarded on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

Indiana, Washington and LaSalle continued to be the chief pursuers in that order but the rest of the top ten underwent some shuffling.

Climbs to Fifth

Phog Allen's Kansas quintet climbed from tenth to fifth on the strength of an 80-78 victory over neighboring Kansas State, which fell from eighth to ninth. Illinois plummeted from fifth to tenth after a 67-62 loss to Iowa.

Louisana State clung to its sixth position, with the Oklahoma Aggies still following at No. 7. But Western Kentucky, winner of three games in its own area, moved up from ninth to eighth.

Illinois, Kansas State and Oklahoma A & M managed to remain in the select group despite losses. The Oklahoma Aggies bowed to Houston, 50-46, but bounced back last night with a rousing 79-58 victory over Kansas. This game, however, did not affect the voting since it was played several hours after the close of voting.

TWO TOP CAGERS

In Davies and Wanzer, the Royals boast two of the top performers in the NBA. Davies, former Seton Hall All America and originator of the behind-the-back dribble, was an all-league selection the past several years. Wanzer was picked on the NBA second club.

Other Royals with All America recognition are Red Holzman, CCNY; Arnie Risen, Ohio State and Odie Spears, Western Kentucky.

The Dolphins have always been a tough foe for Siena in Syracuse. LeMoyne won the last two games in the Salt City, last year putting an end to a 10 game Siena streak. Siena owns a 6-3 series edge.

Chief scorer for the Dolphins is Captain Billy Jenkins, 6 foot set shot and driver. Dick Kenyon, 6 foot 3 pivot and Dick Shea, 6 foot 4 hook shot artist, are other potent LeMoyne scorers.

Sparring on Baseball Pay Is Getting More Series

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The annual sparring session between the players and club officials on the salary question was getting serious today with New York Yankee pitcher Allie Reynolds heading back home to Oklahoma City and Washington Senator infielder Eddie Yost flatly refusing to report.

The Yankees, who usually have trouble signing one or two of their stars—it used to be Babe Ruth, then Joe DiMaggio, then Yogi Berra—have no fewer than 12 key operatives haggling with General Manager George Weiss for more cash.

With the Bronx Bombers moving into their second day of spring training, this situation, indeed, is alarming. Among the hurlers, Vic Raschi, Whitey Ford and Eddie Lopat still have not come around.

Reynolds Firm About $40,000

Without them, the world champions would have no pitching staff. Reynolds apparently is serious about his intention of not signing for less than his reported $40,000 asking price. His actions could influence the others to get stubborn.

Yost, one of the shrewdest batters in the American League in the almost lost art of getting on base one way or another, is sulking in his Ozone Park, N. Y., home. He said he wouldn't be on hand when the infielders and outfielders report to Orlando tomorrow.

Eddie, an ex-New York University star, received $16,000 last year, and reportedly has been offered the same this season with a bonus if the club does well at the gate. He wants a $1,000 raise which the club has refused to get up.

Over in the National League, the 1-2 clubs of last last year—The Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants—are a happy lot. The Brooks are all signed. In fact, they were the first club to get all the players in the fold.

Only Dark Outside Fold

Only Alvin Dark still is outside the Giants' fold, and he is not regarded as a serious signing problem. The Philadelphia Phillies still have not signed three of their top players—Granny Hamner, Ken Heintzelman and Eddie Waitkus, while the last place Pittsburgh Pirates have a five-man unsigned list.

The Cleveland Indians, who are starting all over again to try to beat out the Yanks, need nine signatures to complete their roster.

Giant Manager Leo Durocher meanwhile probably is the happiest major league pilot in the land. His three big casualities of last year—and he's sure he could have won the pennant with them—are back. Outfielder Monte Irvin and pitchers Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen looked in top shape in yesterday's first workout.

Durocher also announced another chance for Monte Kennedy, a pitcher who always has seemed to have the stuff to win, but always has wound up a dissappointment.

"He'll get a real good look," said Durocher. "I'm going to work him every four days for three innings just like the rest of them."

Hawks Hold Firm Grip On 4th in West Loop

By The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Hawks held a firm grip on fourth place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association today.

The Hawks solidified their position by trouncing the Philadelphia Warriors last night, 78-64, in the league's only game.

The first four teams in each division participate in the post-season playoffs. The Hawks now have a two-game advantage over the Indianapolis Olympians with only nine games remaining on the regular schedule.

Milwauke grabbed a 22-13 first quarter lead and was never headed thereafter. Jack Nichols dropped in 15 points for the winners but Danny Finn took game scoring honors with 25 markers for the Warriors.

Ashdown Samoyed Is First to Win

Boston, Feb. 24 (AP) — Bernice B. Ashdown's Samoyed Ch. Silver Spray of Wynchwood, Manhasset, N. Y., has become the first of his breed ever to win the important Eastern Dog Club Best-in-Show award.

Spray last night topped the 1,310 entries in the 40th annual Eastern Club event as Judge Theodore C. Hollander of Hamilton picked him out of the field of six group winners at Mechanics Building.

Handled by Charlie Rollins, Spray chalked up his 13th group victory in his last 15 showings as he bested the field in the working troup.

Then the husky, white-coated dog went on to defeat Joe Glaser's Boston terrier Ch. Clasen's Bit O'Honey, New York city; Blakeen Kennels' toy poodle Blakeen King Doodles, Stamford, Conn.; Mardormere Kennels' greyhound Cherry Bounce of Mardomere, Glen Head, N. Y.; Mrs. Harold M. Florsheim's wire haired fox terier Ch. Arley Adorable of Harham, Chicago, and W. E. Armstrong's and Charles Palmer's pointer Ch. Captain Spec, Sherburne, N. Y.

Favorite Is Third

The pre-show favorite, Mr. and Mrs. James Fraser's Irish setter Ch. Thenderin Brian Trisan, Olmstead Falls, Ohio, placed third behind Captain Speck in the sporting group.

Tristan, and Pearl and Tom Sheahan's bloodhound Ch. Fancy Bombardier, Torrington, Conn., both scored group triumphs at the big Westminster show in New York but neither could win their variety groups here.

Spray succeeds Mr. and Mrs. Len Carey's Doberman Pinscher Cr. Rancho Dobe's Storm, Cos Cob, Conn., as Eastern Club Best-in-Show. Storm, who also went Best-in-Show at Westminster this year, has been retired.

Siena Cagers Play Royals In Albany Armory Thursday

The Rochesters Royals, one of the top quintets in the National Basketball Association, will stop off at the Albany Armory Thursday night to play an exhibition against Siena College's cagers.

The Royals, spearheaded by Bobby Davies and Bobby Wanzer, former Seton Hall immortals, are currently in second place in the Western Division of the NBA behind Minneapolis Lakers.

But prior to the game with the pros, Siena plays its sixth and final contest on the road against LeMoyne, Tuesday night at the Syracuse Armory. The Indians defeated the Dolphins, 53-49, in the season's opener at Albany Thanksgiving night. Siena will be aiming for its first road triumph of the campaign.

First Three Days of Bowling Set Scores Hard to Beat

Chicago, Feb. 24 (AP) — Two hundred and twenty eight singles and doubles bowlers and 120 teams will shoot for the top spot in the ABC tournament today but they'll have to shoot high to top the impressive record set by Minneapolis, Dayton and Wisconsin bowlers in the first three days of the record breaking 50th annual ABC tournament in Chicago's Coliseum.

Phil Wolsieffer and his Howard Sales team of Minneapolis took the lead in two divisions while a Dayton doubles team moved into top position.

Wolssieffer guided the Howard team into the regular division team lead with 2961 and then came back to take the lead in the all-events with 1928, an average of better than 214 for the nine games rolled.

Ray Hardin and Robert Brockman of Dayton paced the doubles with 1320. Oscar Severson of Cambridge, Wis., led the singles division with 692, an unusually low total considering the high doubles and all-events scores.

Pete and Jennie's Welcome Inn of Chicago took over second place in the team events on last night's final shift with a total of 2,933. The Chicago team displaced the Ed. Raatz Lanes of Milwaukee in the runner-up spot.

The Welcome Inn five had games of 972, 937 and 1024 in compiling the second best total to date in the tournament which closes May 24.

Seek Fifth in Row

Syracuse, N. Y. (AP)—Coach Roy Simmons' Syracuse University boxing team will be seeking its fifth straight Eastern intercollegiate title here in Archbold Gymnasium on March 13-14.

Build Up Your Bowling By Knockin' 'Em Down

With STEVE NAGY, Bowler of the Year

By STEVE NAGY
Bowler-of-the-Year

A bowler, having rolled a successful strike ball on his first attempt with his left foot exactly in the center of the approach, should be careful to take the same position the next time he rolls on that alley.

If he carelessly moves two boards to the right of center, the result might be that his ball comes in too deep, meaning the ball hits the number-one pin too solidly.

A great many bowling establishments in this country have installed range-finder markings to assist the bowler in locating his proper starting position on the approach, his proper finishing position at the foul line, and the correct target a few feet down the alley from the foul line.

Even where these range-finder markings are unavailable, the bowler can always determine where his proper starting position, finishing position and target should be by noting an off-color or discolored board in the alley or the approach.

High scores come from consistency, and consistency means repeating the same movements over and over again with no appreciable change.

When you've found the starting position from which you can deliver the ball into the pocket, be certain to take that same position each time on that alley, or you'll suffer from inconsistency.

GROOVE — Inconsistency in scores comes from bowler's different starting positions on approach. (NEA)

100 CYO Members Shoot Fouls, Are At Church Meal

Almost 100 members of the CYO Grade School Basketball League took part yesterday in the annual foul shooting contest at the MJM School gymnasium.

The contest was preceded by a Communion breakfast at Immaculate Conception Church with the Rev. Joseph Sieczek, pastor, as the Mass celebrant. The choir was composed of girls of the school. Breakfast was served in the school by Immaculate Conception Mothers' Club.

Competing in the contest were boys from St. Mary's, Saugerties; St. Colman's, East Kingston; St. Peter's, St. Joseph's, St. Mary's and Immaculate Conception parishes, all of Kingston. The contest was under the direction of Bill Mahoney with Ronnie Sheffel and "Slim" Madajewski as scorers.

Eighty-five pound class—First, Peter Esposito, St. Mary's, 18 out of 25; second, Frank Weishaupt, St. Peter's, 15 out of 25.

One hundred pound class—First Arthur Fiore, St. Mary's, Saugerties, 15 out of 25; second, Thomas Mooney, Immaculate Conception, 12 out of 25.

Junior division—First, Robert Burns, Immaculate Conception, 19 out of 25; second, Frank Turck, Immaculate Conception, 17 out of 25.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE

An amendment to rate schedule P.S.C. No. 11—Electricity issued February 6, 1953 to become effective March 10, 1953 adds General Regulations 4A Temporary Service. This rule provides that the company will furnish any facilities (including the extensions, transformers, service connections and meters) necessary to supply electricity for construction purposes on other nonrecurring uses of limited duration for a charge equivalent to the estimated cost of installing and removing these facilities and of any material installed which cannot be reused. Such estimated cost is to be based on the actual cost of similar work recently performed by the company.

Teams to Decide Semi-finals on Wednesday Night

Their victory last night put St. Joseph's basketeers in the finals of the City Recreation Department Senior League Shaungnessy playoff, but the Village Rest must meet Sickler's Delivery again in their semi-finals bid.

St. Joseph's quintet, which upset the Violets last week, came through last night with a 58-40 win over the same club in the games at George Washington School.

The Village Rest failed to repeat over the Sickler's, who posted a 62-58 victory to knot the standing at 1-1.

Wednesday, the Villagers and Deliverymen will meet at 7:30 in the Myron J. Michael gym to decide which club will oppose St. Joseph's next Monday in a best two out of three finals series.

The high scorers for St. Josephs were Smith (22), Secreto (20); Violets, Peters (13), Woods (9).

Sickler was high man for the entire night in contributing 24 to his team's efforts over the Villagers, and B. Bondar supported him with 14.

J. Amato and V. Van Bramer were high for Village Rest with 16 and 12.

'Spring' Practice Already

New York (AP) — Blame it on the new rule limiting substitutions but several colleges are having spring football practice this month. Texas, Southwest Conference champion, started Feb. 4 at Austin, Tex. Coach Ed Price plans 18 drills to be concluded with a game-condition intra-squad scrimmage on Feb. 26. Tulane is another school that has issued the call.

Bassett After All European Boxers

Paris, Feb. 24 (AP)—With two victories in France under his belt, Percy Bassett of Philadelphia today was preparing to move around in Europe to pick up as many purses as he can against local heroes who are willing to risk almost certain defeat.

Bassett polished off Auguste Caulet, former French lightweight champion, last night with a fifth round technical knockout.

Two weeks ago in the same sports palace ring he battered Ray Famechon so severely in three rounds that the Frenchman couldn't come out for the fourth.

At one minute of the fifth, Bassett landed a short left to the stomach. Caulet went down and rose to one knee at the count of three.

But as the referee reached the full count and Caulet struggled to his feet, a towel came sailing in from the Frenchman's corner, and that ended it.

Five Alarms Sounded

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—A factory fire in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn early today sent up tongues of flame and clouds of white smoke that were visible for miles. Five alarms brought 135 firemen and 35 pieces of fire apparatus to the plant of the Supreme Knitting Machines, Inc., at 105 Johnson avenue, an industrial section, with no residential buildings nearby. The fire started on the third floor of the five-story building and spread rapidly. Firemen worked three hours before it was brought under control. Firemen said the interior of the building was burned out. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Gatun Lake, Panama, was formed by building Gatun dam across the valley of the Chagres river.

Rain, Sleet, Snow Reported in Southwest

(By The Associated Press)

Rain, sleet and snow pelted areas over southern and southwestern states today but it was dry and mild over the northern half of the country from Wisconsin to New York.

Snowstorms whipped the mountain areas of southern California while in the lowlands fairly heavy rain ended a 40-day winter drouth.

There was a wide belt of precipitation from the gulf through Texas northward into Kansas and eastward along the gulf through southern sections of the South Atlantic states. A mixture of snow, sleet and rain was reported from northern Texas into Kansas. Snow falls measured two inches in Childress, Tex., and Hebron, Okla.

16-Inch Snowfall

But snow measured up to 16 inches in some parts of the winter playground areas of the San Bernardino (Calif.) mountains. Heavy falls also were reported yesterday in the San Gabriel, and Cuyamaca and Leguna mountains and on Mt. Palomar.

Rainfall was general south of Fresno, Calif. The fall measuring about one-quarter inch at Los Angeles was the first in 40 days.

There was no severe cold throughout the country. However, temperatures were below seasonal levels west of the Rockies and in the wet belt in the south and southeast sections except southeast sections except southern Florida. It was below freezing—31 above—early today in Sandberg, Calif.

Rent Plan . . .

commission, announced postponement of a commission hearing from today until next Monday. He said he thought the new rent program would be ready by that time.

Stephens told a reporter he "doubted" the new bill would permit localities to decontrol rents in their areas, under a local-option rule.

Stephens' commission has authorized all of the previous Dewey administration rent laws.

While the rent enigma stole the spotlight on Capitol Hill for the moment, lawmakers had other major obstacles to hurdle before adjournment next month.

One of these was Dewey's demand that all vehicles be required to carry liability insurance coverage. The measure was given a so-so chance of survival, despite bitter opposition from some GOP lawmakers and most stock insurance companies.

Another prime issue was the governor's plan to force twice-a-year inspections of all cars at state-operated stations. It appeared headed for defeat for the second straight year, in the face of unenthusiastic support from GOP legislative leaders. The administration bill is dormant in the fiscal committees of both Houses.

The lawmakers apparently will not have to tackle the politically explosive job of reapportioning Senate and Assembly districts. The governor and his GOP aides were reported to have agreed Sunday that a special session would be convened later this year to take care of that.

May Not Be Decided

The highly publicized plan of the Board of Regents to set up a 10-station television network under state supervision for educational purposes also may not be decided this year. The Federal Communications Commission has reserved channels for educational TV, but only until next June.

At least four other issues faced the lawmakers for decision.

These included Dewey's request for a state-wide probe of the courts: His plan to force localities to take over temporary technical institutes in Buffalo, Utica, White Plains, and Binghamton; a series of anti-crime measures still to be advanced by the State Crime Commission, and approval or rejection of the controversial Ostrander amendment, which would ban construction of flood-control dams in the state's forest preserve.

The last-named measure is a proposed constitutional change approved by the 1951 Legislature. It would have to be cleared again by the lawmakers and approved by the voters before it could take effect.

20 Participate In Crops Program

Approximately 20 county residents are participating in a New York State Crop Reporting Service census of fruit trees and production now in progress in the Hudson Valley fruit region.

The area surveyed will include 27 townships in Ulster, Columbia, Dutchess, and Orange counties.

The survey, conducted jointly by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the State Crop Reporting Service, is designed to obtain accurate information that will help fruit growers plan their plantings and marketing programs. Long term planning is important especially to apple growers, since apple trees do not come into production for a decade after planting.

Are Making Census

Local persons in each county are making the census. In Ulster county, about 20 persons have been assigned to the work.

They interview fruit growers to get information about the number of trees by age and variety, and the methods of disposal of the 1952 crop. Questions are asked about the number of young trees not yet bearing, trees removed during the past two winters, and acreage of orchard not now sprayed or cared for.

A headquarters for census takers of this county has been set up at the Highland High School, where Walter Campbell, representing the State Crop Reporting Service, meets daily with the workers to receive their reports and advise on specific aspects of the work.

Information gathered will be made available after tabulation to various educational agencies to help growers with their program planning.

The survey is similar to those made in western New York through the past four years by the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Extension of the work to the Hudson Valley was requested by the New York State Horticultural Society, other growers' organizations and individual farmers.

To Take 3 to 4 Weeks

The survey expected to be completed in three or four weeks.

Townships in Ulster county to be included in the census are Esopus, Lloyd, New Paltz, Marlborough, Plattekill, Gardiner and Shawangunk.

Columbia county townships to be surveyed are Stuyvesant, Kinderhook, Stockport, Ghent, Greenport, Claverack, Livingston, Germantown and Clermont. Those in Dutchess county are Red Hook, Milan, Rhinebeck, Hyde Park, Pleasant Valley, Poughkeepsie, LaGrange, Wappinger, East Fishkill and Beekman. In Orange county, the town of Newburgh will be surveyed.

Marine Pilot Saved by 'Copter

Seoul, Feb. 24 (AP)—A U. S. Air Force helicopter today braved Communist gunfire and snatched to safety a marine pilot downed 60 miles behind the Red lines.

Corsair fighter-bombers buzzed angrily overhead, their chattering guns driving back frantic efforts by Communist infantrymen to capture the leatherneck flier.

The Reds couldn't get close, but their shells repeatedly hit the 'copter as it hovered one foot off the ground to rescue Maj. David Cleeland of Santa Ana, Calif.

Cleeland was hit in the ankle. Another Communist bullet pierced the hand of Airman 2/c Thomas C. Thornton of Hempstead, Tex., an air force medic. Thornton got his when he reached out to pull Cleeland into the 'copter.

Police Catch Boys They Report Broke Into Gas Station

Police reported that two boys, 12 and 10 years of age, who broke into the Cities Service Gas Station at Broadway and Delaware avenue Friday evening, were picked up at 10:50 p. m. yesterday by Officers Crespino and Loughran inside St. Mary's School.

They were apprehended, police said, when a call was received from the wife of the janitor at the school reporting that someone was in the fourth grade room with a flashlight. Police said the boys were turned over to their parents or guardians.

Mossadegh Meets To Settle Dispute

Tehran, Iran, Feb. 24 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh met with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi today, apparently in an attempt to settle a major dispute that reportedly has developed recently between the government and the royal court.

Mossadegh had been reported preparing a radio broadcast to the nation charging the court had intrigued against him. He also was said to be planning to ask for a referendum of the Iranian people on his government.

The premier and the Shah met at 9 a. m. and at 1 p. m. were still conferring.

Thousands Visit Area Over Holiday

It was almost "July Fourth in February" as thousands of persons visited or toured Ulster county during the long, sunny weekend.

For many persons, observing Monday as a holiday because Washington's Birthday came on Sunday, the weekend extended to last night.

From four o'clock Monday afternoon into the evening, area highways—particularly the Onteora Trail—were reported jammed with autos, many of them bearing New Jersey or metropolitan New York license plates.

Adirondack Trailways reported it ran nine sections on its southbound bus schedule leaving Kingston about 5 p. m., and another seven sections on the 8 p. m. schedule.

J. W. Vaughn, Rosendale druggist and mayor of the village, said today that the "entire town of Rosendale was well populated. It was comparable almost to a Fourth of July weekend."

Seemed Like Summer

Cpl. Ray Dunn, Phoenicia state policeman, said accommodations in that area were "filled up." On Saturday, the warmest of the weekend days, "it was just like summer, with people walking around the village without topcoats," he said.

Ski enthusiasts, however, reported disappointment with ski conditions, which were only good in some shaded spots.

On Saturday, the temperature in Kingston reached a high of 72 degrees at 2 p. m., according to the recording thermometer at the city engineer's office. Sunday and Monday were colder, with highs of 38 and 44 degrees recorded, but all three days were clear and sunny.

Bell System Adds 2 Million Phones

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—The Bell Telephone System added two million telephones in 1952 to bring its total in service to 39,400,000, the annual report said today.

The Bell System, consisting of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and its principal telephone subsidiaries which operate about four-fifths of the nation's telephones, had net income of $418,461,886 for the year compared with $375,612,955 in 1951.

Of this, $406,661,806 or $11.45 a share was applicable to A. T. and T. stock in 1952 against $364,874,176 or $11.76 a share in 1951. The remainder went to minority stockholders of several of the subsidiaries not wholly owned by A. T. and T.

The parent A. T. and T. company had net income of $358,493,204 or $10.09 a share compared with $326,944,708 or $10.54 a share in 1951. Earnings of subsidiaries are reflected in A. T. and T. income only to the extent they are received as dividends.

A. T. and T had an average of 35,528,000 shares of stock outstanding in 1952, or 4,500,000 more than in 1951. At year-end it has 1,220,000 stockholders, a gain of 128,000 during the year.

NLRB Chairman Asks End of Oath

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The chairman of the National Labor Relations Board asked Congress today to do away with the non-Communist oath required by the Taft-Hartley law.

Instead, Paul M. Herzog told the House Labor committee, the job of investigating Communist leadership in labor organizations should be given to some outside tribunal such as the Subversive Activities Control Board.

The labor committee is studying proposed amendments to the Taft-Hartley law. The act requires all union officers to swear they are not Communists before the union is recognized by the NLRB.

Herzog said in his prepared statement that the NLRB has found the provision less and less effective "as those at whom it was aimed have devised newer techniques to circumvent it."

"We do not believe that this board, whose other responsibilities preclude its becoming sufficiently expert in the delicate field of subversive activities, would be the most effective instrument for that attack," he said.

Boy Hit by Car

Alfred Goeller of 306 Clinton avenue reported to police at 3:15 p. m. yesterday that he was driving his 1950 sedan near Crown and Main streets when a boy about 10 years old ran into the side of his car. He said the boy claimed he was uninjured and refused to give his name. Police reported later that the boy's name was Jerry Pidgar of Port Ewen.

British Will Trim Operating Costs

London, Feb. 24 (AP)—Britain's Conservative government plans to trim more than 700 million dollars off the cost of running its departments during the coming fiscal year. But the saving will be offset, in part at least, by a jump in the cost of the nation's armed forces and by other as-yet-unannounced spending.

The figures were disclosed last night in Chancellor R. A. Butler's estimate of funds to be alloted government departments in the national budget for the 1953-54 fiscal year. It begins Easter Sunday. The budget is to be announced just before.

Butler predicted a slash of 254 million pounds ($711,200,000) in the expenses of the civil ministries and the defense department. Mounting rearmament costs, however, will face in increase of 109 million pounds ($305,200,000) in the cost of army, navy and air forces.

No Exact Calculation

Although these estimates indicate there will be some drop in the total cost of the government, there is no way of calculating the exact amount yet. The estimates do not include the cost of servicing the national debt—expected to be up during the coming year because interest rates are rising.

Also it is normal for the government to introduce supplementary estimates for various departments after the financial year has started.

Butler announced he would ask for 2,457,401,323 pounds ($6,880,723,704) to run the government's civil ministries, revenue departments and defense ministry during the coming fiscal year. The armed forces are down for another 1,493,000,000 pounds ($4,180,400,000).

The biggest cuts were made in the estimates on food and food subsidy costs—trimmed 165 million pounds (462 million dollars), chiefly as a result of the decontrol eggs, wheat, flour and animal feeds—and the nation's social health service. This is to be cut 22½ million pounds (63 million dollars).

White House Says

He said he probably would accept the job.

Johnson's title will be acting director of the International Information Service—or IIA. This is a division of the State Department.

With Own Recommendations

It was expected that Johnson would come up with his own recommendations as to whether he wanted to make IIA, and the "Voice of America," a separate agency, outside the jurisdiction of the State Department. Such suggestions have been advanced in the past.

Eisenhower's press chief, James C. Hagerty, told newsmen of Johnson's appointment not long after the Philadelphia educator called at the White House. Johnson conferred with Eisenhower and Dulles yesterday.

The White House said:

"Dr. Johnson told the President and the secretary of state that of course he wanted to do anything in his power which the President and the secretary felt might be of assistance to them and the administration.

"He has agreed to come to Washington for the next few months to familiarize himself with the present organization of the information service."

Johnson said he expects his study to take about "30 or maybe 40 days."

Testimony Expected In Swedish Case

Stockholm, Sweden, Feb. 24 (AP)—More testimony was expected today in the hearing of an appeal from a man who was sentenced to eight years at hard labor for "gross blackmail" of the late King Gustav V. The former monarch died in 1950 at the age of 92.

High palace officials told the court of appeals yesterday how large sums of money were paid out of royal funds to buy the silence of Kurt Haijby, 57. Haijby was convicted of blackmailing the late king in a secret trial last December.

The case is being reheard at Haijby's request on undisclosed grounds. Much of the testimony in the present hearing is being presented in open court with only a minor part of the proceedings secret.

The court was told last week that Haijby's wife had requested a divorce because of relations between the late king and her husband. She reportedly had charged Haijby with "unfaithfullness."

Dr. Carl August Rabe, a psychiatrist at Beckomberga Mental Hospital, testified yesterday he had been told Haijby had extorted a "quarter of a million crowns" ($48,375) from the royal court. Rabe said he had been told this by Goteborg Police Chief Ernst Fontell, who had asked him to keep Haijby under observation in 1938.

"Fontell told me that this, in his view, was the biggest blackmail case in Swedish history," Rabe said.

Chinese Approve Cabinet's Action

The step was a mere formality, but it completed the process by which President Chiang Kai-shek's government formally scrapped the already meaningless treaty.

Chester Arthur, born in Fairfield, Vt., had a birthplace farther north than that of any other U. S. President.

Queen Presents Medals at Palace

London, Feb. 24 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II bestowed medals and awards on 260 persons today at an investiture at Buckingham Palace. Emphasis was placed on men who have served heroically in the Korean war.

It was the third investiture of the coronation year. The queen met those she decorated in the state ballroom. Hatless, she wore a dress of royal blue velvet, with a high neck line and elbow length sleeves.

Vice Adm. Charles Lambe, commander in chief of the royal navy's far eastern station, was invested with the insignia of a Knight Commander of the Bath. Brig. John M. Rockingham, 42-year-old commander of Canada's 25th Infantry Regiment, the first Canadian contingent in Korea, was made a Companion of the Order of the Bath.
